NEW SHOOTINGS, FIRE BOMBINGS BREAK OUT AT JACKSONVILLE

Florida City Scene of More Racial Violence—Negro Dies in Crash After Exchange of Fire.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 30 (AP)—Shootings and fire bombings broke out anew early today and brought the first fatality of the wave of racial violence that began Saturday.

A man identified as Charlie Edward Javis, 27 years old, a Jacksonville Negro released from prison only three days ago, was killed after police returned gunfire from his automobile and it crashed into a utility pole. Another Negro in the car was injured. Police said neither man was shot and the death and injury were caused by the crash.

The policemen were at a filling station investigating an earlier shooting when bullets were fired from the Negroes' car. The officers returned the fire and the car crashed into the pole a block away.

Out to 'Raise Hell.'

The passenger in the car, who told police he is Willie Green, 44, of Jacksonville, said he did not know the driver but met him in a bar and they decided to go out and "raise hell."

Green had head injuries which were not believed to be serious.

An attendant on duty at the service station narrowly escaped injury. A bullet hit a pistol he was carrying because of the recent disorders and punctured a can of oil he had in his pocket.

Fire bombs—kerosene filled glass bottles with wicks—caused about $4800 damage to an appliance store, a grocery and a dry cleaning shop, all in Negro areas. Another fire bomb broke a window at a furniture warehouse, but fell outside and burned harmlessly.

The new violence in this city of 200,000 population erupted after an unusually quiet Monday which followed a weekend of fighting and vandalism.

A small cross was burned in a suburban white neighborhood where a Negro man sleeps in a garage room behind his employer's house.

There were dozens of cases of violence over the weekend in which white and Negro bands fought on downtown streets and at least 65 persons were injured.

Offer by Ministers.

The city's ministers have volunteered to mediate differences between white and Negro segments of the population in an effort to restore peace.

Mayor Haydon Burns, who has steadfastly refused to form a biracial committee, said if the ministers do form such a group, "it will be void of any sanction of any official, including the Mayor."

The Mayor has invoked emergency police powers for the city, barring street gatherings of more than four persons and unnecessary automobile traffic.

Ten days of Negro sit-ins and picketing at downtown lunch counters preceded the weekend of violence.

Prisoners in Clash.

A white youth who picketed Saturday with the Negroes, Richard F. Parker, 25, was injured by another prisoner in the bullpen of the city jail yesterday after Parker was sentenced

NIXON WORKS IN HOSPITAL DESPITE INFECTED KNEE

Talks With Campaign Staff — Plans to Dictate Speeches — Injured Aug. 17 by Bump Against Auto.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon put in some work today at Walter Reed Army Hospital on his presidential campaign.

The Republican National Committee said Nixon, who was admitted to the hospital yesterday for treatment of an infected knee, spent the morning on paper work and conferred by telephone with his campaign staff. It said he planned to dictate some letters and speeches in the afternoon.

"He is feeling fine and is in good spirits," a campaign aid said.

Nixon bumped his left knee against a car door in Greensboro, N.C., Aug. 17. The infection developed from this minor injury.

Mrs. Nixon visited the Vice President last night and plans another visit today.

The White House said President Eisenhower planned to visit Nixon, but it had no information as to when. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower had asked him to tell reporters he hopes the Vice President will have "a quick recovery."

The committee said Nixon still has no fever or other complications.

"He's never been sick with it," an aid said.

His press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, said the hospital treatment was a precautionary measure to prevent permanent injury to the knee.

Nixon is to keep off his feet. He is in the hospital's presidential suite, where President Eisenhower recuperated from two major illnesses.

The unexpected change of plans forced cancellation of a number of appearances the Vice President had arranged for the next two weeks.

Nixon had kept a series of appointments yesterday and, although he mentioned the injury, he had said it would not interfere with his campaigning. He told reporters the skin on his knee was broken and a lump had formed.

Tests made after fluid was withdrawn from the knee Saturday disclosed what Klein said

FBI FINDS SOME CLUES IN KILLING OF WAITRESS

Abandoned Farm House, Yard Searched — Details Not Released.

By DAVID R. WALLIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HERRIN, Ill., Aug. 30 — A painstaking search of an abandoned farm house near here turned up "several items," agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said today as the search for the kidnaper and killer of Miss Mary Lillis Ellen Roberts continued.

Robert D. Gibbons, head of the FBI office at Springfield, who flew here to take charge of the investigation, said his agents made a board-by-board search of the house and a thorough search of the weed-choked yard, working through last night. He declined to say what clues were found.

"I can't tell you what was found," he said. "We don't want to tip off any suspects."

Search of the farm property was completed today, Gibbons said, and he planned to fly back to Springfield. He will direct the continuing investigation from there.

Meanwhile, police departments in communities in the area are checking files in an effort to find former prisoners whose descriptions resemble that of the killer.

Miss Roberts, 17-year-old waitress of Carbondale, was kidnaped early last Thursday from her fiance's automobile in a lovers's lane overlooking Crab Orchand lake. Her body was found Sunday by picnickers in a well at the old farm house two miles north of Herrin and 18 miles northeast of Crab Orchard lake.

Her fiance, John Bryant, a barber, was shot in the face by the tall, blond man who kidnaped Miss Roberts. Bryant was in fair condition today in Doctors Hospital, Carbondale.

FBI agents, it was learned, found a .32 caliber cartridge case at the farm house. The case was sent to the FBI laboratories in Washington for analysis.

Dr. Lewis Rossiter, a pathologist of Carbondale, who performed an autopsy on Miss Roberts's body yesterday, said death was caused by a bullet wound of the head. She had not drowned. The bullet taken from her head also was turned over to the FBI.

GOLDWASSER FOUND GUILTY OF LOAN FRAUD

Convicted of Making False Application to Small Business Administration.

Bernard S. Goldwasser, proprietor of a bankrupt Clayton clothing store, was found guilty today of making a false application for a Small Business Administration loan.

The jury of 10 men and two women in the court of the United States District Judge Randolph H. Webe, deliberated 50 minutes before reaching the verdict of guilty.

Judge Weber gave Goldwater until Sept. 9 to file any appropriate motions. The court did not pronounce sentence. Minimum sentence for the offense is a two-year prison and $5000 fine.

Goldwasser, operator of the Colony of the County Inc., had insisted durin gthe trial that loans totaling $12,500 made to him before he applied for the $15,000 federal loan had been personal rather than corporate loans. For that reason, he contended, it was not necessary to list them as corporate liabilities on the application for the federal loan, and their absence was not a fraud.

Mrs. Goldwasser, supporting her husband's testimony, testified, "Our friends gave us this money to help us."

"We did not consider it a loan to the company," she said. "We personally owe them—we still owe them." She explained one of the loans was made during a "pot luck" supper.

The three lenders testified the loans were made in 1955. They are Roderick Lewin, Alfred Petchaft, both of St. Louis, and Louis Spitzer of Miami.

Goldwasser said he regarded the loans as personal obligations and not corporate liabilities. He said he "contributed" the money to the corporation as a personal investment and that it represented about half of the $26,600 shown as capital stock in the application for the SBA loan

Mrs. Ruby Koelling, St. Louis branch manager of SBA, testified Goldwasser obtained the $15,000 loan for his company in the fall of 1956. The original application was turned down because it lacked the corporate seal. When this defect was remedied the loan was granted, she said. The application did not show the loans from the three friends of Goldwasser, she said.

U.S. Building World's Largest Radar With 18-Acre Antenna

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI)—The United States has begun construction in Puerto Rico of the world's largest radar, capable of bouncing signals off Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The Defense Department said yesterday the new radar also may detect signals originating billions of light years from earth.

The instrument's dish-shaped antenna, 1000 feet in diameter, will cover 18 acres. The construction, on a site 10 miles south of Arecibo, is to be completed in the fall of 1961 at a cost of $5,500,000.

The radar will send and receive signals. Among the problems expected to be solved are the rate of rotation for Venus, not now known because of the planet's dense cloud cover, and the source of mysterious waves that appear to come from a belt of powerful radiation around Jupiter.

CONFEREES FAIL AGAIN TO REACH AGREEMENT ON MINIMUM WAGE

Joint Committee Will Make New Attempt — House Signifies Opposition to Rise in Foreign Aid.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Congress sought today to clear its decks for adjournment later this week, but differences over minimum wage legislation and foreign aid money remained to be settled.

A fourth meeting of a conference committee this morning failed to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions of the minimum wage bill.

The failure to reach agreement appeared to increase the possibility that minimum wage legisaltion will be shelved in the current short session, but the conferees said they would meet again this afternoon to make another try at reaching a settlement.

If the minimum wage bill is abandoned, Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, the Democratic presidential candidate, hsa made it celar he will take the issue to the voters in the fall election campaign.

Compromise Loses.

Kennedy told reporters after the morning session that House conferees had rejected a compromise offered by Senator Winston L. Prouty (Rep.), Vermont.

Prouty's plan contained a formula to bring about new Wages and Hours Act coverage for 3,100,000 additional workers, compared with 4,000,000 in the Senate bill and 1,400,000 in the House version.

The Senate bill, sponsored by Kennedy, calls for an increase in the present $1 an hour wage floor to $1.25 in three steps. The House measure fixes a $1.15 minimum.

The compromise did not contain anything on the minimum wage figure, but Kennedy said it was understood that if the coverage formula were accepted, the Senate conferees would agree to the $1.15 minimum.

Foreign Aid Funds.

Another fight appeared possible over the $190,000,000 in foreign aid funds restored yesterday by the Senate at the urging of the Eisenhower Administration.

The House signified its opposition to the added foreign aid funds today by sending to conference the general appropriations bill which includes the $190,000,000.

Representative H. R. Gross (Rep.), Iowa, objected to the bill's going to conference but withdrew his objection on being assured that the House members would not yield fully to the Senate's action.

In brief House discussion there was criticism of the Senate for switching its position so quickly on foreign aid funds after having agreed with the House last week on a $265,000,000 cut.

In its drive toward adjournment, the Senate yesterday completed action on a compromise bill authorizing a limited federal program of medical and hospital

VANDALS DAMAGE PRACTICE GREEN AT COUNTRY CLUB

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Vandals damaged extensively a practice putting green last night at the North Shore Country Club, 11050 Riverview drive, Edward G. Komlosy, club president, reported today.

Komlosy said an automobile was driven onto the green and the wheels spun repeatedly in the soft turf. Ruts four inches deep were made, causing damage estimated by Komlosy at $3500.

The club president said the vandalism was the second such incident at the club in a week. Last Monday night, he said, the green on the seventh hole was gouged by shoe heels.

Komlosy offered a reward of $25 for information leading to the conviction of those responsible for last night's damage.

U.N. READY TO TAKE OVER BIG BELGIAN BASE TO KEEP LUMUMBA FROM USING IT

COMBAT TROOPS FROM EUROPEAN NATION FLOWN OUT OF KATANGA

Congo Soldiers Said to Be Battling Kasai Tribal Warriors Backing Secessionist Move.

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo, Aug. 30 (AP)—United Nations forces planned to take over control of Belgium's big Kamina military base in Katanga Province today.

The last combat company of 200 Belgian soldiers and their equipment was withdrawn from Katanga province today, leaving only about 600 army technicians at the Kamina base.

Two months ago the Belgians had about 4000 troops in the province.

At a farewell ceremony the commander, Co. Lucien Champion, wished his men luck and thanked them for their work in protecting white residents of Katanga.

Landing at Kamina.

The troops embarked in two Globemasters and one Hercules of the United States Military Air Transport Service.

The planes landed for a short time at Kamina, in the north of the province, to pick up a few more troops and then headed for Belgium.

Under an agreement between the U.N. and Belgium, only U.N. troops will use Kamina's $100,000,000 worth of facilities, including one of the biggest runways in Africa. The idea is to keep troops of Premier Patrice Lumumba from using the base as an invasion point against Katanga's secessionist premier, Moise Tshombe.

Lumumba faced a new challenge today in Kasai province where his soldiers were reported battling tribal warriors backing the secessionist move there. News of the fighting was confused.

Counter Attack Reported.

Kasai Premier Pascual Ngalula told Belgian News Agency that Baluba tribesmen had counter-attacked with bows, arrows and spears against several hundred Congolese army troops. Lumumba's soldiers thrust into Kasai's rebellious "Mineral State" area three days ago and captured its capital, Bakwanga.

But authorities in nearby Katanga said any talk of a counter-offensive by the tribal warriors was propaganda put out by the anti-Lumumba leaders seeking recognition of their independence movement.

However, a Katanga military station monitored a radio appeal from Bakwanga to Leopoldville asking for transport to fly out 10 wounded men. This seemed to support reports of violence in the area.

Lumumba's invasion of Kasai previously had been virtually bloodless, with no serious fighting reported.

The Congolese troops in Kasai are threatening to invade Katanga in an effort to crush Tshombe's resistance to the rule of Lumumba's central government. The Katanga army commander in the small rail and farming town of Kaniama, near Kasai's border, said every road and rail line leading into Katanga along the 800-mile frontier has been mined or blocked.

Other Strips Blocked.

Oil drums also block the airstrips at Kaniama and other fields along the frontier to prevent unwanted planes landing.

The commander at Kaniama, which is about 500 miles from Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, said Congo army patrols were reported moving along the Lubilash river, which forms part of the frontier. Reconnaissance pilots said small numbers of Congo troops had been spotted around Luputa, 20 miles inside Kasai.

A company of Belgian soldiers previously stationed at Kaniama have been replaced by Ethiopian U.N. troops. Belgian armer vigilantes guarded the airstrip.

"We have machine guns and grenades as well," said one Bel-

DEFECTORS SAID TO HAVE TAKEN CODE DATA ALONG

McCormack Calls Loss Far More Serious Than Any Official Has Admitted.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Two missing employes of the National Security Agency, presumed to have defected to Russia, were reported today to have taken "valuable cryptographic information" with them.

Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the House Democratic leader, said he had learned this from usually reliable sources. He declared the loss of cryptographic information "is far more serious than any official has publicly admitted."

McCormack made the statements in a letter to Representative Francis E. Walter (Dem.), of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He asked that the committee make an investigation of the case of Bernon F. Mitchell and William N. Martin.

Analysts Since 1957.

Mitchell, 31 years old, of Eureka, Calif., and Martin, 29, of Ellensburg, Wash., had been employed since 1957 as mathematical analysts at the National Security Agency at nearby Fort Meade, Md. The supersecret defense unit intercepts radio signals and works on communications intelligence.

In late June, Mitchell and Martin, bachelors and close friends, advised agency officials they were going to visit their families. Nothing more has been heard from them directly, but their movements have been traced first to Mexico and then to Cuba. The Pentagon said early this month that it now presumes they have gone behind the Iron Curtain.

Contact Since December.

McCormack said in his letter to Walter that there was reason to believe the two men may have been in contact with Soviet agents since last December. He further told Walter:

"Information furnished me from usually reliable sources leaves no doubt that the two employes have defected to Russia, that they took valuable cryptographic information with them, and its loss is far more serious than any offical has publicly admitted.

"It is my understanding that the two employes were involved with Soviet and other foreign codes and that they know a great deal about the machinery and procedure pertaining to such codes and that their knowledge and experience in this highly specialized field would be extremely valuable to the Kremlin."

PRESIDENT TELLS HOW CHURCHILL LOST 67-CENT BET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI)—President Eisenhower recalled last night how he won a 67-cent wartime bet from British Prime Minister Churchill. Mr. Eisenhower recounted the incident at a lawn party which he and Mrs. Eisenhower gave at the White House for members of the American and British Bar Associations.

The bet came up after Mr. Eisenhower shook hands with John K. Platt of Southport, England, who said he was a member of the First British Division in World War II. That division took part in the invasion of Pantelleria, an island near Sicily, in 1943. Gen. Eisenhower was Allied commander-in-chief in North Africa at the time.

The President said that Churchill bet him there were not more than 3000 Italians on the island. Gen Eisenhower said there were 10,000. The Allied forces captured 11,000 Italians and Gen. Eisenhower won the bet. However, the President said the bet was made in Italian currency and when this was converted to American money he found he had won only 67 cents.

40 OF 63 BODIES RECOVERED FROM FRENCH AIRLINER

DAKAR, Senegal, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Forty bodies have been recovered from the wreckage of the Air France Super-Constellation that plunged into the ocean off Dakar yesterday, killing all 63 persons aboard.

Frogmen continued at work today in an effort to find more bodies, believed trapped in the wreckage. The plane lies on the ocean bottom in 60 feet of water a mile from shore.

Among the 55 passengers and eight crewmen were a Canadian resident of Connecticut, at least one Briton, a Dutchman, a Greek family and several Frenchmen. The other passengers were Africans.

TITAN MISSILE 5000-MILE TEST FIRING IS SUCCESS

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Aug. 30 (AP)—A powerful Titan missile sped 5000 miles today in the second straight success for the operational prototype of this intercontinental range weapon.

The Air Force reported the 98-foot giant achieved all flight test objectives in putting its tactical-type nose cone in a preselected impact area in the south Atlantic. The Titan, propelled at speeds up to 15,000 miles an hour, covered the distance in about 25 minutes.

Ships and planes began an immediate search for a data capsule that ejected from the cone and parachuted into the water.

RED PRESS SAYS CONGO ARMY HAS COMMUNIST AID

100 Russian Trucks Reported Sent to Interior — Invasion Units Prepared.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, Aug. 30 (AP)—Communist newspaper men hinted today that the Congolese army is getting Communist help in its efforts to strike down secession movements in The Congo.

Amid reports of preparations for war against rebellious Katanga province, the correspondents said 100 Soviet trucks, which arrived last week, have been dispatched to the interior.

The hottest spot in the interior right now is Kasai province adjoining Katanaga. There soldiers of Premier Patrice Lumumba are reported battling Baluba warriors backing a secession campaign. There was talk of troop concentrations in areas bordering Katanga.

Information reaching Leopoldville from Kasai indicates that foreign experts are helping the Congolese assemble mobile invasion units. Their nationality was not specified.

Czechs Reported in Area.

Unconfirmed reports spoke of a group of Czechoslovak officers who allegedly arrived in The Congo last week.

"I can assure you the Congolese are not doing it themselves," a Soviet source said.

Albert Kalonji, head of the secession movement in Kasai, charged last week that three Czechoslovak officers led The Congo forces that captured the diamond center of Bakwanga, capital of his "Mineral State." He said they arrived in The Congo disguised as technicians.

Mystery shrouded activity in the giant Congolese army camp Leopold II in Leopoldville. Various reports indicate that more than 100 Russians are in the camp. Congolese Information Minister Anicet Kashamura confirmed that some Russians on various missions are housed in the camp.

Lumumba Praised.

According to a Communist source willing to talk to westerners, Soviet reporters have been asked to stay out of bars and restaurants here and make themselves generally inconspicious.

Soviet and other Communist correspondents continued writing

Helps Rival for Seat in House Get Out of Army to Make Race

ST. HELENS, Ore., Aug. 30 (AP) — A Democratic nominee for Congress is getting out of the Army with the aid of the Republican incumbent he will oppose. He is Pvt. Marvin Owens, who was ordered discharged yesterday by Army Secretary Wilber B. Brucker.

Officials at Fort Ord, Calif., previously had denied Owens's requests for a discharge. Owens, who entered the service in November 1958, then took his case to Representative Edith Green (Dem.), Ore.

She appealed to Representative Walter Norblad (Rep), Ore., a 15-year congressional veteran whom Owens will try to unseat in the November election. Norblad and Mrs. Green asked Brucker to move up Owens's scheduled November discharge so Owens could campaign. They got quick action.

Owens will need more than just campaign time to beat the popular Norblad. The congressional district never has elected a Democrat.

BAR ASSOCIATION SPLIT OVER U.S. RESERVATIONS ON WORLD COURT

Convention Debate Set Off by Eisenhower When He Urges Repeal of Connally Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) —The American Bar Association found itself sharply split today on an international issue expected to produce fireworks in the lawyers' convention here.

President Eisenhower touched off debate on the issue yesterday when he called for repeal of the so-called Connally amendment in a speech to the opening session of the association's eighty-third annual meeting.

He said repeal of the amendment, which permits this country to decide what disputes it will submit to arbitration of the World Court, "cannot possibly hurt us."

Discussion of the issue had begun even before the opening of the convention, attended by several thousand American attorneys and 1500 visiting British colleagues.

In 1947, the association took a stand in favor of repealing the reservation on jurisdiction of the World Court. It is due to vote later in the week on a resolution reaffirming the United States position.

Opposed by Nixon Backer.

Opposed to the resolution is a group headed by Charles S. Rhyne, head of Volunteers for Nixon, and Arthur Dean, chief United States representative in the Korean truce talks.

Whitney North Seymour, a New York attorney, was elected president of the association today by its 249-member House of Delegates. The policy-making body named John C. Satterfield of Yazoo City, Miss., as president-elect, to take office next year.

John D. Randall, outgoing president, told 4000 attorneys newly admitted to practice before the Supreme Court that the judiciary will not long remain independent without the constant support of the legal profession."

He urged co-operation between practicing lawyers and members of the bench to get new judgeships approved and "improve methods of judicial selection."

The Supreme Court called a special session in its annual recess to swear in the group, the largest ever admitted to practice at one time.

Anti-Trust Damages.

By the Associated Press.

In a section meeting yesterday, Assistant Attorney General Robert A. Bicks spoke out for the rights of states and cities to recover triple damages when they have been injured by an anti-trust violation. He said the Federal Government is seeking ways to help them to collect.

Bicks, head of the Justice Department's anti-trust division, spoke before the anti-trust section of the Bar Association. He noted that when a conventional federal anti-trust consent decree carrying no admission of guilt is entered, the state or city may have difficulty in proving damage without lengthy and costly litigation.

Bicks said his division in recent months has refused to enter into consent judgments involving asphalt manufacturers at Boston and makers of gymnasium bleachers at Milwaukee in the absence of a protecting clause for dealing with state damage action against the same defendants.

Heart Attacks on Job.

The question whether a man suffering a heart attack at work has a chance of collecting cash benefits on the ground it was job-connected was discussed by Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist who has treated President Eisenhower, and Harold F. McNiece, dean of the Law School at St. John's University, New York City.

White said that, in his experience, stress and occupation never cause the common run of heart diseases.

McNiece emphasized the need to determine the best legal procedures and methods to be used in settling legal claims.

For example, McNiece said, workmen's compensation laws of Tennessee and Missouri agree that benefits shall stem from an accidental injury. However, he said Missouri courts have ruled that unusual on-the-job strain is necessary to support a claim based on a heart attack, whereas Tennessee has held that usual strain is sufficient. Even in states adopting the "unusual strain doctrine," McNiece reported, decisions may take widely varying tacks.

Fishermen Killed by Bomb.

VARDOE, Norway, Aug. 30 (UPI)—The captain and three crewmen of a British fishing boat were killed here Sunday night when a bomb brought up in their nets exploded on deck. The bomb was presumed to have been a "dud" dropped in World War II.

Planning Assault on Defense Policy

Democratic presidential nominee SENATOR JOHN F. KENNEDY (right) at press conference today in the Capitol where he promised hard-hitting but "responsible and constructive" criticism of the Eisenhower Administration defense policy. At left is PAUL H. NITZE, a former Republican, named by Kennedy to head a four-man advisory board on defense.

Kennedy Plans Nonpartisan Panel on National Security

By EDWARD F. WOODS
A Washington Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Senator John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, today announced institution of a series of "nonpartisan" consultations on problems in the field of national security to aid him in formulating a program if he is elected in November.

Kennedy said that the new panel of advisers would not funnel ideas on defense and security to him during the campaign, unless a national crisis arises.

"I want to emphasize their services will not be connected with the campaign," the Democratic nominee told a press conference. "The consultation program is designed to make sure that, if I am elected, the months of January, February and March will be used most effectively in the field of national defense and security."

4 Co-ordinators Named.

Kennedy announced a four-member group to co-ordinate the consultations. They are:

Paul H. Nitze, chairman; president of the Foreign Service Educational Foundation. He was director of the State Department policy planning staff from 1950 to 1953.

David K. E. Bruce, Ambassador to France under President Truman from 1949 to 1952, and United States Ambassador to Germany under President Eisenhower, 1957-59.

Roswell L. Gilpatrick, chairman of Aero-Space Corp., a private agency responsible for technical supervision of the ballistic missile and military space projects of the Air Force.

James A. Perkins, vice president of the Carnegie Corp. and a member of the Gaither Committee appointed by President Eisenhower in 1957 to survey national security programs.

Kennedy declined to discuss the political affiliations of the appointees, but Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said that Nitze and Bruce were Democrats and that Gilpatrick and Perkins were "independents or Republicans."

Kennedy said, "This group will consult on my behalf on national security problems with the ablest and most experienced authorities in the nation, without regard to party."

Kennedy said that "in this dangerous period" it is imperative "that we maintain the highest national unity and the utmost responsibility in matters of national security at all times."

He said that during the campaign he would vigorously criticize certain aspects of the Eisenhower Administration's national security policies from time to time, but added that "the criticism, I believe, will be constructive and responsible."

The Senator said that the work of the new committee would not run counter to the defense policy job he assigned to Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, after Symington was defeated in his bid for the Democratic nomination.

Symington's attention will be directed toward reorganization of the Defense Department, Kennedy said, while the group set up today will be concerned with substantive matters of defense and security.

Criticizes Eisenhower.

In a statement read at the press conference, Kennedy was critical of the Eisenhower Administration, asserting that "the Democrats traditionally have held thmat the officials who man our key posts in defense and foreign policy should be selected for their superior ability whatever their party affiliation may be."

"In the war crisis of 1940," Kennedy said, "Franklin D. Roosevelt called to public service many outstanding Republicans, including Henry Stimson (Secretary of War) and Frank Knox (Secretary of the Navy). Similarly Harry Truman brought into defense and foreign policy areas many Republicans, among them Paul Hoffman, John J. McCloy and Robert Lovett."

Kennedy said that "unfortunately" this tradition had not been respected in recent years and "I propose to start the renewal of that tradition right now."

RUSSIA GIVES INDIA $125,000,000 CREDIT

NEW DELHI, Aug. 30 (AP)—Finance Minister Morarji Desai announced today Russia has agreed to extend a new 500,000,000 rubles credit for India's third five-year plan, which begins next year.

At the official Soviet rate the new credit is worth $125,000,000. Coupled with the 1,500,000,000 rubles promised last year, the credits bring total Soviet backing for the third plan to the equivalent of $500,000,000.

Desai's announcement in parliament was taken by some observers as new evidence of policy conflict between Moscow and Red China.

Since the summer of 1959, the Kremlin has pledged almost three times as much assistance to India as had been given to the first and second five-year plans put together.

It may be only a coincidence that in the same period—beginning March 1959—India and Communist China fell out sharply, first over the Tibetan rebellion and later over the location of the India-Tibet border.

The announcement comes at a time of widespread reports that Russia is cutting down technical aid to Red China.

MALAYA ACCEPTS MEDICAL AID OFFER OF DR. DOOLEY

KUALA LUMPUR, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Malayan government announced yesterday it has accepted an offer of medical supplies and personnel from the jungle doctor of Laos, Dr. Thomas Dooley of St. Louis.

The statement said more than $213,000 worth of drugs, antibiotics and medical equipment are ready in New York for immediate shipment to Malaya. The medical personnel will include a doctor and four nurses.

Dr. Dooley arrived here yesterday to inspect the hospital and discuss arrangements.

CURTIS DEFENDS G.O.P. ECONOMIC RECORD AS BEST

Calls Democratic Party's Attack in Its Platform False and Immature.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, yesterday defended the economic accomplishments of the Eisenhower Administration as the best in history.

He was one of a group of Republican Congressmen who took part in the opening of "Operation Veracity," a G.O.P. attack on the Democratic party platform. In a series of speeches on the floor of the House, members of the group hope to discredit what they call inaccuracies or untruths in the Democratic document.

Curtis aimed his criticism at a statement in the Democratic platform which asserted that "the Republican failure in the economic field has been virtually complete."

Attacking the statement as immature and false, he declared: "Every indicator of economic well-being of a society reveals that just the reverse is true.

Never in the history of mankind has the economic condition of a society been as good and on such a sound and broad base as that of the United States in the year 1960."

Curtis cited figures which he said showed that the American economy in the last eight years of Republican administration has set new records in gross national product, employment, family income and assets, per capita spending, stock holdings, investment by industry and a number of other economic fields.

He sought to show that the gains he listed, most of which applied to the private economic sector, had not been achieved at the expense of advances in education and other areas of public well-being.

He noted that spending for each pupil in average daily attendance in public elementary and secondary schools rose from $313 in 1952 to $446 in 1958.

He credited the Republicans with being more successful than the Democrats in curbing inflation. The consumer price level has shown less rise than it did under the Democrats, he went on. He said prices more than doubled in the 20 years preceding 1953 but since then the rate of increase has been only 1 per cent annually.

Dirksen Says Kennedy Failed in Farm Bill Pledge.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen said today that Democratic presidential candidate John F. Kennedy had failed to live up to a post-convention promise to push farm legislation in the current session of Congress.

The Illinois Republican criticized Kennedy's position at a press conference which followed a breakfast meeting of G.O.P. congressional leaders with President Eisenhower.

Both Dirksen and House Republican leader Charles A. Halleck took optimistic views of how the G.O.P. fared in the post-convention congressional session.

Dirksen said he thought the Republicans "have performed rather nobly." Halleck said that Republicans demonstrated their willingness to legislate in certain fields and noted that the Democrats have a two-to-one majority in both houses.

Castro Blasts OAS and U.S., Calls Cubans to Big Rally

Reaffirms His Ties With Soviet Union in Bitter Attack on Declaration of San Jose.

HAVANA, Aug. 30 (AP) — Boasting of Cuba's solidarity with the Soviet Union, Fidel Castro today called for a big rally of the Cuban people Friday afternoon to answer the Declaration of San Jose.

The Prime Minister reaffirmed his regime's ties with Russia as he lashed out at the Organization of American States and the United States in a three-hour-and-15-minute harangue that lasted beyond midnight.

Castro told a meeting of teachers bound for new schools in the mountains of eastern Cuba that "we have had the honor and glory of being the one to initiate the rebellion of America against the Yankee empire."

He charged the United States used its proposed $500,000,000 aid program for Latin America and its allocation of the 700,000 tons of sugar cut from Cuba's quota to the United States to buy the San Jose declaration.

In the declaration 19 member nations of the OAS joined yesterday in denouncing Soviet and Communist Chinese intervention in the Western Hemisphere and reminded OAS members—meaning Cuba particularly—of their obligation to submit to the "discipline of the inter-American system."

Castro termed the action of the OAS foreign ministers at their Costa Rica meeting "treason to the peoples of Latin America."

"Those who subscribed to the Declaration of Costa Rica will be known as the Judas Iscariots of the Americas," Castro declared. He denounced the San Jose meeting as "one of the blackest and most repugnant pages history has written."

He scoffed at the "alleged intervention" of the Soviet Union in the hemisphere.

"When the Pentagon was finishing up plans of aggression against Cuba," Castro continued, "the Soviet Union offered us the support of atomic rockets."

A five-minute chant of "Out" and "Cuba yes, Yankee no" greeted the first mention of the United States after Castro had been speaking for 90 minutes.

He attacked the United States as the "accomplice of as many exploiters, as many loan sharks, as many bandits as there are in the world." He said the presidential campaign in the United States was a "real competition of stupidity."

He charged the United States Defense Department had made threatening remarks about troop movements in the Caribbean during the OAS conference to influence the meeting's decision.

Castro's government forged another link with the Communist bloc yesterday when it signed a cultural co-operation treaty with North Korea.

The Foreign Ministry announced the two countries would soon exchange ambassadors and negotiate a trade treaty.

At San Jose, Foreign Minister Raul Roa said Cuba would remain in the OAS despite its walkout Sunday in order to be able to defend itself against interference from within the Western Hemisphere.

Havana sources predicted Castro would appeal again to the United Nations Security Council or General Assembly for condemnation of the United States as an aggressor, a move certain to have full support of the Communist bloc.

The Cuban government yesterday took over the Dun & Bradstreet credit rating office which had operated in Havana for 62 years.

A spokesman for the government interventor said the action was taken by the Minister of Labor at the request of company employes. In the office files were believed to be valuable credit and financial reports on United States and other firms in Cuba.

HERTER HOME, PLEASED WITH PARLEY RESULTS

Conference Strengthened Effectiveness of Inter-American System, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) Secretary of State Christian A. Herter returned today from the Western Hemisphere foreign ministers conference. He said the meetings gave "evidence of solidarity" in the Americas.

"It was a good performance," Herter said on his return from San Jose, Costa Rica. He added:

"There should be no question in anyone's mind as to the success of the meetings . . . in strengthening the effectiveness of the inter-American system.

"Through their representatives there, the peoples of the hemisphere expressed their determination to protect their heritage of freedom—not only from Sino-Soviet intervention, but also those within the hemisphere who would lend themselves as tools for such intervention."

He said the indictment of the Castro government of Cuba was clear "both as to its international conduct and its failure to modify its domestic institutions to conform with the principle of representative democracy agreed to by all of the American republics in the declaration of Santiago over a year ago."

He said measures taken against the Dominican government "are intended to contribute to the establishment there of a government which will be both representative and responsive to its obligations within the inter-American system."

Without mentioning Cuba by name, the meeting condemned Communist interference in this hemisphere. The foreign ministers voted also to break diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic because of its part in a plot to assassinate Venezuelan president Romulo Betancourt.

Representative Armistead I. Selden Jr. (Dem.) of Alabama, charged yesterday that the United States was sadly and badly out-maneuvered" at the San Jose conference. Armistead said it was "a terrible blunder" to join the move against the Dominican Republic without simultaneous action against the Castro regime in Havana.

STUDENTS BEING INTERVIEWED IN INVESTIGATION OF SORORITY DANCE

Eight of Those Arrested at Unchaperoned Affair Shown to Have Been From Cleveland High.

Cleveland High School officials hoped to complete interviews tomorrow with students who were arrested by police Thursday at a sorority dance.

A check of records at the school by a special committee yesterday showed eight Cleveland students, one boy and seven girls, were among the 18 persons arrested. Police found many of those in attendance at the unchaperoned party were drinking.

Cleveland Principal Clair Houston said the records showed all eight of the students have good academic and citizenship records.

Students, Parents Appear.

Two students and their parents went to the school voluntarily yesterday to discuss the sorority and the dance with Houston. The parents in both instances "were very much anxious to stop such affairs," Houston said.

Other Cleveland students whose names were obtained from the police report of the dance incident were invited to come in today with their parents. Four girls and their mothers were interviewed by Otto P. Rost, chairman of the inquiry committee, Houston and George Meinhardt and Miss Fern Oestereich, assistant principals.

Houston said they were asked for the names of other members of the sorority. School officials hope to learn from the inquiry the scope of sorority and fraternity activities. Such organizations are not permitted to meet in school buildings.

Findings to Hickey.

Rost said the group hoped to learn whether students at other public schools take part in fraternity or sorority activities. The committee will report its findings to Superintendent of Instruction Philip J. Hickey, probably by the end of the week, Rost said. Rost is assigned to special services for the improvement of instruction and administration in high schools.

Hickey told a reporter that efforts will be made to stress the school position on fraternities and sororities at meetings of parent-teacher and other adult groups.

'These groups certainly are entitled to know the background of the information we gather, together with our own feelings about it," he said. "We don't like sororities and fraternities because they create a situation where kids choose one over another. They create a very undemocratic situation in the high schools."

In past years, efforts to stop such activities generally have been confined to a talk by each high school principal at the beginning of school terms. Board of Education Member Oscar A. Ehrhardt has suggested that stronger appeals be made to the parents, by sending home information on the subject with each high school student.

Aware of Bar.

Hickey said he was certain most parents were aware of the bar on fraternities and sororities, but agreed they might need reminders. The subject of direct appeals to parents will come up at a meeting of high school principals before the beginning of classes on Sept. 8, he said.

Dissolution of sororities and fraternities was urged by Harold Wertich, who last year was president of the Cleveland High School Dads' Club. The club discussed the matter thoroughly last year, Wertich said, and urged that parents forbid their children to join the organizations.

The club felt it would be helpful for the school principal to send a letter to all parents urging them not to permit their children to join the organizations, Wertich said.

Wertich attributed part of the problem to the fact that parents seem to lose interest in their children's activities when they reach high school.

"When the kids get to high school, the parents seem to think they are on their own, but they aren't old enough to be," he said.

Meanwhile Webster Groves Superindendent of Schools Herbert W. Schooling said he plans to check into the fraternity and sorority situation in schools in his district.

"It is important for all of us make some inquiry in the light of what happened in St. Louis," Schooling said. "Our schools do not recognize, encourage, sponsor or support fraternities or sororities. There are no fraternities that we know of, but there are organized groups of girls that call themselves sororities.

"We have made no organized effort in recent years to distribute information concerning our policy. I'm sure it is generally known. Still, we are going to inquire to see if we do have a problem."

Superintendent of Schools Robbert S. Gilchrist of University City said he hears an occasional complaint about sorority and fraternity activity in his district, but "it is not a very recurring problem."

Gilchrist said it was his impression that such organizations are not so active now as they have been in the past. The school system does not recognize them in University City.

The Omega Sigma dance took place at Albrecht's Hall, 3549 Arsenal street, Thursday. Nine youths were fined for peace disturbance. An additional fine for resisting arrest was assessed against one of the youths. Police confiscated 16 cases of beer and a quantity of liquor. They were called to the hall by neighbors, who complained of the noise.

Truck and automobile which collided head-on last night on U.S. By-Pass 66, near Edwardsville. Two occupants of car were killed.

RAID ON ALLEGED HANDBOOK ENDS IN ARREST OF THREE

Three men were arrested yesterday in a police raid on an alleged handbook at 1010A Cass avenue. Lt Charles Craft of the gambling squad said the establishment apparently was doing about $5000 worth of business a day.

Russell J. Cracchiola, 36 years old, of the 5300 block of Claxton avenue, was alone in the place when the officers entered. They said he immediately disconnected two telephones.

Also arrested were Dominic Biondo, 24, of the 1500 block of Hogan street, who was in an automobile parked on the street nearby, and Bernard Valenti, 43, of the 9500 block of Lindsley court, St. Louis county, owner of the building.

All were booked suspected of setting up and keeping a common gaming house. Cracchiola and Biondo were arrested May 14 in another handbook raid in the 800 block of Cole street. Yesterday's raid resulted from an anonymous complaint telephoned to police.

TOZER REPORTS SPENDING $5112 IN PRIMARY CAMPAIGN

Sheriff Martin L. Tozer spent $5112 in his successful campaign for re-nomination as the Democratic candidate for sheriff in the August primary election, a sworn statement of expenditures filed in circuit court showed today.

Tozer listed his principal expenditures as $3007 for advertising, printing and stationary and $2100 in disbursements to ward organizations and workers. He also reported he spent $330 in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election as Democratic committeeman from the Twenty-sixth Ward.

Other expenditure reports filed were: John J. Dwyer, Fourth Ward Democratic committeeman, $793, and city treasurer, $1005; Mrs. Charlotte Corcoran Lee, Fourth Ward Democratic committeewoman, $694; Norman R. Seay, Twenty-sixth Ward Democratic committeeman, $198, and Lorne Buschman, Seventeenth Ward Democratic committeeman, $175.

2 DIE IN HEAD-ON COLLISION NEAR EDWARDSVILLE

Two men were killed last night in a head-on collision of an automobile and a truck on U.S. By-Pass 66, five miles south of Edwardsville.

Killed were Robert W. Hawks, 49 years old, of Midland, Tex., and Dwain D. Smith, 39, of Houston. Smith was a passenger in the automobile driven by Hawks.

Illinois State Police said Hawks was driving west and swerved into an east bound lane, colliding with a truck driven by John Hill of Dorchester, Ill.

Hill and a passenger in the truck, Leonard Hopper of Bunker Hill, Ill., were taken to Barnes Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. Hawks and Smith were pronounced dead of head and internal injuries at the scene of the accident.

Boy, 3, Is Killed.

Kenneth Adams, 3-year-old son of Mrs. Anita Foster, 738 North Euclid avenue, was killed when he was struck by an automobile today near his home.

Isaac Miller, 37, a clothes presser, 3212 Vernon avenue, told police the boy ran between two parked automobiles into the path of his machine before he could stop. A rear wheel passed over the child's body. He was pronounced dead at Homer G. Phillips Hospital. Miller was booked for having no state driver's license.

Wesley O. Tranter, 19 years old, was injured seriously when a motor scooter started forward unexpectedly and fell on him in a 16-foot ditch yesterday.

Tranter, a clerk in a store at 9500 Gravois road, Affton, was attempting to repair the gear shift of the scooter on the shoulder of the road near the store when the accident occurred. He was carried from the ditch by passersby and taken to St. Louis County Hospital. Physicians said the gear shift lever of the scooter penetrated his abdomen. Tranter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Tranter, 10719 Gail court, Concord Village.

3-Year-Old Boy Hurt.

James Stricklin, 3 years old, suffered a skull injury when he was struck by an automobile yesterday in front of his home, 741 South Newstead avenue.

Witnesses told police the child ran from between parked cars into the path of an automobile driven by James Parrish, a laborer, 2832 North Euclid avenue. James, son of Mrs. Mary Stricklin, is in City Hospital.

Three men were injured in a collision of two trucks on a curve in the 4500 block of Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis county, yesterday. Eight persons have been killed in accidents at that point since Jan. 1, 1958, police records show.

Police said a tractor-trailer driven by James L. Rowell, Oxford, Ala., jack-knifed and struck a Salvation Army truck. William C. Walton, 48 years old, driver of the Salvation Army truck, was pinned in the cab for more than one hour while Mehlville firemen and police worked to free him. He was taken to County Hospital, and later to City Hospital, with fractures of the right wrist and ankle, a dislocated hip and multiple contusions.

Two helpers on the truck, Paul Dacey and Milton Wallace, received contusions and abrasions. The three men live at Salvation Army headquarters, 3949 Forest Park avenue. Rowell was not injured.

40 ENUMERATORS TO FINISH WORK ON CENSUS HERE

Census enumerators soon will be visiting some St. Louisans whose questionnaires were filled out incompletely or incorrectly, it was learned today.

Archie Morrison, program technician for the Census Bureau in Washington, is here giving special training to census takers. He said the number of completed and correct questionnaires received was below the minimum required to obtain accurate statistics for the bureau.

A force of 40 enumerators, many of whom started the 1960 census here April 1, will be sent back into the field, Morrison said, to complete the questionnaires, about 2400 of which were unacceptable.

The area from which most of these came, Morrison said, is a 10 to 15 block belt, north of Forest Park, running from the Mississippi river to the city limits. Questionnaires involved are those, left at every fourth house originally, which sought detailed information.

TWO FORCE WAY INTO AUTO AND BEAT AND ROB DRIVER

Charles Pardue, 10301 Lord drive, Moline, was beaten and robbed of $145, he told police, by two men who forced their way into his automobile last night.

Pardue said the men got in his car when he stopped at Broadway and Baden avenue. After beating him and stealing his wallet, the pair got out at Halls Ferry Circle and fled in a car driven by a third man.

Pardue, 41 years old, was taken to Christian Hospital with contusions of the forehead and a concussion.

S. B. M'CLANAHAN 2D DISTRICT HEAD OF DEMOCRATS

Jefferson Township Committeeman Has No Opposition After McAteer Withdraws.

Sidney B. McClanahan, attorney and Democratic committeeman for Jefferson Township in St. Louis county, was elected chairman of his party's Second Congressional District Committee today. The meeting was in a tavern at 6201 Michigan avenue.

McClanahan, a foe of Ralph L. Devereaux, county collector and former committeeman for Lemay Township, had no opposition for the district committee chairmanship held by James H. McAteer, committeeman for the Eleventh Ward. McAteer, who has been aligned with Devereaux, announced yesterday he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Other officers elected without opposition were: vice chairman, Mrs. Margaret Butler, Fourteenth Ward committeewoman; treasurer, Louis Buckowitz, Tenth Ward committeeman, and secretary, Mrs. Phil Hopfinger, wife of the Twelfth Ward committeeman.

State Committee Members.

The meeting also selected the four members of the State Democratic Committee from the Second District.

These were George Cloyd, former Clayton Township committeeman; Julius (Biggie) Garagnani, restaurant operator living in the Twelfth Ward; Mrs. Margie Lee Roberts, committeewoman for Lincoln Township, and Mrs. Margaree Klein, Creve Coeur committeewoman.

McAteer sharply opposed the election of Garagnani, who was supported by Robert G. Dowd, Thirteenth Ward committeeman.

In an angry speech, McAteer declared Garagnani had never been active in the Twelfth Ward Democratic Organization and was unacceptable to the committeewoman for that ward.

"In the last eight years he has contributed only $1 to the ward organization," McAteer said. He accused Dowd and Buckowitz of making some deals to get Garagnani elected.

Wants St. Louisans.

McAteer said both of the state committeemen from the district should be St. Louisans, declaring James Sullivan, the Democratic candidate for United States Representative two years ago, carried the city wards of the district by a 10,000 majority but lost to Thomas B. Curtis in the county by a majority of 17,000.

The vote was 16 for Garagnani and 8 for Leo Lyng, an attorney who had McAteer's support.

The Third District Committee re-elected all officers and state committee members in a meeting at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel.

They are: Chairman, Magistrate Anton Sestric, Eighth Ward committeeman; vice chairman, Mrs. Thomas Carmody, Sixteenth Ward committeewoman; treasurer, Harry Luaders, Ninth Ward committeeman, and secretary, Mrs. Willie Ann Barbee, Eighteenth Ward committeewoman.

Renamed to the statet committee were the following ward committeemen and committeewomen: State Senator Michael Kinney, Second Ward; Louis G. (Midge) Berra, Twenty-fourth Ward; Mrs. Ardania Morgan, Nineteenth Ward, and Miss Margaret Murphy, Fifteenth Ward. The Third District is entirely within the city.

First District Leader.

Edward J. Roche, First Ward committeeman, was elected chairman of the First Congressional District Committee in a meeting at the First Ward Democratic Club, 5470 North Kingshighway. Other officers elected without opposition were: vice chairman, Mrs. Margaret Draeger, Normandy Township committeewoman; treasurer, James H. Deneeffe, Fifth Ward committeeman, and secretary, Midland Township committeewoman Helen Burke.

University City Nursery Issue To Be Decided by Voters

Council Repeals Subdivision Authorization of Land Proposed for Park Use.

Action to submit the controversial Green's Nursery issue in University City to the voters was taken by that city's council last night. The land's owners asked that the voters be given an opportunity to decide whether the nursery should be made into a park.

The council then voted unanimously to repeal an ordinance which had opened the way for the owners to subdivide the 18½-acre tract at Blackberry and Gay avenues.

The owners's and council's action followed filing of referendum petitions signed by 5400 University City residents asking that the nursery again be condemned for park use.

Samuel Ladd, one of the owners, told the council that the only way this issue will be resolved is through a vote of the people. The council earlier this year repealed an ordinance condemning the land for park use at the request of Ladd, who asked permission to subdivide the tract.

Repeal Overturned.

After the council passed the motion to overturn the earlier appeal, it asked City Manager Charles T. Henry to check with bond issue attorney on the possibility of adding the purchase of the nursery to a proposed bond issue which will be voted on this fall.

The council requested that the nursery issue be made a separate part of the bond issue so the voters could make clear their decision on what should be done. Last year, a bond issue which included purchase of Green's Nursery for a park was defeated at the polls.

There was some question whether the council's action last night actually again condemned the land, or whether another ordinance is needed. Mayor Nathan B. Kaufman said that this was an academic question, however, for the council would approve no subdivision plans until a vote is held. The city's attorneys were asked to check on whether another ordinance is needed.

In other action last night, Ladd asked the council for permission to erect a high apartment building at Delmar boulevard and Delcrest drive.

This land also had been considered by some individuals in University City as ideal for a park, but neither the council nor the park commission has included it in over-all plans for the city.

$10,000 Sweeper.

The council authorized the city to purchase a second street sweeper for approximately $10,000.

Twenty resident of University City were sworn in as members of various boards and commissions last night. The appointments were: Traffic commission, Jack Hutson; architectural control commission, E. E. Rippstein; board of adjustment, Seymour Bailis.

Board of health, Dr. Robert Mayer; civil service board, Sam Berg; civil defense and disaster relief advisory committee, Edward Weinstein; commission on human relations, Norman Spetner, David Blumenthal, Rexford Carruthers, Mrs. Caroline Graff, Mrs. Elizabeth Paradoski, Dr. William P. Stewart and Dr. Martin S. Greenberg.

City plan commission, Harold Kaminsky and William J. Dougherty; park commission, Julius A. Seidel, Emmett Abel and George Bruno, and library board, Melvin Bloom and Mrs. Ruth Reuben.

2 COUNTY SEWER DISTRICTS VOTING TODAY ON BONDS

Passing on Coldwater and Gravois Projects to Replace Big Open Creeks.

Residents of north and south St. Louis county went to the polls today to vote on separate bond issues for construction of sanitary sewer facilities.

In the Coldwater creek watershed, voters were deciding whether to approve a $10,986,000 revenue bond issue for a trunk sewer and treatment plant.

In the Gravois creek watershed to the south, a $4,750,000 general obligation bond issue for a trunk sewer was on the ballot. The Coldwater proposal requires a four-sevenths favorable majority, and the Gravois bond issue must have a two-thirds majority to pass.

The polls opened at 6 a.m. and will remain open until 7:35 p.m.

Called Health Menace.

Both creeks now are giant open sewers which, officials have said, constitute a health menace to all families in communities through which they pass. Existing sewage disposal facilities are inadequate to cope with the volume of sewage being dumped into the streams in a period of swiftly expanding population, spokesmen for the Metropolitan Sewer District have said.

The two creeks serve a total of about 177,000 persons in St. Louis county.

No organized opposition has developed to the bond issue in the Gravois creek area. In the Coldwater creek watershed, however, officials of several communities which have sewage facilities have objected to paying as much as residents of municipalities that do not have such facilities.

Indorsed by Hazelwood.

A last-minute indorsement of the Coldwater bond issue was made by the aldermen of Hazelwood. The chairman of the board, Edwin Boester, previously had indorsed the proposal.

The Citizens Committee for Coldwater Creek, which has been campaigning for the bond issue, offered to answer any questions by voters about the issue or about the location of polling places. The committee can be reached at Florissant City Hall, TE 7-3562.

Nixon

the doctors called hemolytic staphylococcus aureus.

This is an organism that causes infection destroying red blood cells. Sometimes called the "golden bug," it sometimes is difficult to treat with antibiotics.

If it is confined to the skin of the knee, doctors said it would not be serious. But if it reaches the knee joint it could be more serious. If it invaded the bloodstream it would carry with it potential danger of brain, lung, kidney or liver damage.

It was reported that Klein, who did not announce Nixon's hospitalization until four hours after it occurred, had some difficulty in convincing the doctors to agree to publication of their diagnosis.

Klein was said to have insisted that everything possible be told about Nixon's ailment.

Klein said Dr. Raymond Scalettar of the department of medicine and Dr. John D. Blair, chief of orthopedics, ordered Nixon to keep off his feet for about two weeks.

Klein said that, other than the infection in the knee, the Vice President "has no complication."

"He has no fever and continues to be in excellent physical condition," he said.

In response to questions at a press conference, Klein said the injury was not malignant. He said the whole knee was swollen. Other than the withdrawal of fluid, Klein said there had been no operation. He said Nixon walked into the hospital.

Nixon plans to send a message to the American Bar Association convention, which he had been scheduled to address Thursday. Klein said other engagements would be canceled. These include a scheduled appearance on NBC's "Meet the Press" either next Sunday or Sept. 11 and a planned meeting on Labor day in New York with nationalities groups.

Both Republicans and Democrats expressed sympathy and regret.

Type of Infection Is Potentially Very Troublesome.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) —The germ which has infected Vice President Nixon is potentially very troublesome. The infection is hemolytic staphylococcus aureus. It is the germ responsible for epidemics of infections that sometimes occur in hospitals.

Hemolytic means an infection causing red blood cells literally to burst open.

Aureus is a Latin term for golden, referring to the fact that this particular germ, when grown in test tubes, is yellowish or golden in color.

The germ commonly causes boils in persons who have a low resistance to it. Certain strains of the germ are more resistant to wonder drugs than are others.

MAN KNIFED IN BACK; WIFE SAYS SHE DID IT IN QUARREL

Louis Hoffman, 29 years old, was taken to City Hospital last night with a stab wound of the back inflicted by his wife, Joan, in a quarrel at their home, 3027A Wyoming street, police reported.

Mrs. Hoffmann told police her husband slapped her and she struck at his arm with a butcher knife. Hoffmann turned away, and the knife blade entered his back. Hoffmann is unemployed.

Adm. Charles Lambe Dies.

NEWPORT, Scotland, Aug. 30 (AP)—Adm. Sir Charles Lambe, former First Sea Lord, died today at his Fifeshire home. He was 59 years old. Poor health forced him to retire last May. He served as equerry to Kings Edward VIII and George VI. From 1957 to 1959 he was NATO commander-in-chief of Allied forces in the Mediterranean.

FLORISSANT COMMITTEE TO STUDY STREET PLAN

A plan which would provide for the development of major streets in Florissant was referred to a combined committee of the city council, the planning and zoning commission and the traffic commission by the Florissant City Council last night.

The plan, which is the second of a new master plan for the city proposed by Harland Bartholomew & Associates, city planners, was discussed at length by the council last night following a presentation by a representative of the planning firm. Mayor Henry F. Koch said the council agreed that there was a need for such an over-all street plan, but there was wide disagreement over how such a program should be financed.

The proposal includes widening of many streets and requiring "collector" streets in newly developed land. Mayor Koch said that the city does not want to place an economic burden on any developer by requiring him to pay for streets which will handle through traffic. A plan by which the city would pay part of the cost for new major streets would have to be worked out, he said.

YOUTH THREATENS 8-STORY LEAP FROM PRUITT HOMES

Winfield Scott, 17 years old, was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital for observation yesterday after he stood on an eight-story-high window ledge for five minutes, threatening to jump.

Scott climbed out on the 12-inch ledge at his mother's apartment at 2021 Cass avenue, in the Pruitt Homes, following an argument with her over possession of a baby bed, police said. Both Scott and his sister wanted the bed from their mother for children they are expecting.

A crowd of about 300 persons gathered around the building and firemen opened a net. Scott climbed back into the apartment of his own accord.

SPY FLIGHTS MADE AGAIN, TASS CHARGES

MOSCOW, Aug. 30 (AP)—Izvestia quoted the London Daily Express last night as saying United States and British planes again are carrying out spy flights along the Iron Curtain.

The Izvestia article, which was credited to the Soviet news agency Tass, said:

"According to a report of the scientific correspondent of the Daily Express, Chapman Pincher, reconnaissance flights, the goal of which is to gather information about the countries of the socialist camp, have been resumed."

The Soviet newspaper quoted Pincher as reporting that "these flights are being carried out by the American Air Force, which is using RB-47 planes, and British aviation, which is using Canberra planes, which have even more powerful engines. These and other planes are equipped with electronic photographic equipment."

Izvestia quoted Pincher as saying that "after talks in Washington, the governments of the United States and Britain came to an agreement to continue the flights near the 'edges of the Iron Curtain' in order to 'check on anti-aircraft defenses.'"

It was from a British base that an American RB-47 reconnaissance aircraft took off for the mission on which it was shot down by Soviet fighters July 1.

The youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda said two young Russians have been arrested as American intelligence agents.

Describing them as youths who loiter in Moscow offering to exchange money and ikons with tourists for western clothes, the newspaper said Vyacheslav Repnikov and Rostislav Ribkin were recruited by agents of Allen W. Dulles, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency to "talk up bourgeois ideals."

articles glorifying the Lumumba government.

"Your government perhaps also is behind Lumumba," a Russian correspondent told an American reporter. "The difference is that our press writes about Lumumba's popularity and you write about Americans who were beaten up by the Congolese. It should not be too hard to guess where Lumumba's sympathy will go.

"This is a struggle between two power blocs. Our press has a role in the struggle, whereas your press does whatever it wants to do. American methods may work in the United States but not in The Congo."

Meanwhile, the government announced it intends to submit for Parliament's approval on Sept. 1, a law that would give more power to the president and premier because of "an extraordinary situation" in the country. The two would be authorized to make decisions which originally were reserved for Parliament.

aid for indigent elderly persons. By a vote of 74 to 11, it sent the medical care bill to Mr. Eisenhower, who is expected to sign it.

The Senate vote on foreign aid came right after the rollcall on the medical aid measure.

The Senate vote to restore $190,000,000 in foreign aid money was 56 to 31.

By a vote of 67 to 21, the Senate then passed the supplemental appropriations bill to which the foreign aid increase had been attached. The supplemental measure, last of the money bills requiring action at this session, carries appropriations totaling $305,042,731.

In an unusual action, Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.), Georgia, asked to be excused from serving as a Senate member of the conference committee which would try to work out the differences on foreign aid.

Russell, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "I don't think I can represent the Senate viewpoint" on the foreign aid matter. He had opposed the $190,000,000 increase.

In his place, the Senate appointed the Democratic majority leader, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. This gave backers of the foreign aid increase a 7-to-5 majority on the 12-member Senate delegation to the conference committee.

Action on Sugar.

By United Press International.

The House passed legislation today to give President Eisenhower limited authority to cut down a windfall sugar import quota for the Dominican Republic.

The legislation, called up by unanimous consent and passed without debate, now goes to the Senate. It does not give Mr. Eisenhower the outright authority to cut back the entire windfall quota that he requested after the Organization of American States condemned the regime of Rafael Trujillo.

President Eisenhower had asked for power to cut off a 322,000-ton bonus sugar marketing quota granted to the Dominican Republic. But the bill would allow him to do so only if the OAS imposed economic sanctions against the Dominican Republic before Oct. 15.

The House also completed action on a bill to outlaw payola, rigged television quiz shows and other broadcasting abuses. By voice vote, two Senate amendments were adopted and the bill was sent to the White House.

The bill makes it illegal for anyone to fail to disclose that he has accepted payola to broadcast material or to participate in rigging a radio or television "contest of intellectual knowledge." It also allows the Federal Communications Commission to fine broadcasting stations up to $10,000 for violations.

After a sharp debate on party lines, the Senate adopted last night 48 to 37 a resolution stating its view that Supreme Court vacancies should not be filled by recess appointments. Republicans insisted this was a political shaft aimed at Mr. Eisenhower, who has made three such appointments since he took office in 1953.

Bunche Ready to Return.

In Leopoldville, capital of the central government, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche was preparing to return today to the United States.

The U.N. Under Secretary is giving up his job as chief of the U.N. Congo operation after two turbulent months. His successor is to be Rajeshwar Dayal of India.

High sources said today that a resolution has been drafted for the African Nations Conference urging Lumumba to co-operate closely with the U.N. It will be submitted to a vote tomorrow at the final session of the conference of about 12 independent African nations in this capital. The conference was sponsored by Lumumba himself.

African informants said all delegates who participated in the drafting of the resolution emphasized the necessity of dealing with the Congo crisis only through the U.N.

These informants said the draft resolution, however, affirms African solidarity and co-operation with The Congo. This was one of Lumumba's aims in calling the conference.

Lumumba, who addressed the opening session of the congress, now is in the northeast Congo. It is not known whether he will be back in time for the final session.

U.S. Demands Punishment for Those Who Beat Crew.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI)—The United States announced today it has demanded punishment of those responsible for the beating of an American Globemaster crew by Congolese soldiers Saturday at Stanleyville.

Officials released the text of a strong protest note delivered by Ambassador Claire Timberlake in Leopoldville yesterday.

Eight of the nine members of an American crew were beaten with rifle butts, kicked and dragged over the ground, the note said, and all eight are in a hospital.

"The treatment accorded to them by the Congolese army is inexcusable," it added. "I ask that those responsible for the attack on this American crew be punished. I further more request the assurance of your government that adequate measures be taken to prevent such attacks in the future."

Clues in Killing

oner's office here said Dr. Rossiter indicated an autopsy report would be submitted next weekend. It was not determined whether the killer had raped his victim. The time of her death has not been fixed definitely.

Wallet Found at Well.

When the killer forced Miss Roberts into his green and white automobile, he took Bryant's wallet containing $2. The wallet, stained with blood, was found at the edge of the well by the picnickers, who called police. The $2 and Bryant's identification cards were still in it.

FBI agents, who entered the case because the girl was abducted from a Government wildlife refuge, made plaster casts of tire tracks and footprints found in the yard and driveway of the old 12-room house.

Authorities here believe Miss Roberts's kidnaper is someone familiar with the area because the farm house is off Illinois Highway 148, and is hidden by trees and tall weeds.

Funeral services for Miss Roberts were held late yesterday at First Baptist Church in nearby Cobden, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Roberts. Burial was in Cobden Cemetery.

Among those who attended the services were girl friends who attended Cobden High School with Miss Roberts. Some of them sobbed during the service, conducted by the Rev. Arnold Hoffman, pastor.

NEW METHOD OF HANDLING TAX COMPLAINTS IN EFFECT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service hopes its revised procedure for informal conferences on settling tax differences will save taxpayers time, trouble and money.

Under the new plan which became effective Aug. 15, each of the nation's 61 district offices now has a full-time conference co-ordinator, Commissioner Dana Latham said yesterday.

One or more full-time conferees will be assigned to the conference co-ordinator's staff in districts with enough work to warrant such assignments. The conference method is an attempt to settle tax differences at the earliest audit level, thereby eliminating the lengthy and more costly administrative and court appeals process.

7 HURT AS TROOPS QUELL LEFTISTS IN VENEZUELA RIOTS

CARACAS, Aug. 30 (AP)—Seven persons were wounded last night in a leftist riot quelled by Venezuelan troops with fixed bayonets.

A delivery truck of the newspaper El Mundo was overturned and burned by demonstrators shouting Communist slogans. Other demonstrators threw rocks, breaking windows of the building housing the newspaper La Esfera.

The two newspapers are edited by Miguel Angel Capriles, an opponent of the Cuban revolution. Some of the demonstrators shouted the Cuban anti-American slogan, "Cuba si, Yankee no."

The riot started when police and demonstrators clashed in front of the Congress building. It rapidly spread all over the city's downtown section. Police arrested several demonstrators.

CORONER'S VERDICT IN DEATH OF EUGENE W. SUTHERLAND

A coroner's verdict of excusable homicide at the hands of Joseph Sansone, a tavern operator at 3720 Union boulevard, was returned yesterday in the death last week of Eugene W. Sutherland, 147 Anastasia road, Calverton Park.

Witnesses testified Sutherland had become boisterous and argumentative in the tavern Thursday evening and was escorted to the door by Sansone. Sutherland later returned and again was taken outside by Sansone who told police he struck the 32-year-old real estate salesman with his fist.

Sutherland started to walk away and Sansone re-entered the tavern, he told police. Sutherland was found seriously injured on the tavern parking lot and died later of a skull fracture. Evidence in the case is to be presented to the grand jury.

ABANDONED 3-STORY PLANT IN MILL CREEK AREA BURNS

Fire swept through an abandoned three-story factory in the 2700 block of Spruce street last night, in the Mill Creek redevelopment project area. The blaze was rekindled twice during the night.

Firemen responding to three alarms, shortly before 8 o'clock fought the fire on the first and second floors. The cause was not determined and no damage estimate was made. The building, which is to be razed, belongs to the St. Louis Land Clearance Authority.

Firemen were recalled to the scene to put out small fires at 11:40 p.m. and 1:15 a.m. Fireman William Dekmann, Engine Co. No. 23, stepped on a nail and was treated for a puncture wound of the right foot.

Burglars Steal Alarm.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30 (AP)—Burglars broke into a storage shed of a suburban construction firm yesterday and escaped with some tools and the shed's burglar alarm.

TWO AT HAZELWOOD TAVERN HELD ON GAMING CHARGES

The proprietor and a barmaid at Montrey's Tavern, 5701 North Lindbergh boulevard, Hazelwood, were arrested on gambling charges yesterday after two St. Louis county detectives played electronic gaming machines in the tavern, police said.

James Montrey and Mrs. Verona Pugh were charged in warrants today with keeping a gaming device, after the officers said Mrs. Pugh paid $2.55 they won on the machines. The machines, one in which nickels, dimes and quarters may be inserted and the other for dimes, were confiscated. Montrey and Mrs. Pugh were released on bond.

The arrests were made by Detective Sgt. James Duke and Detective John Becker. Sgt. Duke said only one machine bore a federal tax stamp. He will forward a copy of the arrest report to federal authorities.

BARRY AND ENRIGHT SEEK TO SELL RADIO STATION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Jack Barry and Daniel Enright, once associated with the television quiz shows "21" and "Tic-Tac-Dough" later exposed as fixed, have notified the Federal Communications Commission they want to leave the broadcasting field.

They asked for authority to sell their Hollywood (Fla.) radio station, WGMA, for $265,000 to Kingsley H. Murphy Jr. and Carroll E. Crawford, owners of Station KOTE at Fergus Falls, Minn.

Last November the FCC notified the Barry-Enright firm that testimony before a House committee that Enright had taken part in the briefing of contestants raised questions as to his qualifications for a broadcasting license which the FCC would have to examine further.

SCHOOL PLAN OF DOLLARWAY DISTRICT VOIDED

The Dollarway (Ark.) School District's plan for desegregating its schools was rejected as inadequate in a ruling handed down here today by the United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit.

A pupil placement plan offered by the district does not offer Negro students any reasonable opportunity "to escape from their imposed segregation status," a three-judge panel of the appellate court said.

The Court of Appeals, in an opinion written by Chief Judge Harvey M. Johnsen, vacated a ruling by the United States District Court (Eastern District) of Arkansas and sent the case back for further action.

Two Related Cases.

On two other related cases affecting the Dollarway district, near Pine Bluff, the appellate court affirmed rulings of the district court.

"Standards of placement cannot be devised or given application to preserve an existing system of imposed segregation," said the appellate court here. "Nor can educational principles and theories serve to justify such a result."

The Court of Appeals, referring to 16 criteria by which the Dollarway district proposed to accept children for placement, said the plan would have the effect of leaving schools in their present status—that is, racially segregated.

Previous Action.

Arkansas's pupil placement law, which the Dollarway district planned to use for transfers of children from one school to another, previously had been held to be constitutional on its face.

"Placement standards and educational doctrines are entitled to their proper play," the Court of Appeals said, "but that play . . . is subordinate to the duty to move forward . . . to correct the existing constitutional violation with 'all deliberate speed'."

In the two other cases, the appellate court affirmed a district court dismissal of a complaint by three Negro students who had been denied admission to an all-white school.

BYRD REPORTS CONTINUED RISE IN U.S. PAYROLL

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP) — The Government's civilian payroll, already more than a billion dollars a month, rose another $307,000,000 for the year ended June 30.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, noting that pay increases for Government workers effective July 1 were not included, predicted another climb in total payrolls in the current year.

A report of the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures, which Byrd heads, said last year's civilian payroll totaled $12,637,000,000, not counting $268,000,00 paid to foreign citizens employed in overseas installations. The year's total included $64,000,000 paid to temporary census workers.

The payroll figure for the preceding year was $12,330,000,000. In 1955, it was $9,621,000,000 and it has risen each year.

The Senator said the number of civilian workers on the payrolls averaged 2,386,345 for the year just ended, 34,103 above the fiscal 1959 average. This still was below the 2,394,099 average in fiscal 1957.

to 90 days for vagrancy. Parker's jaw was broken.

Merrill Imus, 21, said Parker swung at him first.

Parker, a Florida State University student, denied in court that he was a vagrant or a leader of sit-in demonstrations.

Judge John Santora sentenced 83 persons—57 Negroes and 26 whites—to jail or fined them as a result of the weekend incidents. The average penalty was about $75 or 20 days in jail.

Parker and Imus were charged with fighting in jail and now face another session in court.

Fighting at Buford.

In Buford, Ga., 25 miles northeast of Atlanta, a rock-throwing racial fight erupted last night and police arrested about 50 persons.

The fight reportedly broke out when Negroes began hurling stones at the cars of white youths parked on Main street. The white youths then chased the Negroes into the Negro section of town, where extensive fighting broke out.

About two dozen white youths were placed in Buford jail and an equal number of Negro youths was taken to jail at Lawrenceville, about 15 miles away. The north Georgia town of 3800 persons has had no recent racial disturbances.

Court Decision Due on New Orleans Integration.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Federal Judge J. Skelly Wright was scheduled to rule today on whether or not to grant a delay of his order to integrate first grades here next week.

A meeting was called for this afternoon in the judge's chambers after Lloyd J. Rittiner, president of the Orleans Parish (county) School Board, requested a delay of Judge Wright's order.

Attorneys for the school board, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and for 31 white parents who filed suit to prevent possible closing of schools by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis have been ordered to attend.

By the Associated Press.

In Philadelphia, the United States Third Circuit Court of Appeals reaffirmed its July 19 ruling that Delaware's grade-a-year plan was too slow and ordered a modified plan be prepared for full integration of all grades by the fall of 1961.

Elsewhere in the South, integrated classes already were under way at the new Clinton (Tenn.) High School which replaced the one destroyed by dynamite blasts in 1958.

Between 35 and 50 Negro children were expected to register for integrated classes at Nashville, where the city school system begins the fourth year of its grade-a-year desegregation plan. Total registration was expected to top 30,000.

STOCKS THROWN FOR WIDEST LOSS IN OVER MONTH

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Profit-taking threw the stock market for its widest loss in more than a month today, wiping nearly $3.5 billion from stock valuations.

The selling cadence picked up toward the close leaving a majority of issues at or slightly above their lows for the day. Steels, chemicals, some coppers and electronics were among the hardest hit.

Despite the market's overall weakness brokers weer calling it a "natural retrenchment" in the wake of recent sharp gains.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 8.06 points lower at 626.40 at the close. The 20 rails dropped 2.01 to 136.43 and the 15 utilities lost .42 of a point at 95.38.

The Associated Press declared that this market dipped sharply in its fourth straight decline from the August highs.

Key stocks fell from fractions to about 2 points, dragging down the popular averages to a sizable loss.

Of 1201 issued traded, 298 advanced and 703 declined. New highs for the year totaled 57 and new lows 11.

For the second straight day, telautograph could not be traded but after the close the exchange matched enough orders to announce a transaction on the stock at 24, up 5½ from its Friday close, on a huge block to 80,000 shares. Another stock in the same equipment line, compotometer, was swamped with buy orders and no transactions were made.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 2.50 to 220.30 with the industrials down 4.00, the rails down 2.00 and the utilities down .80.

It was the worst decline in the average since March 3, when the drop was 3.10.

Volume was 2,890,000 shares compared with yesterday's 2,780,000.

Mercantile Trust Co. to Start Work on Improving Its Building

Contracts Totaling $1,107,471 Awarded to Six Firms—High-Speed Elevators to Be Installed.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent

Mercantile Trust Co. will start work soon on improvements to its bank building at Eighth and Locust streets, it was learned today.

Contracts totaling $1,107,471 have been awarded to six St. Louis firms for the work. The program calls for installation of two new, high-speed elevators in the center of the main banking house and the elimination of the two elevators on the west side of the building.

In addition, new and improved air-conditioning equipment will be installed for the main banking house. Sodemann Heat and Power Co. is the contractor for this work.

W. H. Kester

Alterations also will be made to the offices on the second and third floors. Bank Building and Equipment Co. has a contract for $346,106 for this work.

Westlake Construction Co. has been awarded a contract on general work at $243,660. Other contracts have been awarded to Mid-City Plumbing, General Elevator Engineering Co. and Sachs Electrical Corp.

Schwarz and Van Hoefen is the architectural firm for the work.

The Missouri Public Service Commission yesterday authorized Union Electric Co. to issue and sell $50,000,000 of first mortgage 30-year bonds. The utility said the proceeds would be used to pay off short term loans, finance improvements and reimburse its treasury for previous capital outlays.

Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. of Minneapolis yesterday announced plans to expand its Valley Park (Mo.) chemical plant. Production, handling and storage facilities will be enlarged. The expansion will allow the company to purchase its raw materials in tank car quantities at lower prices than formerly.

The plant produces varnishes, stains and alkyd resins annd processes special soybean and linseed oils used in surface coatings. About 65 persons are employed at the plant, which was formerly the Price Varnish Co. After the expansion, employment may be increased slightly, Thompson Price, plant manager, said.

Richard D. Wagner, formerly with Joseph Horne and Co., Pittsburgh, has been named general merchandise manager of all soft lines and a vice president of Famous-Barr Co., effective Sept. 19.

Melvin S. Strassner will be vice president and general manager of hard lines.

Harry W. Loeb will be vice president and general merchandise manager of Famous-Barr's three basement stores.

Leonard Hornbein will be vice president in charge of public relations.

Willard O. Bent, formerly associate general merchandise manager of all soft lines, has resigned.

These changes are being made in anticipation of the retirement next Jan. 31 of Leonard Strauss, vice president and general merchandise manager, according to Stanley J. Goodman, president and general manager.

Dollar volume of furniture store sales in the St. Louis metropolitan area in July was 16 ped cent less than in the corresponding month of 1959, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today. July volume also was 9 per cent less than in the previous month.

Credit sales showed more weakness than cash sales. Dollar volume of credit sales was 16 per cent less than it was a year earlier, compared with a drop of 11 per cent in cash sales.

At the end of July, accounts receivable of the furniture stores totaled 1 per cent more than they did a year ago. Collections on such accounts in July were unchanged from volume in July 1959.

J. L. Christian, vice president of Monsanto Chemical Co., has been elected to the board of directors and the executive committee of the company, effective Sept. 1. He succeeds in these posts Trueman M. Martin of El Dorado, Ark., a vice president, who will retire on that date. Martin was president of Lion Oil Co. prior to its merger with Monsanto in 1955.

Edward J. Bock has been elected a vice president of Monsanto and will succeed Christian as general manager of the inorganic chemicals division.

Tom K. Smith Jr. also has been elected a vice president of Monsanto and will become general manager of a new division, the agricultural chemicals division.

SOYBEANS, WHEAT AND CORN ARE LOWER

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP)—Wheat, corn and soybeans came under renewed selling pressure in the early afternoon today on the Board of Trade and slipped from major fractions to a cent a bushel in spots.

Most of the weakness was in the September contracts. Dealers said it probably indicated that the trade may be expecting rather liberal offers to deliver the commodities on commitments in the pit.

Heavy offerings of expiring contracts usually weakened the market since they enable shorts to even up their positions without having to chase rising prices.

Oats and rye attracted scattered support and were slightly higher.

11-Week Credit Easing Drive But U.S. Pays More 4th Week

Gen. Motors Acceptance Corp. Increases Rates on Short Term Notes, Effective Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—United States Government bonds continued to fall late today. Trading was at a minimum. Among corporates, industrials joined rails on the downside to give the overall list an irregular to slightly lower pattern.

Long range Treasury bonds were off 8-32 to 10-32 before a steadying tendency developed before the close. They had been lower from the start. Intermediates held unchanged to off 2-32.

The lack of trading interest made one bond specialist describe conditions as, "just like a Friday." Normally there is little action during the session before a summer weekend.

Most of the larger movers on the corporate list were on the plus side although there were more losers than gainers. Utilities, top grade investment and foreign bonds remained mixed as they were at the opening. Volume in midafternoon was about 20 per cent ahead of yesterday when the total was the lowest in over six months.

Japan 5½s of 1974 picked up 1 at 92 while Norway 4¼s lost a fraction at 99¼.

Meanwhile, despite the 11-week credit easing drive by the Federal Reserve, the Treasury was forced to pay more on the weekly issue of short term bills for the fourth consecutive time.

The 13-week bills brought a price equal to an average yield of 2.550 per cent compared with 2.518 per cent the previous week. The 26-week bills were sold for an average yield of 2.825 per cent, compared with 2.806 the week before.

Some analysts believe the upward movement is due to a heavy supply of bills overhanging the market since expected demand did not fully materialize as a result of an expanded money supply.

Five weeks ago yields on both issues touched 1960 lows.

The Federal National Mortgage Association has priced today's offering of $125,000,000 of 10-year, 4⅛ per cent debentures at 99, giving investors an actual return of 4¼ per cent.

Finance Company Up Rate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—A major sales finance company today increased rates on short term notes for the first time since mid-April. The increases, ordered effective Wednesday by General Motors Acceptance Corp., range from ⅛ to ¼ of 1 per cent in all categories except the longest term (6 to 9 months).

The last four changes by G.M.A.C. have been decreases amounting to about half a point.

The new rates range from 2½ per cent on 30 to 59 day notes to 3¼ per cent on 180-270 day notes.

The increases come after the Treasury has been forced to pay more for short term credit for four consecutive weeks, despite the general over-all easing of money charges during the last 11 weeks. Short term notes compete with Treasury bills in the money market.

Commercial Credit Co., another major commercial paper dealer, immediately matched the GMAC increases. So did Sears, Roebuck Acceptance Corp.

A spokesman for CIT Financial Corp., another big dealer, said there would be no change today.

Generally, when one company makes a change the others follow to remain competitive.

C.F.&I. OMITS DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Directors of Colorado Fuel & Iron Corp. Tuesday omitted a common stock dividend. The company paid stocks dividends of 2 per cent in April and July.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividends of 68¾ cents a share on the class B preferred and 62½ cents a share on the class A preferred stock, both payable Sept. 30 to shareholders of record Sept. 12.

The company makes rails, wire and other iron products.

Why Missouri is called a mixed-up state!

Even the native Missourian will admit his state has made a career of confusion. As far back as the Civil War days, Missouri couldn't decide whether to be Northern or Southern. Today, Missouri's north is Southern and Democrat by tradition, while the south is Northern and Republican. Takes an out-of-stater a while to figure this one out.

In this week's Saturday Evening Post, you'll read all about Missouri—the "Mother of the West." You'll discover what Missouri town closes school on certain days so everyone can go fishing. Why the Missouri beatnik is called a "wheatnik." And you'll learn, too, how the Ozarkers hunt the fox—and why the capture of a fox by a hound is considered unfortunate and not really welcomed. Jordan Premier's Assassination Seen as Serious Blow to West

BEIRUT, Aug. 30 (UPI)—The assassination of Jordan Premier Hazza Majali was viewed today by diplomatic observers as a serious blow to the West and threatened the Middle East with another crisis.

Majali, killed yesterday with ten other persons when two time-bomb explosions destroyed the Foreign Ministry building in Amman, was considered strongly pro-Western. He exercised firm control over extremist elements in a country caught in a propaganda vise between Iraq and the United Arab Republic.

Observers said the Soviet Union long has regarded Jordan as a threat to Arab world influence. Russia's recent loan of $225,000,000 to the U.A.R. was considered a further attempt to tighten Red control over U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Jordanian Nationalists accused Majali of being under the thumb of the British and French governments and considered him weak in countering Zionism.

King Leads Mourners.

Reports from the Jordanian capital said King Hussein personally led the line of mourners in this morning's funeral procession for Majali.

The body of the late Premier, borne military fashion on an artillery gun carriage, was taken from a downtown Amman hospital to an army base on the city's outskirts.

From the army base, a cavalcade of military and government automobiles escorted the Premier's remains to the village of Karak where he was born.

BAHJAT EL TALHOUNI

The reports said Amman was criss-crossed with funeral processions this morning as other victims of yesterday's bombings were buried.

Jordanian authorities were reported arresting suspects in the assassination. No details were given.

Suspect Held.

(An Associated Press dispatch from Amman said investigators believed two missing press messengers who apparently escaped to Syria planted the bombs and that one suspect was being held. (One of the missing messengers was employed by Egypt's Middle East News Agency before its office here was closed in 1957 in the long feud between Jordan and Nasser's U.A.R.)

The Amman radio reported that King Hussein urged the people to maintain order and security and instructed Jordan's new Premier, Bahjat Talhouni, to "strike with an iron fist" against the assassins.

Hussein said the incident "intensifies our determination to fight for our principles."

The King said Jordan will continue to co-operate with the other Arab countries but will "stand firm against the evil and criminal influences which have weakened and divided the Arab nation for the past few years."

By the Associated Press.

King Hussein quickly swore in Talhouni, veteran chief of the royal cabinet, to succeed Majali and approved a new 11-man cabinet. Seven members were ministers in Majali's government.

London newspapers said U.A.R. President Nasser was bound to be suspected of ordering the bombing. Majali was regarded in Cairo as a leader of Arab forces opposed to Nasser.

However, shortly before his death he approved the recommendation from the meeting of Arab foreign ministers in Lebanon that Arab nations halt propaganda attacks against each other. The bitterest inter-Arab exchanges have been between Jordan and the U.A.R.

The London Daily Telegraph said the probable reason for Majali's assassination was his government's refusal to set up a new Arab-Palestinian enclave within Jordan's borders to serve as a rallying point for the Arab campaign to wipe out Israel. Jordan at the Lebanon meeting, said formation of such a Palestine state in exile would endanger Jordanian control of the west bank of the Jordan river, which is former Palestine territory.

Jordan said the area could be turned over to a new Palestine only when the whole territory was liberated from Israel.

Hussein in Control.

Even observers in Cairo said Hussein still was firmly in control of his desert country. But Jordan was placed in a virtual state of emergency. Armored cars with troops in battle dress patrolled the capital's streets.

Airports were closed to traffic and the Amman radio suspended its regular programs.

Among those killed by the two bombs were Zuha Iddin Hammouf, under secretary for foreign affairs; Assem Taijo, director of the tourism department, and Sheikh Jamal Majli, chief of Kark village.

President Eisenhower sent his regrets in a personal message to King Hussein. He called the assassination of Majali and the others a "wanton criminal act."

LAOTIAN CABINET NAMED, PREMIER'S RIVAL IS DEPUTY

LUANG PRABANG, Aug. 30 (AP)—Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma today named a compromise cabinet acceptable to both sides in the crisis which left Laos in a state verging on civil war for 20 days. His chief rival became deputy premier.

Souvanna, who became premier after Tiao Somsanith's government was ousted in the Vientiane coup d'etat, has taken the posts of Defense, Foreign Affairs, Rural Affairs and Veterans.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, who mobilized anti-revolutionary forces and threatened forcibly to retake Vientiane, accepted the deputy premiership and the post as Interior Minister.

The army commander, Gen. Ouane Rathikoun, is Secretary of State for Defense.

All members of the cabinet formed by Souvanna soon after the coup, but which never took office, are included in the new cabinet.

ABC Chosen for Oscar Show.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30 (AP)—The Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences voted last night to accept the ABC network's bid to televise and broadcast the Oscar awards for the next five years. ABC's bid was $561,000 a year for United States and Canadian rights to the show. All three major networks submitted bids. NBC has telecast the ceremony the last eight years.

TUCKER, M'NARY TALK ABOUT SECOND AIRPORT

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and St. Louis County Supervisor James H. J. McNary met today at City Hall to discuss needs for a second major airport.

No decisions were reached and further discussions will be held, it was stated following the hour's session. Possible sites and whether a second airport should be a joint or an individual venture for the city or county were gone over by Tucker and McNary. The discussion was said to be "preliminary and of general scope."

The Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis has recommended that the city obtain options on property near Weiss Airport, in Fenton, for development as a secondary airport. The county, in turn, has considered the purchase of privately owned Lobmaster Airport, near Gumbo.

Strike Delays Another Liner.

LIVERPOOL, England, Aug. 30 (AP)—Britain's wildcat strike of seamen has forced another transatlantic liner to cancel its sailing plans. The Cunard Co. said the 22,000-ton Sylvania will not leave tomorrow for Canada as scheduled.

Nixon Adheres to Counsel Of Key Economic Advisers, Secretary Mitchell, Prof. Burns

Although Differing in Nature, They See Eye-to-Eye on Middle of Road Policies—Vice President Relies Also on Bankers' Views.

Three reporters of The Washington Post have interviewed most of the men who, while not members of the campaign staff, are contributing ideas on national policy to Vice President Richard M. Nixon. These men were asked what they think government should do in America in the 1960s and what programs the Republican party should pursue. This series is a report of what the reporters, Murrey Marder, James E. Clayton and Julius Duscha, learned.

SECOND OF A SERIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.

AN IMMENSELY PRACTICAL MAN and a pipe-smoking professor are Vice President Richard M. Nixon's principal economic advisers.

The man with the practical experience in both business and government is Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, a bearish-looking man with a bullish outlook who is admired by both labor and management.

The professor is Arthur F. Burns of Columbia University, a former chairman of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers whose ever-present pipe, unruly gray hair and thoughtful face set off by round, steel-rimmed glasses, seem to provide a perfect setting for his cautious academic manner.

The differences between the background as well as the manner of the hearty, outgoing Mitchell and the reticent, careful Burns could hardly be greater. But they give Nixon remarkably similar advice, which he usually follows.

NIXON HAS known both Mitchell and Burns since 1953 when Mitchell became Secretary of Labor and Burns joined the Council of Economic Advisers.

The Vice President sees Mitchell often, over breakfast, at luncheon, in his office. They talk by telephone. Sometimes Mitchell prepares special reports for Nixon.

Nixon does not see Burns as much, but he still pays more attention to Burns's views than to those of any other economist. Burns left the council in 1956 to return to Columbia and the National Bureau of Economic Research, a non-profit research organization in New York.

Mitchell and Nixon worked together most closely last winter when their negotiations with the steel industry led to a settlement which prevented a resumption of the steel strike in January.

Before coming to Washington seven years ago Mitchell was a successful labor negotiator and industrial relations expert, first for R. H. Macy and Co. and then for Bloomingdale Brothers in New York.

NOW 59 YEARS old, Mitchell made the transition from business to government perhaps easier than any other of the scores of business men who came to Washington in the Eisenhower years.

His common sense approach to Government has been praised by labor as well as by management. He has been one of the nation's most effective Secretaries of Labor.

Burns, who is 63 years old, was born in Austria. He graduated from Columbia University and was a professor of economics there before coming to the Council of Economic Advisers seven years ago.

"To Burns," economics columnist J. A. Livingston once wrote, "suspense of judgment is the highest form of cerbration."

No one has to be told that Burns is a professor. He looks the part. He is one of those men with the capacity to make even the most commonplace utterance seem fraught with the greatest significance.

Burns's reputation in the academic community is almost as high as it is with Nixon.

The Vice President's other economic advisers include Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson as well as another professor with government experience and two New York bankers with extensive backgrounds in public affairs.

WITH THE EXCEPTION of the conservative Anderson, the Nixon economic advisers are men of generally middle-of-the-road views on economic and political matters.

As for Anderson's role, Nixon listens to him, but the total weight of the economic advice which the Vice President gets goes beyond Anderson's more cautious approach.

Mitchell, Burns and the other advisers who are most influential with Nixon indicate that he agrees with their views of the economy.

They look on the economy as basically sound. They think that it has grown at a satisfactory pace during the Eisenhower years and that future expansion must depend largely on private initiative.

The advisers totally reject suggestions that the economy needs massive injections of Government spending. Some of the advisers believe, however, that a gradual increase in Government spending is necessary, if not inevitable.

The Nixon advisers are reluctant to criticize the economic programs of the Eisenhower Administration because most of the advisers have been a part of it.

IN ADDITION to Mitchell and Burns there is Gabriel Hauge, a former special presidential assistant for economic affairs who is now a director of the Manufacturers Trust Co. in New York.

The other New York banker who advises Nixon is Henry Clay Alexander, chairman of the board of the powerful Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., which is the key to the financial empire founded by the late J. P. Morgan.

The other professor on whom Nixon relies is W. Allen Wallis of the University of Chicago. For the last 18 months Wallis, a Burns disciple, has been executive director of the Cabinet Committee on Price Stability and Economic Growth. Nixon is chairman of this "anti-inflation committee.

The ideas which these men have been urging on the Republican presidential nominee indicate that they would like the Vice Presidential to be a somewhat more aggressive President that Mr. Eisenhower has been.

Both Mitchell and Burns have noted that more Government

Short Session Shows How Small Groups Can Frustrate Majority

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
© 1960 St. Louis Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30

IN PASSING THE BLAME back and forth for the failures of this bobtail session of Congress, both parties are playing a kind of political tennis. Each side hopes that the score will be an asset in the coming campaign.

But what the session has demonstrated once again is that small minorities in each party can frustrate the will of the majority. This was to have been expected in a special session in a presidential year, and especially with the presidential candidates confronting each other in the Senate chamber.

Yet what the country is seeing is only an acute form of the paralysis that is a constant threat when the Executive Branch and the Legislative Branch are held by opposing parties. And if the latest Gallup poll is any indicator, the election of Vice President Nixon could mean that this would be the condition for the next four to eight years. That poll shows that with the 5 per cent of don't knows divided in the same ratio as the decideds, 59 per cent would rather see the Democrats win Congress.

THIS IS EQUIVALENT to the landslide majority of two years ago. It would seem to be a powerful argument for the election of Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, so that with the executive and the legislature held by the same party responsibility could be clearly fixed for what is done or left undone. There is a catch in this, however, since some of the chief frustraters, as the Republicans are only too happy to point out, are in Kennedy's party.

Two Democrats plus the four Republicans on the House Rules Committee have succeeded at this writing in preventing the Congress from taking final action on aid to education and housing. One of the Democrats, it is hardly necessary to add, is Chairman Howard W. Smith of Virginia, who follows the Byrd line in opposition to just about everything in the Democratic platform.

The Republicans are Leo Allen of Illinois, Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, B. Carroll Reece of Tennessee and Hamer H. Budger of Idaho. They have consistently over the years voted with Smith to bottle up legislation that might otherwise pass the House. This has made the Rules Committee the primary obstacle to legislation that has often had the support of demonstrable majorities.

ON THE OTHER SIDE of the Capitol, Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.) of Mississippi, in his capacity as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has achieved a solid piece of block and tackle work. Despite many protests from both Republicans and Democrats, he has held up the nomination of Robert A. Bicks to be Assistant Attorney General in charge of the anti-trust division.

For 16 months Bicks has been acting assistant for anti-trust en-

Democrats Lead Poll on House Races

They Have 56 Pct. and G.O.P. 39 — 5 Pct. Are Undecided.

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J., Aug. 30.

IF THE ELECTIONS for Congress were being held today, the Democrats would win the House by a wide margin.

In the first survey of congressional preference since the parties officially launched the 1960 race for the Presidency and congressional seats, these were the results:

RACE FOR HOUSE SEATS

Prefer Democrats	56%
Prefer Republicans	39
Undecided	5

If the 5 per cent who said they are undecided today are divided in approximately the same ratio as the "decideds," the above figures become:

Prefer Democrats	59%
Prefer Republicans	41

Since all 437 House seats will be at stake in this November's election, the congressional preferences of the voters constitute one of the best measures of basic party strength.

Interviewing in the latest survey took place during the period from Aug. 11 through Aug. 20.

The Aug. 17 report on the presidential race was based on interviewing done in an earlier survey.

IN OBTAINING today's congressional results, the Gallup Poll made use of the same basic procedures by which it correctly estimated the 1958 congressional vote within one-half of one percentage point of the actual result.

In the present survey, this was the question asked:

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—the Democratic party or the Republican party?"

In order to interpret correctly

OAS Delegates Divided Over Results of San Jose Meeting

Some Ministers Share in U.S. Jubilation — Others Believe Conference Weakened Hemisphere.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Aug. 30.

SHARP DISAGREEMENT was apparent today among delegates to the Foreign Ministers' conference as to whether it had been a brilliant success or a tragic failure.

Cuba's dramatic walkout Sunday night was the incident that brought division. The Cubans left the meeting in a body a few minutes before the 19 remaining countries voted unanimously to condemn Russian-Chinese intervention in the Western hemisphere and warned against its acceptance by any American state.

Some delegations shared the obvious jubilation of the United States group over adoption of the Declaration of San Jose. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his aids boarded an Air Force plane for Washington an hour after the 13-minute signing ceremony yesterday.

Others make it clear they believed the Cuban problem and the hemisphere as a whole would be in better shape if the meeting had never been held.

In the United States view, the elements of success were the unanimous vote, the relatively strong language of the resolution, its denunciation by Foreign Minister Raul Roa as being aimed directly at Cuba, and finally the walkout.

AS LATE AS Saturday, the State Department had feared a split vote over even weaker language. Several nations were balking at mentioning Russia by name, and there was almost no support for the United States proposal to name Cuba.

There had been some doubt that agreement could be reached on language that would refer to Cuba by unmistakable implication. The United States had been insisting that the reference to Cuba be as clear as saying "the one-eyed man" in a card game where only one player wore an eye patch.

Some State Department officials feared that the resolution might be so watered down that even Cuba would sign it. The language itself, for all the expressions of satisfaction, was not crystal clear. Instead of accusing Cuba of cordial acceptance of Soviet offers of rockets, the resolution spoke of this acceptance as something that might take place some time in the future.

It declared that "the acceptance of a threat of extra-continental intervention by any American state jeopardizes American solidarity and security."

THE OTHER IMPLIED reference to Cuba was a statement rejecting "the attempt of the Sino-Soviet powers to make use of the political economic or social situation of any American state." If there was any doubt that Cuba was the country being talked about, Roa dispelled it by making his angry outburst and leading his delegation out of the meeting.

Who could disagree with the United States position? Obviously none of the 19 could disagree directly with an expression of concern about mounting Communist influence in an American state. The twenty-first American state—the Dominican Republic—had walked out the week before when its dictatorship was censured.

At least five could express serious reservations. In preliminary votes, Venezuela, Mexico, Bolivia, Honduras and Haiti voted against the United States in an unsuccessful effort to soften the resolution.

To name a few other delegations that were disturbed by the outcome, the Peruvians, the Panamanians and the Brazilians

Letters from the People

Answering a Doctor

First, Dr. George L. Watkins argues that Social Security-financed care for the aged would lead to socialized medicine, which would in turn destroy the "quality and quantity" of doctors. We must assume, then, that men become doctors for the high incomes obtained; this, however, contradicts Dr. Watkins's assertion that doctors are "dedicated professional people."

Either Dr. Watkins must put doctors on a level with business men, who can be regulated when their self-interest conflicts with the national welfare, or he must abandon this objection to the plan.

Second, Dr. Watkins claims that the Social Security plan would result in overcrowding in hospitals. We cannot assume that Dr. Watkins's "high quality medical personnel" hospitalize everyone who asks, merely because they can pay; we must, therefore, assume that all the new patients would be people who now need hospitalization but cannot afford it. This, however, contradicts Dr. Watkins's assertion that the A.M.A. is deeply interested in "the best possible care," not for the rich alone, but "for all the people."

Either Dr. Watkins must acknowledge a shocking neglect, which requires a cure, or he must abandon this objection to the plan.

Third, Dr. Watkins argues that the Social Security plan is expensive. This objection is weakened by Dr. Watkins's failure to mention what is being sacrificed to economy; fairness requires mention of the conditions reported by the Senate subcommittee on Problems of the Aged and Aging, conditions which could hardly be called "adequate medical care."

Finally, Dr. Watkins claims that the A.M.A. supports a plan to aid those "who need help." Whatever force this argument has vanishes when the ambiguous phrase "who need help" is defined. Those "who need help," according to the A.M.A., are those who are bankrupt and those who have become bankrupt paying medical bills. It is of little comfort for the aged to know that they will be helped when they are paupers, and not until then. A Reader

Be Alert!

As we approach the opening of another school year we all must pledge to do our best to make it a safe year.

Crossing guards can be most helpful to the motorist as well as the children. The guards can help motor traffic move faster if they will hold children on the curb until they gather several and then move the group quickly across the street. This procedure means less stops for motorists and teaches respect rather than contempt for traffic.

Let's all be alert and courteous.

The Inflated American

Another consumer price index record was broken in July. This was the thirteenth broken record in 16 tries. With what must be a considerable adjustment in semantics, this is what the Administration regards as "preventing the debasement of our currency."

If you are the affirmative type, there are other circuitous ways of thinking about this awkward situation. With the commissioner of Labor Statistics, the incantation "there is nothing inflationary in the present situation," may be pronounced. After all, the wholesale index, which is more important to manufacturers and processors, has been steady for two years. Only the consumer is being soaked.

Another thing to do is to analyze the Consumer Index into its components of goods and services. Here we find that "services" are really the culprit. Especially rents, utilities and medical care. As usual, medical cost, propelled by a very strong union indeed, is an outstanding performer. But no affirmative person thinks of rising medical prices as inflationary since they are administered with profound regard for the patient's own good. W. Shea

After the Primary

May I express my sincere congratulations on your excellent coverage of the recent election and the unfortunate scandals which grew out of it.

I was defeated in my candidacy for sheriff. However, I wish to thank the thousands of good people who put their trust and confidence in me. They can be just as proud after the election smoke cleared as they were in casting their vote. I will always be proud of their support. Louis G. Midge Berra

Appetite for Trouble

The Middle Eastern political kettle bubbles so steadily that it hardly makes news unless it boils over in violence such as the assassination of the Jordanian prime minister and other functionaries in Amman. Then we are reminded that the atmosphere conducive to such criminal disorder is a constant threat to all the world.

Middle Eastern troubles need not be interpreted always in terms of the conflict of East and West—even though it is second nature for the Russians to fish in roiled waters. The tactics of the extreme pan-Arabs under President Nasser of the United Arab Republic are a sufficient explanation. Having made the existence of Israel the leading theme of their agitation, the slightest indication on the part of any Arab politician to apply a little good sense to the Israeli "menace" is enough to make him the object of scurrilous attacks by the U.A.R. radio.

When King Hussein of Jordan dared to say that the grievance of the Arab Palestinian refugees had become a sham, he offended Nasser as deeply as did the Persian shah when he said that his government recognized Israel. This statement was quickly modified by the explanation that the recognition was only de facto and not formal, but it may be the real reason why the Iranian premier has been dismissed.

Jordanian Premier Majali's effort to achieve a radio truce with the U.A.R. at last week's meeting of the Arab foreign ministers in Lebanon apparently was no more effective. It hardly abated U.A.R. agitation among the refugees who are on Jordanian soil and for whom Nasser claims the right to set up a state of their own. Even the Jordanian promise to turn over territory to the refugees when other Arab lands are "liberated" from Israel hardly helped. No matter what the Jordanians actually do, Nasser fears that they may yet reach an accord with Israel on the Jordan river diversion project. It would be to their economic advantage. His followers fear that Jordan is not whole-heartedly behind the joint Arab declaration that "the Arab Palestine people are the rightful owners of Palestine."

It is the extremism of the Nasser fanatics that makes the problem of peace in the Middle East so difficult. Did Senator Kennedy bear it sufficiently in mind last week when he told the Zionist convention in New York that if elected he would throw the full leadership of the White House into an effort to bring about such a settlement? It is easy enough to propose, as he did, a conference between Israeli and Arab leaders. But what do you do when Israel's leading enemy appears dedicated to undermining any Arab leaders who show even an inclination to make peace? The world these days has too many men with an unappeasable appetite for trouble.

About Sports and Seasons

So far nobody knows which teams will be playing in the world's series, even though National League fans who do not live in Milwaukee have a pretty good idea who their representative will be. Yet while baseball fever still is high enough for St. Louisans to crowd out to the week-end affairs between the Cardinals and the Pirates, the air already is full of footballs—that is, professional footballs; the collegians, watched by their "purity" committees, have not yet started practice and undoubtedly are grateful not to be pushing around blocking machines in 90-degree weather. But they will be at it soon enough.

The professional St. Louis Cardinals (football) already have played three games and won two, including one with the more or less fabulous Baltimore Colts. Advertised as practice games, real money was paid for tickets to these contests. So although August's page has not yet been torn from the calendar, there is no mistaking these signs of things to come. Football now overlaps baseball, and it is overlapped by basketball. Yet even if sports seasons no longer are as faithful to the seasons of the year as they used to be, the relationship continues.

When passes and punts begin to sail through the air, fall is on the way. Despite dog-day temperatures, summer is on the wane. In fact, the first mums already are in bloom.

'You Just Go Along'

The mother of a member of the sorority which sponsored the dance that wound up with the arrest of 18 young people agrees that such organizations "are not needed in high school," and that "it is true that parents are not helping" school authorities to enforce the ban against them. "You just go along," she said.

That gets close to the heart of the matter. Principals and teachers announce the Board of Education rule on suitable occasions, but they cannot trail their pupils after school hours to make sure that it is not violated. Parents even act as chaperons for such groups. They "go along." When a scandal occurs, at least some of them are honest enough to share the blame. Others may not even care. They may wonder about all the fuss.

If such "tolerance" is widespread, administrators and teachers will find it difficult to gain compliance, no matter how much they emphasize the rule. They might make a weapon of fear by recalling much more serious scandals caused by high school fraternities and sororities in the past. But the "tolerant" parents probably would be sure that their children "never would go as far as that." And maybe they wouldn't.

A little serious thinking about the problem is needed. When such organizations in the colleges are under criticism, what justification is there for them in the high school? Young people naturally make friends and fall into groups since man at any age is a joining animal. But must the groups he joins be made exclusive and more or less secret? Does this not go against the open nature of our society? Is it well in a democracy to encourage the young in social discrimination, to make them into snobs, to give them the notion that membership in a "select" group sets them above their fellows?

While there is a tendency toward "belonging," and a desire to be somehow "special," it needs to be recognized that these may lead to false standards, and to membership tests based on daring and defiance rather than on wholesome freedom of association.

The real answer is a livelier respect for the everyday practice of democracy, and a more serious realization that rules and laws have a good purpose. Much might be achieved by resort to the honor system, not merely to prevent cheating in examinations, but to uphold reasonable rules as adjuncts to education. If the "big men" in the school were to let it be known that it is neither glamorous nor smart to organize in the dark, a new tone could be expected where forbidden societies now have standing. And that tone would make for better adult citizenship.

Cities Inside the City

St. Louis should welcome Mayor Tucker's decision to name a committee to help integrate the public housing projects with the community as a whole. Repeated incidents involving interference with police at a few of these projects call for community attention.

The housing projects are, indeed, communities within the community. Some 15,000 persons live in the vast Pruitt, Vaughan and Igoe projects. Most of them are responsible citizens proud of their new homes. But there is something wrong in the Pruitt neighborhood, for example, when unruly crowds try to prevent police from investigating a stabbing, as they did last week, or from arresting a purse-snatcher, as happened a year ago. These were demonstrations of contempt for law enforcement, if not for the privileges of public housing itself.

Community concern has been expressed before. Late last year a grand jury urged revival of the Tenants' Councils as a form of project self-government, and better inner policing of the projects. The St. Louis Housing Authority promptly accepted these recommendations. The Authority's own warning of the need for more recreational facilities has not been so effective, however.

The grand jury found a high crime rate in the three projects. In the first three months of this year, the Authority reported, the crime rate declined 59 per cent and was considerably lower than the city's crime rate. But the warmth of summer seems to sprout problems that winter freezes over.

Possibly some of the causes lie in the migration to St. Louis of newcomers who were never educated in this community's standards. In parts of the South, the color line is still drawn for crimes. There is no color line for public housing in St. Louis; there cannot be for law enforcement and acceptance of general community obligations.

Clearly the Mayor's committee, when appointed, must ask some basic sociological questions. Such research was proposed for the group by the temporary committee which recommended it. The earlier committee, under N. J. Demerath, director of Washington University's School for Social Sciences, urged a survey of ways to improve job opportunities, family ties and participation in community affairs by the housing residents.

The distance spanned by these issues represents a two-way street. St. Louis cannot expect to make the people of public housing a part of the community if it treats them in isolation. The Mayor's committee has a right to expect as much understanding outside the projects as in them.

Louisiana's Choice

The result of Louisiana's Eighth District congressional election was bound to be somewhat ridiculous, no matter who won. Former Gov. Earl Long won, defeating incumbent Harold McSween by four thousand votes. Gov. Long has described his opponent bluntly as a man "with his hand out." Congressman McSween had said he wouldn't call his opponent "crazy" because Gov. Long's wife, friends and psychiatrists had called him that. Between the contestants' sorry descriptions of one another, Louisiana voters had little to choose. Their choice could hardly constitute a formidable contribution to the national Congress.

Mediation by the U.N.

As first announced in Moscow last week, Premier Mobido Keita of the former French Sudan has asked the U.N. Security Council for a meeting on the withdrawal of Senegal from the Mali Federation, the new African state in which the Sudan and Senegal were combined when granted independence.

The Senegalese have appealed to Paris for backing just as secessionist Katanga seemed eager for Belgian backing after Brussels granted independence to The Congo. As a counter-measure, Keita is threatening to recognize the Algerian government-in-exile, a step which would embarrass De Gaulle and possibly set an example for other members of the new French Community in Africa.

The split between Senegal and the Sudan is an internal affair of the Mali Federation. There seems to be no basis for U.N. intervention as there was in The Congo. If the French can bring about an agreement without reasserting their authority over Mali, all will be well. If not, the case will be a problem for the U.N. While the international organization cannot claim the right to settle the matter, it can offer mediation. The newly independent states depend on its guidance and assistance, knowing that the alternative may be renewed domination, in one form or another, by one of the powers. So through its good offices the U.N. should be able to help the Senegalese and the Sudanese to a peaceful accord.

Deadlock to Be Broken

Do the four members of the bipartisan County Election Board favor the widest possible citizen participation in the November general election? They should. If they do, then they ought to call a moratorium on jockeying for partisan advantage and co-operate in a drive to register every adult who is eligible regardless of his politics.

The Board is presently deadlocked over a proposal to use mobile units at factory gates and similar places of assembly, the Democrats favoring it and the Republicans saying No. We see no objection to use of this method provided it is employed fairly, and we hope Republican members Heege and Habenicht withdraw their objections.

On the other hand, we see even greater merit in Mr. Heege's proposal to conduct a field registration in each of the county's 387 polling places, rather than in only a selected number as now seems to be the plan. As Mr. Heege says, a one-day polling place registration not only enables persons to get their names on the voting rolls but it also teaches them where to cast their ballots.

Of the two proposals, we think Mr. Heege's deserves first priority and that the Democratic Board members, Chairman Oxenhandler and Mrs. Dorothy Dennis, would serve their community and their party by supporting it. But we see no reason why both systems cannot be used, as they are complementary.

INVITATION TO ANARCHY

Words by Oscar Hammerstein II

Logic and Illogic of Song-Writing Explained by Late Member of Famed Music Team

Notes on Lyrics, From the Book, Lyrics. by Oscar Hammerstein II (Simon & Schuster)

It is a standing joke among authors and composers that when they meet people the first question asked of them is, "Which comes first, the words or the music?" The lyrics for most of the popular songs and musical comedies in our country today are written after the music. For 25 years, collaborating with Jerome Kern, Herbert Stothart, Sigmund Romberg, Rudolf Friml and Vincent Youmans, I set words for their music.

Why did I write in this upside-down manner? In the first decade of this century the best musical plays were created in Vienna. When they were imported, American librettists had to write translations. The second influence (toward writing the words last) was distinctly an American one—the broken rhythm. First came ragtime, then jazz. For the purpose of creating these eccentric deviations from orthodox matters, it was better to let the composer have his head. In 1911 came the dance craze. The hit melodies had to be good dance melodies. This being the most important consideration, it was better for the lyric writer to trail along after the composer.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

These seem to have been the chief influences which established the American songwriter's habit of writing the music first and the words later. It is a strange habit, an illogical one, but not without its compensating virtues. Writing in this way, I have frequently fallen into the debt of my composers for words and ideas that might never have occurred to me had they not been suggested by music.

In our collaboration Richard Rodgers and I have no definite policy except one of complete flexibility. Most often I write the words first, and yet in nearly all of our scores there are at least one or two songs in which he wrote the music first.

The first song we wrote was "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'," and the words were written first. I had been deeply impressed by Lynn Riggs's description at the start of his play

("Green Grow the Lilacs," from which "Oklahoma!" was taken):

It is a radiant summer morning several years ago, the kind of morning which, enveloping the shapes of earth—men, cattle in the meadow, blades of the young corn, streams—makes them seem to exist now for the first time, their images giving off a visible golden emanation that is partly true and partly a trick of imagination, focusing to keep alive a loveliness that may pass away.

On first reading these words, I had thought what a pity it was to waste them on stage directions. An audience would never hear them. Yet, if they did, how quickly they would slip into the mood of the story. I re-read the description and determined to put it into song.

"The corn is as high as an elephant's eye"—I first wrote "cow pony's eye." Then I walked over to my neighbor's cornfield and found that although it was only the end of August, the corn had grown much higher than that.

The refrain of "People Will Say We're in Love" was a melody written by Richard Rodgers with the thought that it might serve well as a duet for the two lovers. This procedure is the more usual approach to writing musical comedy scores. The composer dreams up some melodies which suggest certain treatments. One might seem to him a good comedy song or a good tune to dance to.

I don't believe that either Dick or I would be very successful essentially as popular songwriters — writers of songs detached from plays. We can write words and music best when they are required by a situation or a characterization in a story.

Some words that look beautiful in printed poetry are unavailable to one who is writing lyrics to be sung to music. A word like "sweet," for instance, would be a very bad one on which to sing a high note. The "e" sound closes the larynx and the singer cannot let go with his full voice. The "t" ending the word is a hard consonant which would cut the singer off and thwart the composer's desire to sustain the note.

Dick Rodgers and I wrote a song, "What's the Use of Wond'rin'?" for Carousel. It was not sung a great deal on the radio, nor did it sell many copies or many phonograph records. I believe it was severely handicapped because of the final word, "talk."

The last two lines of the refrain are, "You're his girl and he's your feller, And all the rest is talk." This is exactly what I wanted the character to say. I realized that I was defying convention in ending with the word "talk," but I had a perverse desire to try it anyway.

This time a good and sound rule slapped me down. I will not break it again. I believe that this song might have been very successful outside of the play had I finished it on an open vowel instead of a hard consonant. Suppose, for instance, the last line had been: "You're his girl and he's your feller—that's all you need to know." The singer could have hit the "o" vowel and held it as long as she wanted to, eventually pulling applause on it.

I could go on and on. If I have been long-winded, please forgive me my extravagances and indulge my blind infatuation. I'm in love with a wonderful theater.

Say It Isn't So From The Washington Post

Well, no one can think that the village elders in the eastern New Guinea highlands are out of step with civilization, however their 8000 native "constituents" may live. Indeed, they may be a bit ahead of the times—certainly no less liberal in their politics than Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. They want to pay taxes. Now it appears, the Australian authorities in Port Moresby exact no tribute from them whatever. Upon learning that other tribes in the Goroka area are being taxed, the highlanders felt slighted.

Perhaps they are familiar with the observation of Justice Holmes, who regarded taxes as the price to be paid for civilization. Or are they the heralds of a new era, in which tax-paying—and the degree thereof—will be the badge of social position, the symbol of status? If the Republican National Committee hasn't yet completed speaking arrangements for Senator Goldwater, we suggest that he open his campaign for the conservative vote in New Guinea. Don't those poor folk know that governments are only supposed to do what the people cannot do as well, etc., etc.?

Between Book Ends 20,000 Definitions

DICTIONARY OF AMERICAN SLANG, compiled by Harold Wentworth and Stuart Berg Flexner. (Crowell, 669 pgs., $7.50.)

The first impulse a reader is likely to have in picking up a book of this sort is to try to get one up on the author by finding an important omission or two. (In this instance, the missing word is "neat," meaning "keen" or "swell.")

With that out of the way, he can go on to admire the prodigious energy of the author in compiling the more than 20,000 definitions in the book, as well as the restless imagination of the many diverse persons who made them up.

American slang, Flexner says, is formed and used chiefly by men, partly because men belong to more subgroups, like the army, banking circles and jazz bands, than women do. Sub-groups use argot, special vocabularies that cover their particular situations and that allow members to distinguish themselves from persons who do not belong. With wider popularity, a transmission to other groups and the population at large, the words may qualify as slang.

Men also use slang to shock, which, heaven knows, is apparent enough in this collection. Slang is hardly ever used to convey a complimentary meaning, except in a light sense. "How many slang words are there," Flexner asks, "for . . . 'an honest hard-working man who is kind to his family?'"

"Drunk" is the word with the most slang synonyms, including "swizzled," "swozzled" and "swazzled." Slang also includes many words, usually spiteful, for racial and religious groups. Few words pertaining to sex have been added to slang in modern times, but those that exist are among the most frequently used, since standard words referring to sex are scarce, scientific or remote. Words for food furnish most of the metaphors used in slang. A popular slang word is apt to be short and to begin with an aspirate or an explosive. "Bug," for example, has 30 noun meanings listed in this dictionary.

All in all, this book provides a fascinating look at the world of language not covered, for the most part, in the standard dictionary. Not the least interesting are dead, departed words—unsettling to the reader, for instance, who will remember when "You're the cat's meow!" (archaic) was perfectly good slang. Patricia Krebs

DORIS FLEESON

The Short Session and the Campaign

WASHINGTON.

AT THIS POINT IT SEEMS that the cost of the bobtailed session of Congress should be carried as a campaign expense by the Republican National Committee rather than being charged to the taxpayers. Republicans would be getting their money's worth and Democrats need their savings to carry the South.

Possibly the public is more sophisticated politically than the self-absorbed capital of the nation has ever been willing to admit, in which case their expectations amply balance the meager returns of the session. Certainly the biggest headlines across the country have been shared by pilot Powers, The Congo and Cuba — with the servant problem of Mrs. Anthony Armstrong-Jones getting full play.

Kennedy

Nor does Senator Kennedy necessarily need to take his obvious licking lying down. He can add the conservative coalition which is running Congress to his list of enemies of the people.

Southern Emotions.

It would offend the South, but the crowds being achieved by Vice President Nixon and the increasing boldness of the Southern attack on Kennedy's Catholic ties show that he is in trouble there anyway.

No frontal attack on the South's emotional attitudes toward religion and even states rights would work anyway. The Senator from Massachusetts must find his moral issues elsewhere, and let the religious ferment, which no one person or class can control, work itself out.

Democratic propagandists have already begun to shape the kind of argument they think their nominee might make to convince the republic that it is being robbed by the relatively small handful of conservatives in key positions in Congress with the connivance of a conservative White House.

Admittedly this is delicate and risky ground, made more so by the Kennedy choice of Vice President, Senate Majority Leader Johnson of Texas. There are already some indications of stress and strain among supporters of the nominees, each blaming the hero of the other faction.

The nominees themselves are behaving correctly, even warmly toward one another. Yet neither is accustomed to losing and their fame as sportsmen is not equal to their renown in other fields.

Test Near at Hand.

Republicans are feeling fine. They began by fearing that the Kennedy-Johnson line-up was invincible. They are thoroughly enjoying the session which is legislatively so unrewarding; some think their schoolboy baiting of the rival nominees is a laugh riot, though others are not so sure.

All argue with considerable apparent conviction that the nomination of U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for Vice President has turned out well. Hardshell operators whose job it is to comb the grass roots report that what Lodge has been doing in recent years is only what everybody is for.

They might gloat over the fact that he is not, as one put it, "mixed up with the issues."

It is still early. The campaign is approaching that period where the candidates, surrounded as they are by operators, advisors and crowds, are all alone in the wide, wide political sea with never a saint to pity their souls in the agony of hard choices.

It will be a period of rapid displacement of issues by other issues, controversies by new controversies, but what the nominees are will be at the core of every conflict.

HOSPITAL ASSN. OK'S BLUE CROSS CHANGES

Plan Calls for Improved and More Uniform Coverage Throughout Nation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30 (AP)—The American Hospital Association yesterday indorsed Blue Cross plans to provide improved and more uniform coverage throughout the nation for the organization's nation-wide accounts.

The new arrangements are to go into effect Sept. 30.

Dr. Frank S. Groner of Memphis, Tenn., the A.H.A.'s new national president, said, "The A.H.A.'s overwhelming indorsement provides the approval of the third of the three major organizations involved."

The others are the Blue Cross Commission and the Blue Cross Association. Groner, administrator of Baptist Memorial Hospital of Memphis, has been a member of the Blue Cross Commission and is a past president of the American College of Hospital Administrators.

He said the new setup, while complex when considering the thousands of hospitals involved, will "provide the mechanism by which all of the plans can produce the same high quality product at virtually the same cost in all locations."

Stressing that the new unifying unit will apply primarily to nation-wide accounts, the move is intended to provide that a man working for a national organization in San Francisco will get the same benefits at the same cost as a co-worker based in New York or elsewhere.

"It is hoped we'll be able to eliminate differences that may crop up from state to state," Groner said.

The A.H.A., while heartily indorsing Groner's description of the new Blue Cross nation-wide setup, rejected a proposal that it recommend adoption of a Canadian plan for Government financing of all hospitals.

Louis A. Reed, medical economics professor at Cornell University's graduate business school, had asked the A.H.A. delegates to consider the Canadian plan.

NOVELIST VICKI BAUM DIES IN HOLLYWOOD

Author of 'Grand Hotel' Wrote 25 Books, Numerous Plays and Scenarios.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30 (AP)—Novelist Vicki Baum is dead. She died yesterday in Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital at the age of 64. She was stricken at her home in the Hollywood hills and went to the hospital Sunday. The cause of death was not announced.

In private life Miss Baum was the wife of Dr. Richard Lert, conductor of the Pasadena (Calif.) Symphony Orchestra and former music director of the Berlin State Opera.

Music was a field Miss Baum and her husband shared. She appeared as a harpist in her native Vienna in 1906. But three years later her first story was published, and her career as a writer was launched. Her first book appeared in 1914.

Lert, also Vienna-born, and Miss Baum came to California in 1931. That was the year that "Grand Hotel," her most famous novel, was translated into English.

The book became a best-seller and, later, a highly successful movie.

Miss Baum wrote numerous plays, scenarios and more than 25 novels. In 1938 she became an American citizen. For 14 years she and her husband lived at Pacific Palisades, but in 1945 they moved to Hollywood.

Miss Baum called herself an old-fashioned storyteller. Gardening and travel were her hobbies, and several of her books were based on places she had visited. "Tale of Bali," in 1937, and "Shanghai," in 1939, were among these.

Among her later books were "Theme for Ballet" in 1958, "Written from Water," "The Mustard Seed" and "Danger From Deer" in 1956, "Headless Angel" in 1948 and "Hotel Berlin" and "The Weeping Wood" in 1943. These were produced, along with many movie scripts, in southern California, where she and Lert reared two sons, Peter and Wolfgang.

SONG FOR NIXON WRITTEN HERE GAINS IN FAVOR

A Nixon campaign song written by Walt C. Marsh of Belleville and David W. Thornton of St. Louis is making steady gains in national popularity, Marsh said today.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican presidential candidate, has written to the authors, saying he liked the song. Senator Everett Dirksen and Representative Leslie Arends of Illinois have sent copies to members of Congress. It was used in Nixon's hospitality room at the Republican convention in Chicago.

Marsh is head of a stencil machine firm, and Thornton is choral director of Trinity Presbyterian Church in St. Louis. They collaborated on words and music.

The first stanza:

Oh! We're voting for Nixon
To keep the country strong;
We're voting for Nixon
And you can come along.
No matter what your politics,
No matter what your creed,
The able Richard Nixon
Is what the people need.

SANTA FOR 15 YEARS WANTS TO SELL SUIT TO PAY BILLS

Edward A. Moran, a chauffeur for the St. Louis Police Department, has been playing the part of Santa Claus since 1945. Now he is in need of a Santa Claus, he said today.

Moran, 42 years old, has for 15 years visited children's hospitals and orphanages around Christmas time, distributing toys. The toys are ones donated to him and he spends his spare time repairing them for the Christmas distribution. Moran also is a regular blood donor, having given 68 pints.

Now unexpected hospital bills and other bills have caught him off guard, Moran said, and he has been forced to put his Santa Claus suit up for sale. He is asking $100 for the suit, wig and beard to help tide him over. "It is just three years old and in good condition," he added. He and his wife live at 10175 Count drive, St. Louis county.

IRA (TAFFY) JONES DIES; AIRMAN IN WORLD WAR I

SWANSEA, Wales, Aug. 30 (AP)—Ira (Taffy) Jones, famous airman of World War I who survived 28 crashes and was credited with 40 victories in air duels, died last night in a hospital. He was 65 years old. Death was caused by injuries suffered in a fall from a ladder at his home six weeks ago.

One of his celebrated World War I exploits was chasing away a German bomber by attacking it in a plane armed only with a verey pistol used to fire signal flares. The flares frightened off the bomber.

Decorated many times, Jones tried at the age of 45 to get into the Royal Air Force in World War II. King George VI told him: "You are too old, Taffy."

Miss Kramer Again Beats Mrs. Pope for Olympic Diving Sweep

Yank Sets Record in 400-Meter Freestyle

ROME, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Ingrid Kramer of Germany completed a women's diving sweep at the Olympics today when she nosed out Paula Jean Pope of the United States to add the 10-meter platform title to her 3-meter springboard laurels.

The victory of the 17-year-old Dresden girl gave Germany its third gold medal and its first sweep in any Olympic swimming or diving event. The United States had won the high diving event in seven straight Olympics starting in 1924.

Miss Kramer turned back Mrs. Pope with a magnificent final dive which netted her 18.48 points for a victorious 91.28 total before 10,000 bonnetted and shirtless spectators.

Mrs. Pope, the 25-year-old favorite from Santa Ana, Calif., finished second with a final dive good for 16.56 points and an 88.94 total, which left her second once again by a heart-breaking 2.34 points.

Mrs. Juno Irwin, from Glendale, Calif., finished fourth with a final dive good for 16.33 points and an 83.59 total while Canada's Irene MacDonald, a 27-year-old secretary, wound up ninth with a total of 80.49 points. Russia's Ninel Krutova was third.

Somers Breaks Record.

United States prospects brightened, however, when Alan Somers, 19-year-old Indiana university student, smashed the Olympic record in setting the pace in trial heats of the 400-meter freestyle with a clocking of 4:19.2.

The six-foot, one-inch Somers won his heat by half the length of the Olympic pool in breaking a mark of 4:21 set only moments earlier in another heat by Tsuyoshi Yamanaka of Japan. Yamanaka, who broke th 1956 Olympic mark of 4:27.3 set by Australia's Murray Rose, holds the world record of 4:16.6. The winners of all six heats were under the Olympic mark.

Mrs. Pope was a mere 1.60 points behind her German rival as they went into today's two final dives. On her first dive, a running one-and-one-half somersault, double twist, pike, she earned 17.68 points, while Miss Kramer gained only 16.50 with a forward two-and-one-half somersault, pike.

Thus, with only one dive remaining, the American was only .42 points away from victory with a total of 72.38 points against 72.80 for Miss Kramer.

But in the final dive Mrs. Pope was not up to it. Miss Kramer, diving first, did an inward dive, two and one-half somersault, with pike and pulled it off so daringly that she earned 18.48 points for her triumphant total. Mrs. Pope did an inward two and one-half somersault with tuck but all she could get was 16.56 points for her second place 88.94 total and her second silver medal.

Russia gained its fourth and fifth gold medals of the Olympics with victories in cycling and individual men's foils. Viktor Kapitonov won in the 175-kilometer (about 110 miles) bicycle road race and V. Zhadanovich defeated Bill Hoskins of Britain to take the foils championship.

It was the fourth gold medal won by Russia thus far, against only one for the United States.

Kapitonov just managed to beat out Livio of Italy by inches. Willy Van Der Berghen of Belgium was third and Russia's Yuri Melikov was fourth. Kapitonov's winning time was 4:20.37, an average speed of about 26 miles per hour.

Women's Relay Swim.

With the fastest eight teams qualifying for Friday night's finals the United States sent four teen-agers out in the women's 400-meter medley relay. They finished second to Great Britain's 4:49.0 by three-tenths of a second. Germany was third another yard away.

Lynn Burke, 17, of Flushing, N.Y., swam the opening backstroke leg and was head and head for the lead in what proved to be a blanket race all the way. Fifteen-year-old Ann Warner of Menlo Park, Calif., took the second breaststroke leg while Carolyn Wood, 14, of Portland, Ore., swam the third butterfly leg. Joan Spillane, 17, of Houston, Tex., finished it up with a game freestyle final leg but couldn't quite catch her British rival in the final few yards.

Canada's team of Sarah Barber, Judy McHale, Mary Iwasaki and Mary Stewart finished fifth in the second heat which was won by The Netherlands and, on its clocking of 4:59.5, failed to qualify for the finals. The Netherlands, winning the heat easily in 4:47.7, led all the qualifiers with the United States third.

The United States gained its first gold medal yesterday when Gary Tobian won the men's springboard diving, and had high hopes today that Carolyn Schuler of Orinda, Calif., and Bill Mulliken of Champaign, Ill., would gain two more.

And Navy Lt. Bob Beck, 23, from San Diego, Calif., went to the front of the field in the modern pentathlon with a strong showing in 300-meter freestyle swimming, the fourth of the five events on the program. He carried 91-point lead into tomorrow's cross-country running final.

Mulliken set a United States Olympic record yesterday when he surged through a 200-meter breaststroke trial in 2:37.2, bettering the old mark of 2:38 he set in the opening round on Saturday.

The Americans were somewhat disappointed when Chris von Saltza, a strong hope for a gold medal, bowed to Australia's Dawn Fraser in the 100-meter free style yesterday. The 21-year-old Miss Fraser, a Sydney secretary, defeated 17-year-old Miss Von Saltza from Saratoga, Calif., by a full length, breaking loose in the last 40 meters to win in 1:01.2 to tie her own world record.

The Yanks also gained some sort of revenge on their Australian rivals when the 800-meter relay team of Bill Darnton of Flint, Mich., Frank Winters of La Canada, Calif., Steve Clark of Los Altos, Calif., and George Harrison of Orinda, Calif., whipped Australia in a qualifying heat in 8:18.

That clocking cracked Australia's Olympic record of 8:23.6, but Japan had negotiated the distance in an even faster 8:17.1 earlier in the day.

Russians Win Water Polo Brawl

ROME, Aug. 30 (UPI)—A water polo match between Russia and Romania turned into a free for all tonight, with the game taking second place to slugging matches.

Hot tempers flared early in the match, which Russia won, 3-2, and fighting broke out.

As the appreciative crowd cheered and booed, players hit each other and did their apparent best to drown their opponents.

It was reminiscent of the waterpolo match between Hungary and Russia in 1956—the time of the Hungarian revolution. That match turned into a brawl in the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia.

The referee today banned seven players from the game but that didn't slow down the trouble. At times the ball was completely ignored as the battle raged.

Cards' Conrad Has Many Kicks Coming

Bobby Joe Conrad's talented toe gave him 30 points after touchdowns and 18 points on field goals to tie him for third place in National Football League scoring last season.

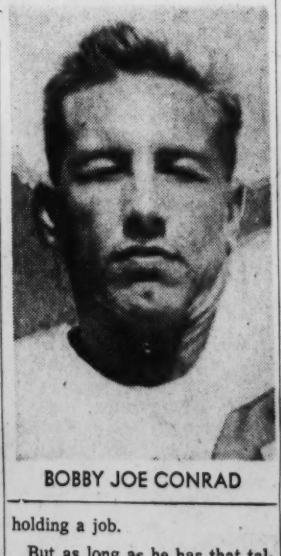
The lean 198-pound halfback for the football Cardinals could be excused if he expects to score more this season. He expects the Big Red offense to put him in position more often to kick either extra points or field goals.

One reason is that he does not expect to fumble so often. Last year the Cardinal offense committed 48 fumbles. Bobby Joe, a good breakaway runner, had 10 of them. "It's hard to explain," he said. "Our offense moves in so many different directions. After four or five fumbles you begin to get a little tense, and that leads to more."

The boyish, 24-year-old Bobby Joe married a girl he met in high school at Clifton, Tex., and they now have an 18-month-old daughter. From Texas A. & M. he was drafted by the Giants and was traded to the Cards.

A college all-star performance of four field goals and 15 points distinguished him in 1958 before he played his first pro year on defense. Last season he moved into Pop Ivy's offense as the second-leading ball carrier, and a pass catcher on occasion.

He is glad, he said, to have had both offense and defense experience because it helps assure holding a job.



BOBBY JOE CONRAD

But as long as he has that talented toe, he should worry. His only concern right now is to get his legs in fine-edge condition. That's necessary, he said, to keep the foot coming squarely into the ball. If the toe points out just a little, he said, the ball takes on a hook — tailing off, right to left, just like a golf ball is hooked.

Russian Basket Player Is Injured When He Pulls Down Backboard

ROME, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Russia beat Puerto Rico, 96-63, in an Olympic basketball game that ended 30 seconds before schedule tonight when a six-foot-five Soviet player wrecked the basket and glass backboard in the Palace of Sports.

Soviet forward A. Valjtin, who had sparked the Russian victory, rocketed for a final shot in the last minutes of the after-midnight game, lost his balance and brought down the steel and glass backboard on himself and teammates.

The Russian team immediately rushed off the floor with Valjtin bleeding.

The Russian team manager refused assistance from a doctor for the injured members of his squad.

Valjtin, cool and relaxed, stripped in the dressing room and showered.

But he gritted his teeth when a Russian trainer dabbed him with an antiseptic.

He was slashed on his shoulders, chest and both arms and there was a gash on his left wrist from the splintering glass which showered on spectators.

After the Russian squad dashed to the showers, the Puerto Ricans stayed in the court. None of the Puerto Ricans was injured.

The officials declared the game over.

The Puerto Ricans did not protest immediately and the 96-63 score was officially flashed on the scoreboard as the final result.

The United States and Russia today were placed in the same semifinal bracket, setting the stage for a showdown game Saturday night.

The International Amateur Basketball Federation put Uruguay and Yugoslavia in the bracket with Russia and the United States.

The other bracket includes Czechoslovakia, Brazil, Poland and Italy.

Semifinal play starts Thursday, when the United States meets Yugoslavia.

The top two teams in each semifinal bracket advance to the final round.

Fencing Medal to Russian

ROME, Aug. 30 (AP)—Russia's Viktor Jdanovitch won the Soviet Union's fifth gold medal of the 17th Olympic games by taking the championship in the men's fencing individual foil competition. The victory gave Russia a tie for the most gold medals with host Italy.

Jdanovitch was the first Russian ever to win a gold medal in Olympic foil competition. Added to the gold medal in cycling, it made two first places for Russia in sports in which the Soviet Union never had scored so well.

The Russian clinched the championship in the finals by beating Bill Hoskyns of Britain 5-3. It was his sixth straight victory, making it immaterial whether he won or lost his remaining encounter against defending champion Christian D'Oriola of France.

Albert Axelrod of Scarsdale, N.Y., the first American to reach the finals since 1932, lost to the Russian 5-3. That was the key match for the United States fencer had a 3-1 record going into it and the Russian had a 4-0 record.

The silver medal also went to Russia when Yuriv Sissikin defeated Axelrod 5-2.

Axelrod won the bronze medal for third place. He won it by beating Witold Woyda 5-4 and Russia's Mark Midler, 5-3. All three had 3-3 records for the regular final round.

Veeck Protest Denied

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP)—Unless baseball commissioner Ford Frick overrules American League president Joe Cronin, the game between Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox at Baltimore last Sunday will stand as a 3-1 victory for the Orioles.

Cronin yesterday notified Bill Veeck, White Sox president, that the Chicago protest on the game was denied, and Veeck said he would take it to the commissioner.

The protest stemmed from a nullified home run. In the eighth inning, with the White Sox trailing 3-1, Chicago pinch hitter Ted Kluszewski hit the ball into the stands with two men on base.

Third base umpire Ed Hurley cancelled the play, saying he had called time before Pitcher Milt Pappas delivered the ball because two White Sox players were warming up in the wrong place.

Veeck claims a league president can't pass on a decision by his umpires, and also that Hurley had no right to call time after a play had started. He claims Pappas already had started his windup, otherwise he would have stepped back and held the ball.

Duchess Du Quoin

The way fillies so regularly run out of the money, the only time ladies really are first at a race track is when a kindly old woman, hardened to crowds by battling her breed at bargain-basement shopping sales, clobbers her way to the cashier's window to cash a $2 show ticket.

Even though fillies and mares are given a five-pound weight allowance on the scale of thoroughbred racing weights, they seldom win the major stakes. Just one, for instance, Regret in 1915, finished first in the Kentucky Derby.

In the sport of kings and cabbages, but seldom of queens, the female of the species excells so infrequently that horsemen constantly campaign for more races exclusively for fillies and mares. Things apparently are so tough on the turf for the four-legged fair sex that everyone —EXCEPT the guys and gals who bet on her—awarded Silver Spoon a moral victory for finishing fifth to Tomy Lee two years ago in the Derby.

Harness horsemen, by refreshing contrast, have no qualms about having their girls chasing the boys. And in trotting and pacing the filly often catches the colt.

In 34 editions of the Hambletonian, the classic of standardbred competition, 10 fillies have finished first, and one of them, Emily's Pride, set the record for the Big "H" when she trotted a mile in 1:59 4-5 two years ago.

Big 'H' Honor Roll

With the Hambletonian coming up again tomorrow at Du Quoin, a filly, Elaine Rodney, is rated almost even with Uncle Sam, the favorite. And neither she, Darcie Hanover, Carlene Hanover nor the other girls in the big race are getting an ounce of handicap in weight of either sulky or driver.

Remember the fillies who won the buggy-whip before Emily's Pride set the record that is expected to be beaten this time?

First lady of the harness set was Isola's Worthy in 1927. Other fillies to finish first at Good Time Park in Goshen, N. Y., former home of the Hambletonian, were Hanover's Bertha, 1930; The Marchioness, 1932; Mary Reynolds, 1933; Rosalind, 1936; Shirley Hanover, 1937; Yankee Maid, 1944; Miss Tilly, 1949, and Helicopter, 1953.

Why, though, should the fair sex of the turf have so much foul luck in flat racing and so much success in harness racing?

The question went the rounds down at Du Quoin, asked by Biff Lowry, energetic second-generation horse writer. Biff, whose father, Paul Lowry, only recently retired as turf expert of the Los Angeles Times, is in a position to compare the sports. He's on the publicity staff at Hollywood Park, the nation's leading thoroughbred track, and also assists the Western Harness Association on the Pacific Coast and comes back here annually with Bob Benoit to help the Hayes brothers with the Hambletonian.

The X, Why, Z of It

Lowry was discouraged after his research. "I don't know," he said, "but most of the harness people I talked to didn't seem to care enough about thoroughbred racing to realize that fillies weren't supposed to beat colts.

"My own belief," Biff said, "is that a filly wins more often pulling a sulky than carrying a rider because trotting and pacing include larger portions of co-ordination, grace and balance.

"The standardbred horse is a shade sturdier than the thoroughbred, but because everything is relative, this point wouldn't tend to increase the trotting filly's potential over her male counterpart.

"The answer must be that in flat racing the emphasis is strictly on speed and stamina, even brute strength, as you'll note when horses get roughed up coming out of the starting gate. Harness racing tests speed and stamina, all right, but the need for form to keep the horse from 'breaking' his or her trot or pace does lend a real need for timing and balance.

"The difference, I believe," Lowry concluded, "is like in aquatics. Women swimmers can't touch men in speed or distance races, which require strength, but in diving, where timing, co-ordination and pure grace are much greater factors, women compete on a par with men."

For one, Del Miller, young veteran Washington (Pa.) owner, trainer and driver, agrees with Lowry. "Besides," Del said, smiling, "if you want any of the harness money you've got to let the girls chase the boys because there are few worthwhile harness races labeled 'For Women Only.'

"The Hambletonian field is so good this time," said Miller, "that I wouldn't be surprised if the winner, colt or filly, did the mile under 1:59."

Jackson's Three-Hit Shutout Puts Cards in Second Place

Redbirds Remain 5½ Games Off Pace

By Neal Russo
of the Post-Dispatch Staff

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30—Larry Jackson will be able to take longer winter vacations if he keeps pitching the way he did last night.

"It was mainly my control," the righthander said after pitching the Cardinals into second place with a three-hit, 3-0 victory over the Braves. The win left the Birds 5½ games behind the leading Pirates.

Jackson, having matched his major league high of 15 victories—he has lost 11—looked ahead to a maximum of seven more starts as he considered his tough chances of reaching the 20-win mark. Larry was 15-9 in 1957.

Larry Stops Sluggers.

Few have held Eddie Mathews, Hank Aaron, Joe Adcock and Bill Bruton all hitless in the same game, but Jackson did just that in extending the Cardinal winning streak to four games. They have won six of their last seven.

"Mathews and Aaron are always poison," Jackson said. "Maybe they're having off-seasons. That Aaron certainly is entitled to one. Both seem to be lunging a bit at the plate."

Jackson's mixture as he lifted the Redbirds a full game ahead of the Braves featured the slider, but he made good use of his extensive pitching repertoire. Larry walked only one and didn't let a runner get past first base. That wasn't as rough a chore as it sounds. Milwaukee had just four baserunners.

Remembering how he had been hurt by the Phillies—two home runs—recently, Jackson said he threw few change-ups for strikes. Even so, two of the three Milwaukee hits came off the change-up as Jackson gained his third shutout of the season.

Jackson, who has won 14 and lost six since a 1-5 start, was well-matched. Joey Jay, taking advantage of a good motion and changing speeds well, yielded only one hit in the first six innings, a fourth-inning single by Joe Cunningham, and faced the minimum 18 in six innings.

However, Jay again got scant support at the plate as he yielded two of the St. Louis runs, one of them unearned.

'Can't Hit for Batters.'

Milwaukee manager Chuck Dressen, still moaning about his club's long batting slump, indicated there was little hope for changing things around. Lee Maye has a sore arm and Red Schoendienst, who just rejoined the club, is bothered by a groin injury.

"Look, I can't go in there and bat for them," Dressen said. "Why, we can't even get anyone on base to play hit and run. I don't know what our men look for when they go to the plate. That Jackson was throwing sliders all evening.

"You have to punch at the ball, not go swinging from the heels," Dressen said. "We've got to start hitting if we're going anywhere."

Chesty Chuck wasn't too unhappy after the game. He distributed a bag of special Italian purple onions just imported from Italy. As Dressen sliced a king-size onion, he said of the scarcity of .300 hitters in the National League, "maybe their bats are getting heavy."

Cardinal Manager Solly Hemus, who points out that the Redbirds have a shot for the pennant, expressed hope again that somebody would knock off the Pirates. The Birds have just one game remaining with the league-leaders, who top them, 11-10, in their annual competition.

The Man Drives in Run.

Hemus wishes his club — not Milwaukee—had nine games left with Pittsburgh. The Mighty Mouse said he felt that the Pirates had not shown signs of wilting in last weekend's series.

Cracked Stan Musial, "We didn't let them (Pirates) get us into extra innings. The Birds are on the move, look out."

The Man went hitless against Jay and successor Ron Piche, but he drove in the first run in the seventh inning.

Alex Grammas, promoted to leadoff in the makeshift St. Louis lineup, opened the seventh with the second hit off Jay. The Greek singled to left, moved up on a passed ball and an infield out before scoring on Musial's high bounce-out to first base.

The Redbirds put together three of their six hits and two sacrifices for a run in the eighth. Walt Moryn, Hal Smith and Curt Flood delivered the hits.

In the ninth, the Cardinals started with Cunningham's well-tagged double to right-center and scored after two out on an error by Johnny Logan.

Then Jackson closed out the game with a string of 11-up and 11-down and eyes a 20-victory total, or close to it.

Smoky Joe Cut Down at Second

JOE CUNNINGHAM, Cardinal first baseman, out attempting to steal second in the fourth inning of the game with Milwaukee. Smoky Joe was doubled when Stan Musial struck out. JOHNNY LOGAN is making the tag. The umpire is ED VARGO. The Cardinals won, 3-0.

Broglio vs. Spahn In Tonight's Game

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30 — Two of the majors' hottest pitchers will meet in a "sweet 16" battle tonight at County Stadium. The Cardinals' Ernie Broglio, who owns a 16-6 record, will oppose Milwaukee's Warren (16-7) Spahn in the series final.

Then the Cardinals go on to Cincinnati for two night games. Ray Sadecki will pitch Wednesday and either Curt Simmons or Bob Gibson Thursday. The Birds return to St. Louis for a weekend series with Chicago.

Jovial Mayo Smith, former National League manager, is here to scout the two National League contenders. The reasons are obvious: to check possible world's series opponents and to look over talent for the interleague trading period. Smith is now a scout for the Yankees.

The Cardinal outfield which didn't have a putout against the Pirates Sunday didn't waste time Monday. The flychasers made the first two putouts of the game.

The Redbirds have a daily fielding standout. Joe Cunningham saved Sunday's game with Pittsburgh with a great stop inside the first-base line. Julian Javier came through with the key defensive play last night. With one on and one down in the fourth Javier raced back of second for a grounder that deflected off Jackson's glove, and threw the runner out.

Mayo Smith warned Ken Boyer about his fancy-fielding kid brother, Cletis, with the Yankees. "He may not take your bat away, but he might just take your glove away. He's been sensational in the infield."

Mayo asked Stan Musial what kind of pills he bought to stay so strong and healthy.

Walt Moryn's hitting streak reached 18 games with his big eighth-inning single. He is batting .548 with 17-for-31 in that stretch.

Coach Harry Walker, who has an aching back, decided to come here anyway, but Darrell Johnson again worked at first base. Paid attendance was 23,253. . . . The mosquitos were bad at County Stadium. Both dugouts had to be sprayed during the game. . . . The Cards are 3-7 against the Braves here.

Brugnone Wins

John Brugnone downed Bernie Colman, 50-22, last night in a three-cushion billiard match in the city tournament at Haddad's Academy.

Reynolds Traded by Grid Cards

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 30 —And then there were three.

The four-way competition for the quarterback role with the football Cardinals was reduced by one last night when M. C. Reynolds, at times the most spectacular, yet also the most erratic and gambling passer, was traded to the Washington Redskins.

The gridiron Redbirds will receive a future draft choice in exchange for the 25-year-old third-season professional.

The Cards, striving to get down to 43 players as required by the Tuesday after Labor day, trimmed to 47 by asking waivers on two rookies—Ernie Fritsch, a center from Detroit University, and Bob Dunnington, a defensive halfback from Richmond U.

The Cards went back to work yesterday for their next pre-season exhibition game against the Packers at Green Bay, Wis., Monday. The Labor Day game is scheduled for the afternoon.

It remained a question whether John Crow, the club's ace halfback, would be ready to return to action after having missed the victory over the Baltimore Colts last Friday night because of a shoulder injury.

Coach Frank Ivy was happy with the team's work in the 31-21 victory over the Colts at Charleston, S.C. The offensive line gave good protection for the passers.

Reynolds, a 190-pound 6-footer, was signed by the Cards as a free agent in 1958. He played at Louisiana State U. The 25-year-old Reynolds set a Cardinal record for pasing percentage in his rookie season, completing 105 of 195 tosses for .538.

Mallory in Final

Mallory, beaten by the Collinsville Ironworkers, 7-2, Sunday, will play the same team tonight at 8 o'clock in the final of the Ban Johnson baseball playoffs at Collinsville. Mallory defeated the Orioles, 4-1, last night to gain the final. The Ironworkers need a victory to win the playoffs and Mallory must take two games.

'We'll Win if We Win 26 More Games,' Danny Murtaugh Says

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Genial Danny Murtaugh, a wad of chewing tobacco in his cheek and a twinkle in his eyes, finally has made a pennant prediction for his Pittsburgh Pirates.

"If we win 26 more games I'll guarantee we'll win the pennant," Murtaugh said prior to last night's game with the Los Angeles Dodgers, knowing his club had only 30 games remaining and was leading by more than five games.

Murtaugh said the Pirates get a big break in playing 18 games at Forbes Field, including six of their remaining nine games with the Milwaukee Braves.

"It's no secret that we do better at Forbes Field than in other parks. But what will happen remains to be seen. Our club is healthy and there is no reason why it should not bounce back in the remaining games. We've bounced back before."

10 Places in U.S. Amateur at Stake in Qualifying Here

Cochran Will Not Compete

By Robert Morrison

Jim Jackson of St. Louis is one of more than a dozen Walker Cup golfers in action today over the country in efforts to qualify for the National Amateur championship—and Jim hopes his jinx has taken a walk.

The 37-year-old St. Louis player, who was a Walker Cup player in 1953 and 1955 and was a consistent performer in the Amateur during that period, has encountered a strange run of bad luck the last few years. He has failed to qualify the last four times.

"It wasn't bad luck, it was just bad golf," said the two-time Trans-Mississippi amateur champion who was low amateur in the National Open of 1952 and twice went as far as the fifth round in the National Amateur.

Jackson is one of 107 players who entered the St. Louis section trial being played at Algonquin and Old Warson Country Clubs today. He rates along with Jim Tom Blair and a few others in the top contender class.

Meet Here Sept. 12-17.

The big field here is shooting for 10 places in the national tournament that will be played at St. Louis Country Club Sept. 12-17.

One of the local stars was missing, however. Bob Cochran, the 47-year-old paper salesman who was the amateur golf sensation of the season when he went to the British and Western amateur finals, said he would be unable to play.

"I just couldn't make it," said Cochran, who suffered a sacroiliac condition that forced him to default in the Western final at Duluth, Minn., Aug. 7. "I still have the pain and my doctor advised against it."

Jackson, however, had reason to believe his chances are good.

"I haven't any excuses for the poor record of recent years," he said. "But I've been playing better this year. I can't say I'll qualify because you never know. But if I can't, I don't know what it takes."

Three Trials Monday.

Numerous other Walker Cuppers, present and past, are required to qualify in the 36 sectional trials. The trials started yesterday with three tests — at Kansas City, Portland, Ore., and Seattle—and continued with the remainder today.

Billy Joe Patton, the personality man from Morganton, N. C., was to attempt to qualitfy at Indianapolis, Arnold Blum at Birmingham, Ala., Dr. Frank Taylor at Pasadena, Calif., Chuck Koosis at Detroit, Ray Billows and Don Cherry at New York, Ward Wettlaufer at Buffalo, Billy Hyndman and Jim McHale at Philadelphia, Dale Morey and Tommy Aaron at Spartanburg, S. C., and Bill Campbell at Huntington, W. Va.

The qualifying tests will fill 189 of the 200 places in the main event at St. Louis C. C. The 19 exempted players include title defending Jack Nicklaus, Columbus, O., former champions Charlie Coe, Harvie Ward and Dick Chapman; British champions Deane Beman and Bob Sweeney; 1959 semifinalists Gene Andrews and Dudley Wysong Jr., junior champion Bill Tindall, and public links champ Verne Callison.

Little Joe and His Trotting Hope

JOE O'BRIEN, known as Little Joe among harness race drivers, with BLAZE HANOVER, his hope in the 38th HAMBLETONIAN over the Du Quoin one-mile track, Wednesday.

Carlene Hanover's No. 19 Post Spot Does Not Worry Baldwin

By Harold Flachsbart
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

DU QUOIN, Ill., Aug. 30—The eyes of Texas will be on Uncle Sam tomorrow, but the eyes of many of the leading harness drivers of the country will be on Ralph Baldwin and Little Joe O'Brien.

Uncle Sam is a three-year-old trotter rated as an 8-5 favorite to win the Hambletonian, the world's richest trotting stake, at the Du Quoin state fair grounds, where Gene and Don Hayes are hosts to Grand Circuit racing this week.

Ralph Baldwin is a 44-year-old native of Saskatchewan, Canada, highly skillful in the development of young harness horses. He has three of the 19 trotters in the big "H," and there was a feeling that maybe he wouldn't do so badly after all with the No. 19 post position which he drew for his filly Carlene Hanover.

The ruddy-complexioned Baldwin, his blue eyes sparkling because he has three chances at the top prize, is a down-to-earth man, just like most folks in the harness world.

With three horses in the field and other drivers handling his Star Performer and Quick Song, in more favored post positions in the front tier, Baldwin could be excused for grumbling a bit with that No. 19 spot at the outside of the second tier.

'The Luck of the Draw.'

"There's nothing we can do about the weather," Baldwin said, "and there's nothing you can do about the luck of the draw in a harness race. What you can do—is do your utmost to win and you can bet I'll be striving with Carlene."

There always is a personal ambition to win the Hambletonian, the Kentucky Derby of the sulky world, but if you could see the picture on the brochure of the "Hambletonian Vital Statistics" you'd never guess it. Baldwin is shown striding into the winner's circle (after last year's race) and is being congratulated by Don Hayes. But he's aiming for a hand-shake with Frank Ervin, his driver for Diller Hanover.

Uncle Sam is owned by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex., a geologist. Uncle Sam is his first really high-class trotter.

Driver Lou Huber Jr. allows that Uncle Sam likes to go to the top and if the Texas-owned horse doesn't favor a bruised foot, he'll be hard to stop.

Blaze Hanover in No. 1.

Little Joe O'Brien enters into the picture because he's driving Blaze Hanover, the horse in the No. 1 post position that couldn't be trained for many weeks because of injuries.

Veterans of the Grand Circuit call O'Brien a "magician" because he gets more out of a trotter or pacer than he would lead you to believe.

Blaze is a question mark in this big stake but the other drivers are wary. "If he had six to beat, he'd concentrate on five of them," one rival driver said. "And if he felt he had only three to beat, hold onto your hat."

That's the kind of race a crowd of 22,000 to 25,000 is likely to see.

A heavy shower late yesterday afternoon was not expected to affect the fast condition of the track and the guessperts from New York and California, Chicago and Ohio and the Hayes brothers predicted the Hambletonian mile record of 1:59 4/5 would be lowered.

Uncle Sam, with the eyes of Missouri on him, instead of the eyes of Texas, already has negotiated the mile in 1:59 3/5 at the Sedalia track.

The Hambletonian victor is the first horse to win two one-mile heats. There could be two, three or even four.

On the Du Quoin scene are Mr. and Mrs. Ivone Grassetto and their 19-year-old daughter, Sandra, of Padova, Italy, the new owners of Hickory Fire, a colt slated to start in the second tier. Accompanying the Grassettos is Dr. Carlo Cacciari, president of the Italian Breeders' Association.

Uncle Sam, the Big "H" favorite, looked fit after Monday morning workouts. Watching was Dr. R. C. Flannery, renowned horseman who keeps the immortal Greyhound at his farm near St. Charles, Ill. "I don't see any hitches in his git-along," said the doctor.

Nibble Byrd Ties Record at Du Quoin

DU QUOIN, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP)—Nibble Byrd tied a season's record for 2-year-old pacers Monday by winning the first heat of the Illinois Breeders stake in 2:01 1-5.

Driven by Clint Hodgins, the R. C. Larkin colt came back to win his second mile in 2:03 1-5. The race for baby papers headlined the opening day's card at the Du Quoin State Fair, where the Hambletonian will be held on Wednesday.

Fiddler's Green from the Graham Stock Farm of Salem, was a straight heat winner in the breeders 3-year-old pace.

Petunia's Filly, entry of E. L. Garrison of Peoria, Ill., captured the 3-year-old trot in a race-off with another Graham entry, Count Trot.

No. 1 Tackle For Illini May Be Out

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 30—Illinois Big Ten football championship hopes, already rocked by the loss of two top halfbacks, received another jolt today. It was revealed that Cliff Roberts, senior 256-pound tackle, may not be able to play this fall.

Roberts aggravated a neck nerve injury this summer while doing construction work on campus. He has been under treatment from a specialist, but will remain a question mark at least two weeks.

At that time it will be learned whether Roberts can play at all this year. Head trainer Bob Nicollette said that results of injection he had been receiving to repair the nerve area will be known then.

The halfback losses were Johnny Gounts, who failed scholastically, and Gary Kolb, who signed a St. Louis Cardinals baseball contract.

Other less-publicized losses, all through scholastic failures, were Mike Summers and Gordon White, sophomore fullbacks; Cal Wheeler, junior end; Dick Dunwoody, sophomore guard; and Don Bufford and Jewel Butler, sophomore halfbacks.

Roberts was the regular left tackle starter last season. He and 245-pound Joe Rutgens gave Illinois the bulkiest set of tackles in the Big Ten. If Roberts doesn't make it, 232-pound Darrel Dedecker is the likely successor.

New coach Pete Elliott has not named his first string lineup for the first day of drills Thursday. The probable lineup is: Ed O'Bradovich, 222 and Gary Hembrough, 207, ends; Dedecker, 232, and Rutgens, 245, tackles; Pat Lennon, 200, and Gary Brown, 207, guards; John Kruze, 210, center; John Easterbook, 156, quarterback; Joe Krakoski, 192, and Marshall Starks, 189, halfbacks; and Bill Brown, 211, fullback.

St. Louis area candidates most likely to see action this season are Tony Zeppetella, Collinsville, left guard; Joe Wendryhoski, West Frankfort, right guard; Lindell Lovellette, Eldorado, left tackle.

Modern Betsy Ross Keeps U.S. Yacht In Olympics Race

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 30 (AP)—The spirit of Betsy Ross lives on.

The American entry Spirit VI in the Olympic dragon-class yacht competition was in danger of being thrown out because its pennant-shaped wind indicator was not of the rectangular type specified by Olympic regulations.

To the rescue came Betsy Ross in the person of Pat Parks, wife of Bill Parks of Chicago, skipper of the star class Shrew. She got some Italian red silk and spent the night sewing a rectangular wind indicator plus two protest flags.

The Spirit VI finished seventh out of 27 boats yesterday.

Prep Football Player Dies After Drills

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (UPI) Aug. 30—Death came last night to Ralph Kent Pope, 14-year-old football player at Shawnee Mission East High School after grid drills. An autopsy was planned for today.

The boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Pope of Overland Park, Kan., collapsed on the school's practice field following about 45 minutes of man-to-man blocking drills and calisthentics early last night.

BOWLING
by John J. Archibald

14 in a Row

A 714 series by DENNIS CHAPIS gave him the lead in the televised bowling series on KPLR, Channel 11. Chapis, now 20, rolled a 290 middle game. After finishing that one with 11 strikes, he started the third game with three more for 14 in a row.

Chapis's opponent was GLEN BLAKESLEY, of Kansas City, who fired a creditable 642 that put him fourth among all the bowlers who have competed in the series thus far. The top four scorers will return in September to battle for a $2000 first prize.

St. Louis's BILL TUCKER is now second with 659 and TOM HARNISCH, of Detroit, is third.

During an open play session recently at Northland Bowl, assistant manager FRANK BASS shot a 300 game on Lanes 17-18. Among the witnesses was HARRY COSTER, a tenpin veteran, who scoffed at Bass's feat. . . . "If you can shoot a perfect game on that pair, I sure can," said Coster. . . . He nearly did it. Coster turned in 10 consecutive strikes before getting a split and finished with 287.

Bowlers who for years have been hearing teammates say, "You're dropping the ball behind the line," may soon be convinced of the fact. The same goes for bowlers with such faults as an extremely high backswing, a faulty push-away or incorrect hand action at the point of release. . . . They can see themselves in the movies.

A firm is making films of bowlers at various establishments. The pictures are then put together in a book that can become a "movie" when flipped rapidly.

Faults can be spotted because the book, of course, can be stopped at any point. . . . The same service will be available for golfers who suspect their form is less than perfect.

BEA GOLDSTEIN carried a 188 average for 18 games in the Kitty Kat Mixed League at Nelson Burton's Olivette Bowl. Included was a 658 series. It was a W.I.B.C.-sanctioned league.

The interest-sustaining value of a split season was demonstrated in the Meadowbrook Country Club League at Bowl-a-Rama during the last campaign. A group of mostly new bowlers called the Rockin' Rollers finished twentieth in the 20-team league in the initial half of the season. . . . In the second half the team won its first 12 games, led the loop most of the way, and finally finished in a tie for second.

Members of the Rockin' Rollers were Mr. and Mrs. LESTER HANDELMAN, Mr. and Mrs. BILL OXENHANDLER, Mr. and Mrs. MEYER LOOMSTEIN and Mr. and Mrs. STANLEY HANDELMAN.

Bowler DICK HOFFSCHWELLE is the author of most of the funny lines on the marquee in front of the Ray Bluth Shop. One that puzzled many passersby after the Cardinals obtained their rookie second baseman was: "Julian Javier Was a Brunswick Star." . . . It referred to the fact that Javier was a standout with the Brunswick, Ga., baseball team.

Hoffschwelle passes along the story of a wife who was ready to blow her stack when her husband said one Saturday afternoon that he was going down to the bowling alley. . . . "If you ever stayed home some Saturday I'd drop dead!" she shouted. . . . He paused a moment, then replied, "Don't try to bribe me."

McLure, Clay Win In Boxing

ROME, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Wilbert McLure of Toledo, O., scored a close but unanimous decision over Francis Nyangweso of Uganda in their second-round, light-middleweight Olympic boxing bout today.

Nyangweso scored on the inside in the first round but McLure won the round with superior boxing.

The favored United States fighter scored many times with long rights to the body and head and pounded the Ugandan against the ropes. But the tough Nyangweso failed to go down. Blood poured from a cut on his nose in the third round, he fought back strongly, but not enough to win although he had McLure worried.

Cassius Clay, national Golden Gloves champion from Louisville, Ky., stopped Belgium's Yvon Becaus in 2:55 of the second round of a second round light heavyweight bout.

Three Shutouts In Legion Tourney

HASTINGS, Nebr., Aug. 30 (AP)—The pitching got progressively better as three shutouts were pitched in the American Legion little world series yesterday.

Tonight's schedule sends Brooklawn against Berwyn, Ill., and Klamath Falls against Miami, with the losers eliminated.

Orioles Stop Chicago Fifth Time in a Row; Pirates Maintain Lead

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (UPI)—Thirty days hath September, and if the Baltimore Orioles can keep winning at the same rate as in August, Paul Richards has a hunch "we're liable to be still playing baseball by October 15th."

He's talking about the World Series, son, and he certainly has every right to in the face of Baltimore's tremendous surge.

The Orioles have been the hottest club in the majors this month with 20 victories in 28 games so far. Not even the first-place Yankees, with a 20 and 10 log, were able to match that pace.

The Orioles made it six out of their last seven and climbed within 1½ games of first place by blanking the Chicago White Sox, 4-0, last night. It was Baltimore's fifth straight victory over the defending American League champions and made the top three look like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.	G.B.	To Play
New York	73	49	.598		33
Baltimore	74	53	.583	1½	27
Chicago	71	54	.568	3½	29

Jack Fisher, 21-year-old right-hander who won only one game for the Orioles last year, shut out the White Sox on four hits and struck out eight last night for his tenth triumph.

Richards took the victory with his customary calm but he was a bit excited over Fisher's showing, particularly his curve ball.

Best Curve on Staff.

"When his curve is working, it's the best on the staff and one of the best in the league," declared the Baltimore skipper.

The Orioles clinched the game in the first inning by scoring two runs off Herb Score on Jackie Brandt's thirteenth homer and back-to-back doubles by Gene Woodling and Brooks Robinson. Brandt and Woodling, with three hits apiece, and Robinson with two, collected all of Baltimore's eight hits.

The Cleveland Indians moved to within two games of fourth place with a 6-4 decision over the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox downed the Kansas City Athletics, 4-1. New York and Detroit were idle.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates retained their 5½-game lead with a 10-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Cardinals took over second place by beating the Milwaukee Braves, 3-0, and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Francisco Giants, 2-0. Cincinnati and Chicago were not scheduled.

Grant's 'Cousins.'

Jim (Mudcat) Grant of the Indians brought his life-time record over the Senators to 15-1, even though Washington routed him with a two-run rally in the ninth. It was Grant's ninth win of the season, five of which have been at the Senators' expense. Camilo Pascual (12-8) was the loser.

Home runs by rookie Lu Clinton and Frank Malzone carried the Red Sox to victory over the Athletics, who went down to their seventeenth setback in the last 20 games. Don Larsen, who yielded both homers in the second inning, suffered his tenth loss against a single victory.

Hal Smith and Don Hoak both hit three-run homers against the Dodgers to help the Pirates snap a four-game losing streak. Vern Law, who also homered, won his nineteenth game and fifth of the season against the Dodgers. Law gave up eight hits, including a homer by Tommy Davis, Johnny Podres was the loser.

Rookie Art Mahaffey (where have they been keeping him?) won his fourth straight game for the Phillies without a defeat by limiting the Giants to two hits. Mahaffey, who had an 11-9 record with Buffalo of the International League earlier this year, pitched perfect ball for five and one-third innings before Ed Bressoud singled to right field. Joe Amalfitano got the Giants' only other hit.

Brewer Back in Hospital

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP) — Chicago Cubs rookie pitcher Jim Brewer is undergoing further treatment of his right eye, which was injured in a pitcher's mound brawl with Billy Martin of the Cincinnati Reds.

Brewer, who was hospitalized 17 days after Martin punched him Aug. 4 in Wrigley Field, reentered a Chicago hospital yesterday.

Earlier he underwent surgery twice for two fractures of the right orbital bone, which runs beneath the eye. Cubs officials said the fractures have become infected, making further treatment necessary.

Brewer's physician said the 22-year-old hurler is experiencing pain but that a few days' treatment should clear up the infection.

Martin claimed Brewer was throwing pitches at his head and charged the mound.

The Cubs instituted a $1,040,000 damage suit against Martin.

Jim Slattery, Former Boxing Champ, Dies

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 30 (UPI) — Former light - heavyweight boxing champion Jimmy Slattery, a golden boy of sports in the 1920s, was found dead today in his hotel room here.

Slattery, the man promoter Tex Rickard tagged as the boxer most likely to succeed world's champion Jack Dempsey, apparently died of a heart seizure during the night. His body was discovered sprawled between the bed and a chair in his room at the Windsor Hotel.

Slattery celebrated his fifty-sixth birthday last week. He had been retired from the ring for two decades and plagued with illness for several years.

Partly, these dissents expressed sympathy for the Cuban revolution, either on the part of the delegates themselves or at least among people back home whose hopes for social change and a higher standard of living had been inspired by their Robin Hood impression of Fidel Castro.

Partly also, there is a strong reluctance among Latin American nations to interfere in the domestic affairs of their fellow nations. Despite United States protests to the contrary, there is a widespread impression that United States commercial and economic difficulties with Cuba are at the core of the present crisis, and that what the United States really is fighting is Cuba's social and economic revolution.

ANOTHER FACTOR is a certain tenderness on the part of many Latin American states toward any of its fellows that has incurred the displeasure of the powerful United States. This took the form of a desire to leave the door open on the chance the prodigal son would return.

On top of all these complicated motives have come stories of quiet but forceful arm-twisting by the United States in the 24 hours before the final vote. Members of the United States delegation kept the telephones busy calling foreign ministers who were wavering. The subject of past and future economic aid from United States inevitably lurked in the background of these conversations.

Gallup Poll

the results, these points should be made clear about the Gallup Poll's procedure.

Since a sizable group of those eligible to vote do not turn out on election day, we base election survey results on those persons who can be regarded as a sample of the voting population.

The major regions of the United States are represented according to the estimated proportion of the total vote cast in each region.

In today's poll voters were asked which party they would like to see win if the election were held today. They are not asked how they think they may vote on Nov. 8. In the case of those voters who are undecided about how they would vote today, a second question is asked as to how they "lean" at present. Their votes are then credited to the party named.

IN EVERY ELECTION since the Gallup Poll made its first surveys in the 1936 election, poll results have been attacked by Republicans and Democrats who do not like the findings.

The best answer the Gallup Poll can give is its own record of accuracy.

With the exception of 1948, the Gallup Poll has forecast the winner in every election it has covered. The average error for these 12 elections has been 3 percentage points.

In the elections since 1948, when many improvements were made in polling procedures, this error has been an average of 1.7 percentage points.

No poll is infallible. The Gallup Poll never has or never will make this claim. It attempts to present an accurate and impartial measurement of current trends in public thinking. This is all that the Gallup Poll has ever claimed.

forcement. During this period the 33-year-old New York lawyer has prosecuted a series of anti-trust cases more vigorously than at any time since the days of Thurman Arnold in the 'thirties. The list of companies he has filed cases against is a roster of corporation giants.

Pressure from these powerful sources is believed to be the real explanation for holding up the Bicks nomination. Eastland has said that the committee cannot report out the nomination without hearing further witnesses, although so far as is known there is no one to hear. As this is written, the committee has no hearings scheduled.

Attorneys General in many states, the head of the American Bar Association meeting here, Whitney North Seymour, and many others have appealed to the committee to act. Yet Chairman Eastland exercises a seemingly unchallengeable veto. It is a perfect example of how the seniority and the committee systems combine to give obstructive power to tiny minorities.

EVER SINCE 1954, when the Republicans lost their small majority in House and Senate, the Congress has been Democratic and the President has been nominally a Republican. Because the President is a national hero with wide bipartisan support and because Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson has never challenged him, accepting his vetoes as the order of the day, the relationship has not been too troubled.

But it requires little imagination to see how the situation would be altered if Nixon were in the White House, and particularly if it were suspected that he owed his victory to religious prejudice in a close election. The Senate is certain to be Democratic after January. In order to capture the House the Republicans would have to win 65 seats, and that is a landslide which certainly at this writing is not in the cards.

Here is a prescription for fratricidal stalemate at a moment in history when we can least afford stalemate.

Nixon Aids

spending will be needed in the 1960s for schools, highways and other public works projects.

MITCHELL HAS pointed out, for example, that Government — state and local as well as federal — will have to spend more money to help metropolitan areas in particular solve their transportation, water and slum clearance problems.

While conceding that more public spending may be needed, Burns quickly adds, as does Mitchell, that public and private spending must be kept in careful balance.

"Look where we are, "says Mitchell, who likes the looks of the nation's 500 billion economy. "We have done all this through policies emphasizing the proper balance between public and private spending."

Neither Burns nor Mitchell is specific when it comes to establishing guidelines for the proper balance. Both men, however, do not want public spending — and taxes—to go far beyond the present figure of 25 to 30 per cent of total production or total income.

Mitchell and Burns are satisfied with the rate of economic growth in the Eisenhower years.

"Anyone who says the economy ought to grow at a fixed rate of 3, 4 or 5 per cent a year," Burns maintains, with some indignation, "either is a charlatan or else an ignoramus."

J. K. GALBRAITH, Seymour E. Harris and other economic advisers to Senator John F. Kennedy are among those who have criticized the rate of growth under Mr. Eisenhower and urged that the Government set a fixed growth rate as one of the goals of its economic policies.

Kennedy's economic advisers also are among the supporters of programs to give more Government direction to the economy, primarily to help stimulate its growth.

Here, in fact, are the greatest differences over domestic policies between the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees as well as between their advisers.

"Galbraith and some of the others who may go to the extreme of advocating central planning—even to the planning of what private industry should do—are just wrong," Mitchell states.

"They have too much confidence in bureaucracy," adds Mitchell. "It doesn't cost a man in government anything personally when he makes a mistake, but mistakes are costly to a business man. He can't afford to make too many of them.

In a speech in June in St. Louis before the annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Nixon derided what he called "growthmanship" and went on to note that "Government should avoid, as much as possible, interference with the decisions that are made in the private sector of our economy."

THE TERM "growthmanship" is believed to have been coined by James R. Shepley, an old friend of Nixon's who is on leave from Time magazine to assist the Vice President in his presidential campaign.

Economist Wallis says, however, that whoever did coin the word made a mistake because it has been used to make Nixon look as if he opposed maximum economic growth. Wallis feels that the press is responsible for the misinterpretation.

"The cleavage," says Wallis, a rangy, reddish-haired, soft-spoken man who is 48 years old, "is over the means of achieving growth."

In a widely acclaimed speech at the Harvard Business School two years ago Nixon said that "if our economy were to grow at the rate of 5 per cent a year we would have 10 billion more in tax receipts in 1962 than if we were to continue to grow at the recent rate of 1½ per cent."

THIS STATEMENT was used by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York in the Fifth avenue white paper he issued following his all-night meeting with Nixon on the eve of the Republican Convention and subscribed to by Nixon.

Although Rockefeller has advocated a 5 per cent growth rate as one of the nation's economic goals, Nixon has not done so specifically. The Vice President has merely pointed out what a 5 per cent growth rate would raise in additional taxes.

It was Burns who recommended Wallis to Nixon for the job of executive director of the anti-inflation committee.

At the time the committee was set up in the spring of 1959 it was generally looked on as a sounding board for Nixon's ideas. Its reports have not, however, gone beyond generalized statements with which few persons would take exception.

The Cabinet committee has emphasized inflation as a primary economic problem, as has President Eisenhower throughout his administration.

But the Nixon advisers speak of inflation almost as an afterthought. In their view, inflation in no way assumes the importance as an economic problem as does the question of economic growth.

"Inflationary pressures have been pretty well contained since the Treasury Department and Federal Reserve Board accord in 1951," says Wallis.

Wallis's reaction to Nixon is typical of those advisers who have known the Vice President for only two or three years.

WALLIS CONFESSES that he had a negative reaction to Nixon before he knew him. Now Wallis admires the Vice President for his mind, which Wallis finds to be quick and analytical, for the wide range of his knowledge and for the genuine interest which he shows in even the most difficult areas of economic thought.

"Why," Wallis says, "the Vice President sometimes acts much more like a professor than a politician."

Although the Eisenhower Administration's favorite economic topic, inflation, is not stressed by the Nixon advisers, another familiar refrain of the Administration, tax reform, does run through the recommendations of the Nixon advisers, most of whom are business-oriented men.

GABRIEL HAUGE, for example, stresses the importance of encouraging savings.

"You get investment from savings," says Hauge. "There must be a reward for savings . . . Tax laws ought to be made as receptive as they can be so that they encourage expenditures for research and development."

Hauge, who is chairman of the finance committee of Manufacturers Trust as well as a director of the bank, was an editor of Business Week magazine before he joined the White House staff in 1953. He left the Administration in 1958.

An economist, Hauge is a 46-year-old, blue-eyed Norwegian who was born in Minnesota and worked as a key aid to Thomas E. Dewey when he was Governor of New York in the 1940s.

Burns notes, too, that there must be a good climate for economic investment. He points to the people who make business decisions on the basis of loopholes in the tax structure, and decries such actions as extremely wasteful to the economy.

Banker Alexander is also concerned with the need for tax revision to increase the incentives for savings and the accumulation of adequate funds for investment.

The 57-year-old Alexander was vice chairman of the Strategic Bombing Survey carried out after World War II. A Tennessean, Alexander is a self-made man whose sheer ability carried him to the top of one of the world's most famous and most influential banks.

BURNS NOTES that if the Federal Reserve Board did not concern itself with monetary policy and the stability of the dollar, the State Department would be forced to do so in the interests of American foreign policy.

All of this advice comes to Nixon in memos, special reports, informal conversations, formal discussions and sometimes hurried telephone talks.

And all the advisers are quick to say that their views are not necessarily those held by Nixon.

Mitchell says, however, that he has seen ideas he has discussed on an informal basis with Nixon pop out in speeches or statements made by the Vice President.

A comparison of Nixon's public statements on economic problems and the views of his advisers shows that except for Secretary Anderson they are in fairly close agreement.

Anderson's role as a Nixon adviser appears to be ambiguous. The two men are not close friends, and it may be that Nixon consults with him for much the same reason that he listed the Secretary as a vice presidential possibility.

In the Republican Convention in Chicago last month Nixon was overheard saying that he included Anderson on his vice presidential list because he was "the man the President wants considered."

Nixon's advisers maintain that the Vice President has a lively interest in economics as well as a wide knowledge about economic problems and their solutions.

His advisers say that Nixon's training as a laywer and his retentive mind make it easy for him to grasp even obstruse economic questions.

They say also that the Vice President is very much his own man and rejects suggestions as freely as he accepts them.

In the view of his advisers on economics, Nixon can interest himself in the views of a professor as easily as he can in the pragmatic ideas of a man like Mitchell.

Perhaps this best explains the reliance Nixon places on two men as different as the practical Mitchell and the professorial Burns.

'Trust Buster' O'Mahoney Makes Final Senate Speech

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI) —Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming, the old "trust buster," made his last speech on the Senate floor yesterday in a voice quivering with emotion.

Few Senators seemed aware of it, but the 76-year-old Democrat was saying goodbye in his own way.

He introduced a bill to abolish the insurance rate-making body of the District of Columbia on grounds it is guaranteeing high rates to insurance companies rather than looking out for the public welfare.

Soon the Senator will close out 25 years in Congress—years in which he waged a continuing fight against monopolies. He is not running for re-election.

O'Mahoney was a member of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "Sub-Cabinet" when the New Deal came into power in 1933. He was first assistant postmaster general until he was appointed to the Senate in 1933 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Senator John B. Kendrick, (Dem.), Wyoming.

In the following years, he served as chairman of the temporary National Economic Committee which investigated big industrial combines. Later he aroused congressional ire over the Dixon-Yates contract, which involved big insurance companies.

Thus it was in character yesterday when O'Mahoney called for a "constructive effort" to remedy alleged defects in the insurance laws of the nation's capital.

Sitting at his side was Senator Wayne Morse, (Dem.), Oregon. When O'Mahoney, who has to be brought to the Senate in a wheel chair, finished his speech, Morse rose to pay tribute to him.

Morse said O'Mahoney was a living symbol of the term, "trust buster."

Morse said O'Mahoney would go down in American history as the "most effective and able man" in the Senate in efforts to protect free enterprise.

"I can assure him we will carry on," Morse said.

O'Mahoney listened with bowed head.

"I thank the Senator," he said.

FRISCO LOSES APPEAL TO DROP MEMPHIS TRAINS

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—A proposal by the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railway that it drop its last two daily passenger trains between St. Louis and Memphis was denied yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railroad was ordered to keep the trains running for one year, at the end of which time the company may renew its request to discontinue them. The trains operate over a 305-mile route serving 36 intermediate communities in Missouri and Arkansas. The southbound train leaves St. Louis at 8:40 a.m., arriving in Memphis at 5:15 p.m., and the northbound train leaves Memphis at 7:40 a.m., arriving in St. Louis at 3:35 p.m.

In its application for discontinuance, the Frisco said it lost almost $100,000 on the trains in 1959 and about $42,000 in the first four months this year. A group of Frisco freight customers said they favored dropping the passenger trains in the belief that elimination of passenger losses might bring a reduction in freight rates.

Although statistics show a steady decline in passenger patronage, the ICC said this decline appeared to have been halted in 1959 when the two trains had 3000 more passengers than in the previous year.

"On the basis of evidence," the commission said, "the conclusion is justified that a substantial number of passengers are still riding the trains; a considerable quantity of express is being transported, and the public demand and need for the service cannot be satisfied by substitute services.

"We are of the opinion that the operating losses, if any, are not so substantial that the continued operation of the trains would unduly burden interstate commerce."

The Frisco's request to drop the trains was opposed by the Missouri Public Service Commission and various representatives of communities along the line, who said loss of the trains would hamper economic growth in their cities.

PLANS BIOGRAPHY BASED ON PAPERS OF GEN. MARSHALL

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 — Gen. Omar N. Bradley announced plans yesterday for publication of an authorized biography of the late Gen. George C. Marshall.

The biography will be based upon 500,000 of Marshall's personal papers and more than 50 hours of recorded interviews. It is expected to cast light on controversial or obscure points of World War II.

Bradley's announcement was made in his capacity as head of the George C. Marshall research foundation, to which General Marshall left all of his papers and archives. The General, who died Oct. 16, 1959, had refused to write his memoirs. He is said to have rejected one offer of $1,000,000 for his version of World War II. He turned the materials over to the foundation.

By the Associated Press.

The first of three volumes of the biography is planned for publication by the Viking Press in early 1963.

TWO ESCAPE AFTER AUTO CRASHES IN POLICE CHASE

Two men, riding in an automobile which had been reported stolen in south St. Louis, fled from police yesterday following a chase which ended when their machine struck a light standard and an automobile at Twelfth and Hickory streets.

Police Sgt. John Finan, riding in a one-man patrol car, saw the stolen machine at Grand boulevard and Chouteau avenue. He started after it with his siren sounding. The men in the other car reached speeds of 50 miles an hour, Finan said. When they turned right into Twelfth, Finan saw one of them holding a nickel-plated revolver. The officer fired at the car.

When the fleeing car turned left into Hickory it went out of control. The driver and his passenger fled. A .38-caliber revolver was found in the machine, which struck a car driven by Miss Shirley Kingsfield, 7409 Whitehaven drive, Sappington. She was not hurt.

2 YOUNG ROSICLARE GIRLS SUFFOCATE IN REFRIGERATOR

ROSICLARE, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP)—Two girls suffocated yesterday in an abandoned refrigerator on the porch of a vacant building in Rosiclare.

The bodies of Laura Ann Wallace, 6 years old, and Carol Jean Lowe, 8, were discovered by Kenneth Wallace, father of Laura Ann, after a search in the early evening.

Wallace owned the old refrigerator. He told authorities he turned the refrigerator door toward the side of the building but someone moved it away from the wall without his knowledge.

President Picks Judge to Head Unit to Streamline U.S. Agencies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (UPI)—President Eisenhower gave his support yesterday to a proposed study of ways to get rid of cumbersome procedures, unnecessary expense and delays in federal administrative agencies.

The White House announced that the President was asking Judge Elijah B. Prettyman of the United States Court of Appeals here to serve as temporary chairman of a presidential conference on administrative procedure. Judge Prettyman headed a similar study for the President in 1953-54.

Mr. Eisenhower said the chairmen of the "big six" independent regulatory agencies proposed a new conference in a letter to him dated Aug. 25.

The letter noted that an advisory council to study the agencies has been set up by the House Commerce Committee, which conducted widely publicized hearings on the agency operations.

These hearings delved into such subjects as broadcasting payola and rigged television quiz shows, and federal court action to deal with such problems.

The letter to the President said the House Commerce subcommittee which held the hearings concluded in its interim report last February "that the situation required a more comprehensive and permanent organization than its advisory council."

Therefore, the chairman said, they were proposing a new conference of officials of federal departments and agencies which have significant regulatory functions.

The six agencies are the Federal Communications Commission, Securities and Exchange Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Federal Power Commission and Civil Aeronautics Board.

In his letter, the President said he concurred in this proposal. And he said, he heartily approved of the suggestion that Judge Prettyman act as temporary chairman of the conference and arrange for its initial organization.

TOWN PUB INSTALLS BEAUTY SHOP FOR PATRONS' WIVES

CASTLESIDE, England, Aug. 30 (UPI) — Village wives don't complain any more when their husbands nip down to the village pub for a pint of the best. The wives go with them and get their hair done.

Mrs. Olive Dumas, whose husband owns the pub, installed a beauty parlor in a back room of the place.

"It's an ideal arrangement and it must be the only place in England where men don't grouse about waiting while their wives have a hairdo," Mrs. Dumas said today.

Signing Declaration of San Jose

Herter said the Declaration, which condemns Communist intervention in the Americas, "Constitutes a clear indictment of the Castro government in Cuba." The Declaration was passed unanimously by the 19 nations present—the Dominican Republic having left the conference when it was condemned for its part in plot against Venezuela's president, and Cuba walking out Sunday. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Art Buchwald

Rooms to Spare For the Olympics

ROME, Aug. 30.

THE OTHER DAY the editor called us in and said, "Have you ever thrown a coin into the fountain of Trevi?"

We said we had.

"That's good, because you're going back to Rome."

ART BUCHWALD

It seems that there was some sort of World Olympics going on and he thought it might be a good idea if we went down and did some weightlifting or whatever they do at an Olympics.

We protested that it was too late and there probably wasn't a hotel room to be had in the entire town.

He was very sympathetic and said, "Sleep in the Coliseum."

"Okay," we said, "I'll fly down right away."

"Don't fly," he said, "run down. It will be good for you and you'll be able to understand the track events better."

So we put on a pair of sneakers and a pair of tennis shorts and, paced by a Lambretta motor scooter, we made it in 5 days, 4 hours and 23 minutes.

We expected Rome to be in chaos but apparently everyone else did and half the people who wanted to come were frightened away.

As a matter of fact there are still plenty of hotel rooms to be had and many of the hotel managers have been crying into their fettucine over the situation.

It seems that as soon as the Olympics were announced every travel agency and airline reserved blocks of rooms to protect themselves against what would obviously be the crush of all time.

But the publicity was so great about the shortage of rooms in Rome for the Olympics that everyone decided to go to Venice, Florence, the Riviera and London, which has caused a hotel shortage everywhere excepting in Rome.

The manager of the Savoia Hotel where we're staying said last year at this time there were so many tourists here you couldn't get a hotel room anywhere. But this year with the Olympics it's no problem.

Also because of the rumors there are still plenty of seats to be had for most of the events.

Once we were bedded down we went out to get accredited.

It's harder to get accredited to the Rome Olympics than to compete in them. It seems the United States were allotted only 50 press accreditations. and they were given to, of all people, sports writers, who have no more business being at an Olympics than we have at a film festival.

Without accreditation it's very difficult to talk to anyone at the Olympics except hotel managers. So we went out to the Olympic Village on the outskirts of Rome to see if we could do anything about it. We explained we had run down all the way from Paris and we didn't want the accreditation for ourself, but we wanted to sell it so we could pay for our trip back to Paris. But the Italian officials said no even to that. The most we can do for you, one of them told us, is get you a hotel room. You could probably watch the bicycle races from your window.

But we told them we already had a hotel room, and if that's the way they felt, then it would be the last Olympics in Rome we ran to.

That night we called the editor and explained to him the situation and asked him for instructions.

Without hesitation he said swim back.

One Man's Trash--Another Child's Treasure

A Father Learns That You Never Can Tell What Junk His Youngsters Will Find Useful

By Lester A. Schaffer

THE FELLOW WHO SAID it was good to collect things as a hobby never thought of the hobby of trash collecting.

In our neighborhood trash is collected on the second Monday of each month, and one of the favorite sports of the younger generation is to get to the neighbors' trash before the pickup men come along. Since a good deal of it is placed out at the curb the night before, this gives them nearly 24 hours in which to gather spent flashlight batteries, broken ballpoint pens and other articles that have already outlived their usefulness.

Which, of course, means nothing to a child. One battery looks pretty much like another, provided the juice hasn't leaked out, and the sad expression on a youngster's face when he finds that the one he retrieved isn't any good is enough to send a parent to the store to buy him a new flashlight, complete with batteries, just to ease the pangs of disappointment.

From rummaging around in trash piles the child acquires, along with his hoard of unvaluables, an assortment of cuts from broken glass and other sharp objects. This, however, doesn't dampen his enthusiasm very long. After a few drops of iodine and a properly placed band-aid, he goes out happily again to battle for the cause.

Last month our 7-year-old rescued a large supply of old framed family photographs, including one which looked like Aunt Sophie. Someone at home cautiously remarked that one of the picture frames, if properly touched up, could lend enchantment to a nice crayon sketch of the family parakeet one of the children had drawn.

The idea found considerable support. Besides, a can of paint is a helpful ingredient in making a child feel his creative best. The whole thing soon became his private masterpiece—picture, frame, and the hole in the plaster where it hangs on the wall.

Old inner tubes, properly cut, make nice jumbo rubber bands or drawbands for slingshots. They can be used, too, as a substitute for leather to make a pouch. And if the tube doesn't leak very much, it can be some fun at the old swimming hole. Bicycle tires don't seem to offer as many uses. My best solution so far has been to put them out in my own trash the following month.

One of our table lamps started a new career with us as a composite from discards. The base, with a tattered shade and decrepit wiring, was found one month, and three or four months later a suitable shade turned up which only needed some simple re-covering.

When you get along that far in the game you couldn't give up if you wanted to, so you go all the way and add new wiring. The finished product, possibly because it reflects our glowing pride, even seems to give off more light than a brand new one would. If it were a silver toothpick inherited from some great-great - grandparent who had brought it to the New World centuries ago, we could hardly esteem it more.

Tricycles with wobbly wheels are a common item found in the trash. And they are uncommonly hard to do anything with. A wheel reasonably straight can provide a great deal of fun for children who paddle it along the sidewalk with a stick. This is a pastime that seems to have lost favor since father was a boy. As for the remainder of the tricycle: Trash thou art, to trash returneth.

How does one tell a small child that mattress springs which have burst through the ticking are not satisfactory for making a pogo stick? I had to prove it by building a contraption which Rube Goldberg would have envied. Then I had to convince the boy that while automobile springs would probably be sturdy enough for his purpose, it was more important to leave them in the car.

The thought of the children bringing home paint cans with the lids pried off and the colors dripping down the sides is enough to curl your hair. By the time I get home from work the trash has been collected, which means that until the following month's pickup I have to keep such undesirable stuff stored in my basement somehow so that the small fry can't get at it. The mess children can get into with something like a batch of paint cans with wet remnants is frightening.

An empty box or can is a real find. Children never seem to have enough places to put their treasures, and a small container is an ideal storage thing for their valuables. Band-aid boxes, even though the lids may be twisted out of shape and not close properly, seem to command a premium over ordinary containers in our neighborhood. They are nearly as numerous as the flipping cards the youngsters use. Perhaps this is because our bruises-and-cuts rate is higher than in other neighborhoods.

An assortment of small pink or green tile, obviously excess from a bathroom remodeling job, started the girls on a project of remodeling a doll house. The floors and lower walls were lined with this tile, and the upper walls and ceilings were re-finished in colors which seem garish to the old folks at home, but which did not offend the juvenile eye. A series of Popsicle sticks strung together with knotted cord provided venetian blinds. New curtains were made, tiny pictures were glued on the walls and the toy fireplace got a fresh coat of white paint.

The young ladies found, however, as grownups so often do under the same circumstances, that once started on a project of this scope there is seemingly no end to it until one gives up in despair or exhaustion.

The dolls who lived in this redecorated mansion had to be spruced up. The remains of an old girdle salvaged from a friendly trash pile were cut up into tiny pieces and made into new doll clothing. Material of this kind is a "natural." The elastic fits snugly on the dolls, and is especially good for underthings, bonnets and other articles which need a little help in staying put.

One of our children de-trashed an old manicuring scissors, which is pretty much what a boy needs to dissect bugs for microscopic analysis. This pleased us, because my wife and I are completely unco-operative about lending the children our own equipment for "bug-opsies."

If you think an old compact with a broken mirror has no attraction for the trash scavenger, you're wrong. Powder from such a find is an excellent item for analysis under the microscope. It looks a great deal different at close range. A sprinkling of it over a greasy fingerprint can also provide a little fun for amateur detectives seeking to learn who left the smudge on the hall mirror.

It's amusing to watch a youngster shopping for bargains in the trash pile. His face beams with anticipation.

A hobby of this kind, while having its share of hazards and parental distresses, must also have a lot of hidden value. Psychologists advocate that parents learn what interests their children, and this pastime seems to absorb youngsters of almost every age. Why not, then, encourage it?

Pet Doctor

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. I have an eight-week-old puppy. At what age does it start eating meat, and what kind? Mrs. F. G. of Jamaica, N.Y.

A. Your puppy is now ready to be introduced to solid food. If your new friend has been fed nothing but liquids to this age, I'm surprised he hasn't voiced his discontent by now. Most puppies have been weaned at five or six weeks, and from then to about six months comes the most important period of growth and development. This is the time when the animal's protein, vitamin and mineral requirements are the greatest, if he is to be assured of a healthy body to carry him through life. A diet that is satisfactory for the older dog must be supplemented for the puppy. Normally, I advise small tastes of meat or canned dog food even before the weaning period is over. Meat feeding should be gradual. For the first few days, just let the little fellow lick on a morsel of meat. Gradually increase the portion until he's consuming a tablespoon of meat for each pound of body weight. Divide this amount into two meals. You can start with beef, lamb, horse meat, or a good grade of canned dog food.

Ground Sausage.

It's convenient to have fresh ground sausage on hand in the freezer for Sunday brunch; but don't store the meat for longer than one month.

Why, Oh Why Do They Starch Shirts?

By Hal Boyle

HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30 (AP).

WELL, IT HAPPENED AGAIN.

The day started off swell. I hit the alarm clock—that mechanical bird in my boudoir—with the first flung shoe, and it fell over and said "gleep."

The shining sun heralded the advent of another morning of challenge.

Time has taught me the better part of valor is to take the challenge of each fresh day lying down as long as possible. I like to lie there and in my mind preview the potentialities of the day and its probable ambushes.

Well, this morning I couldn't foresee any possible ambushes. The weather was fine, the rent wasn't due, the cat wasn't scratching my daughter and I could hear my wife humming in the kitchen.

She still hums that old tune, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You," and after 23 years of marriage I still wonder who she really has in mind.

Well, I got up and showered and the water was just the right temperature. And I shaved and the razor blade was sharp against the whiskers but didn't cut the skin.

The day looked better and better. Then it happened.

I bent down and tugged a shirt from the drawer, removed it from its pristine cellophane and cardboard container, and started to don it.

Don it? It was like trying to buckle on armor plate. The shirt was stiff enough to stand on its tail. The cuffs as I fought my fists through them fought back with a white firmness.

The collar was an iron halter, and my first attempt to button it failed. It cut my throat and threatened to throttle me.

Yes, it had happened again.

I stalked into the kitchen and confronted my wife in majestic silence.

"What's the matter now—did you break a shoelace?" she asked.

"No. Starch!"

"Not starch!" Frances exclaimed. "Not starch again!"

"Yes, starch! Again . . . and again . . . and again!"

"We have a new laundryman," said my wife. "He didn't know you don't like starch in your shirts."

"That is the excuse my father used to get from my mother and I first heard it when I was 3 years old," I told her. "We have been fighting starch in our family for at least three generations.

"Starched shirts are our ancestral doom. We have been hiding from starch since my grandfather landed here from Ireland right after the Civil War. But starch always tracks us down.

"I know at least 3000 men, and not one of them likes a starched shirt. Who wants starch anyway? Why do they put starch in just men's shirts? Why don't they put starch in women's clothes?

"There is always a new laundryman, and the first thing he does is pour a bucket of starch over all my shirts."

"Oh, dry up, Rover," said my wife. "What will you have for breakfast?"

"Starch," I told her. "Scrambled starch, shirred starch, hard-boiled starch, soft-boiled starch, fried starch, baked starch. I'd rather eat starch than wear it."

And what man wouldn't?

At the Movies

IT WOULD BE MY LUCK that in pinch hitting for the movie critic I'd have to see a psychological thriller. I'm strictly a song and dance type, preferring movies with pretty clothes and no plot. I dislike being made nervous and muttering, "It's only a movie." When Alfred Hitchcock comes into my living room I go into the kitchen. Yet here I was, assigned to see "PSYCHO," the latest Hitchcock offering, at the ST. LOUIS THEATER, publicized as a film so filled with suspense that viewers are admitted only at the beginning of the picture to get the full frightening effect.

To my relief, the film started mildly enough. A tawdry story about a Phoenix stenographer who spends her lunch hours with her boy friend in a cheap hotel room when he's in town and argues about why they can't get married. (Because he's paying his wife alimony and they don't have enough money, that's why.)

Back at the office, she finds her boss with a 10-gallon drinker who has brought $40,000 cash to buy a house. ("Never carry more than I can afford to lose," he brags, flipping the bills.) SNent to the bank to deposit the wad, the girl does what any redblooded, slightly larcenous girl would do and skips town. She does it clumsily, arousing suspicion with every move, hurries to her boy friend's town but doesn't quite make it. Night and a rainstorm force her to stop at a motel vacancy sign.

They have nothing but vacancies, the cheerful, personable young man tells her. The highway moved away. He and his mother—he nods toward the brooding Charles Addams Victorian haunted house—rarely see anyone. There's no place to eat, but will she come up to the kitchen and have a sandwich?

Moments later she hears an old woman's angry tirade. Certainly he can't bring some strange hussy into her house. Crestfallen, he returns with the sandwiches. The girl sympathizes, lets him talk of his domineering mother, his hated stepfather now dead, his taxidermy hobby. They agree "we are all caught in our private traps." The girl goes to her room, plans to return to Phoenix. As she showers, a huge figure with a huge knife strikes.

"Mother——blood," you hear the boy's agonized cry. But like a dutiful son he disposes of the evidence neatly.

The girl's disappearance brings on her sister, her boy friend and a private investigator. After the private eye also disappears at the motel, the girl and boy friend demand that the local sheriff question the motel operator and his mother. Mother? asks the sheriff. She and her second husband died in a suicide-murder years ago. If there's an old woman at that house, he scoffs, then who's buried out in the cemetery?

There is a logical if horrible explanation for all this, but to reveal it would spoil the truly shocker surprise finish. By this time the web of suspense, flimsy as a spider threat at first, has you bound and gasping.

I wish I had more basis for comparison because I suspect this is one of the best products of Hitchcock's genius, a genius which can imbue a commonplace object—a shower tap, an envelope—with horror. Anthony Perkins as the motel proprietor stands out and so will "Psycho" in many nightmares to come. I hope the next time I have to review a movie it's something light and gay. Like "Bride of Frankenstein Meets Dracula's Daughter."

Where Did That Wheel Come From?

EVERYTHING CAME IN PIECES in the Twentieth century, the scholar of 3000 A.D. will observe in his graduate thesis reconstructing our complex civilization.

Few things ever came "assembled," to use the expression of the day, but only "knocked down," from badminton sets to bathroom fixtures. Those things which were assembled for purchase, such as small toys for small children usually were knocked apart in short order and playrooms throughout the nation were dotted with plastic wheels. After a while they were mixed up and no one knew which wheels were for cars and which for planes.

CLARISSA START

Children of the Twentieth century were model conscious, a result of parental "do it yourself" hobbies, and every child worth his weight in peanut butter owned boxes of cars and planes to be assembled. When these parts fell to the floor, it was difficult to ascertain whether a wheel part belonged to a model airplane or a model car or had been broken off a ready assembled plane or car.

When designers weren't making toys of plastic they were making "things" such as games and rainy day gadgets consisting of plastic pieces. When these fell to the floor it was difficult to tell whether they came from model planes, model cars, assembled planes, assembled cars, games, crafts or something quite different like, say, the turtle's tank or the mosaic coffee table.

Children weren't the only ones involved. Mothers of the Twentieth century owned such things as nail polish bottles with removable plastic handles (easily confused with the axle from a model car or the exercise bar from the turtle tank), earring racks, spool holders and African violet containers with plastic saucers which fell off frequently. These plastic saucers, when they rolled into a corner, were easily confused with parts from a model car (large size), the sundeck of the turtle tank, soap dishes, ash trays, canasta card holders and the cute "things" designed to hold father's shirt studs and loose change which was never loose for very long.

Not everything in the Twentieth century American household was made of hard plastic. Many, many products came in "squeeze" bottles, also easily confused, and occasionally an elegant hair-do was sprayed with a room deodorizer or a miracle drug.

Many, many objects in the Twentieth century household had knobs or buttons from which the term "push button society" was derived. These buttons were so simple a child could operate them, and most children did. Mothers cleaning the playroom floor were never quite sure whether the knobs came from the television set, the car radio or the refrigerator defroster, or were part of a model plane, model car, assembled plane, assembled car, nail polish or the turtle's tank.

Obviously things could not go on like this. One day someone pushed a plastic button. Whether it was thought to be the remote control of the TV set or the bubble gum dispenser is not known, but it set off the whole works. Everything went to pieces.

The researchers of 3000 A.D., the scholar will record, not only gained valuable information on Twentieth century civilization from the rubble they unearthed but were able to do something their ancestors had never accomplished. Out of the ruins they assembled one complete model airplane.

Ann Landers

Suspects Husband

Dear Ann Landers:

HOW CAN A WIFE tell for sure if her husband is cheating? My Warren has always been a good husband and father. He stays home at night or takes me with him. I know where every dime goes. But he's been acting strange lately and I wonder if it means anything. He's been using deodorant every morning.

He never used to do this and it's got me worried. Also, he seems to hesitate before selecting just the right tie. Please tell me if you think I'm worrying needlessly or do you suspect he has another woman in his life?

SUSPICIOUS.

Dear Suspicious: Just because your husband wants to be neat at his place of employment doesn't mean he's sprucing up for a woman.

A husband who stays home at night or takes his wife with him, has no bad habits and accounts for every dime, sounds like a jewel. Read the next letter and be ashamed of yourself.

Dear Ann Landers:

MY HUSBAND never was the neatest guy in town but these past few years he's become so careless about his personal habits that I can't take it much longer.

Weeks go by and he doesn't take a bath or a shower. I have to hide his socks and underwear at night so he'll put on fresh things in the morning. If I throw his soiled clothes in the bathroom hamper he'll fish them out and put them on again, so I have to take them to the basement.

Please tell me what to do, Ann. He's fine in all other ways—gentle, kind, good to the children and to me, and he has an excellent mind. Why is he so lazy?

UNSIGNED.

Dear Unsigned: Your husband is more than lazy—he's sick. His "excellent mind" has a few blind spots. Part of personal hygiene is consideration for others.

Tell him to go to a doctor and get himself straightened around. Cleanliness is still next to godliness.

Dear Ann Landers:

MY BOY FRIEND and I have been arguing about something for a long time. We've consulted etiquette books and have found nothing to settle the question.

Who should go up the stairs first—the man or the woman? And who should go down first?

He says the woman should go first, always. Is he right?

STAIRCASE SADIE.

Dear Staircase: He's only half right. The woman should go up the stairs first, but the gentleman should lead the way down the stairs.

A staircase presents the hazard of a fall. Women have a way of falling up the stairs as well as down. If the man is behind her on the way up he can catch her. If he is ahead of her on the way down, he can break her fall.

Confidential to DISCOMBOOMBERATED: This bird has something up his sleeve all right—his arm. "Little hints" and "sly innuendoes" don't add up to a marriage proposal. Five years is too long to "just date"—especially when a gal is within hailing distance of 32. Return his ring and tell him you hope he and his mother will be very happy.

Strange Case of the 'Sleeping Beauties'

Cleveland Mother Admits She Kept Her Daughters Drugged, but Doesn't Know Why She Did It

MRS. LILLIAN FRATANTONIO

VENITA, left, and BERNADETTE FRATANTONIO, after their awakening.

By Al Ostrow
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30.

IT IS AN AGONIZING ORDEAL to have the most intimate details of your private life bared by a widely-publicized investigation.

That is the current excruciating experience of Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio. The 29-year-old mother of five children literally quivers with remorse and explodes with emotional fury as she awaits trial for perpetrating one of the most bizarre hoaxes in medical history.

Two short weeks ago, the attractive dentist's daughter was the object of international sympathy as the mother of the "Sleeping Beauties"—two pretty little girls afflicted by a mysterious "sleeping sickness" which kept them in a fairly constant state of suspended animation.

Then the comas—and the sympathy—ended abruptly when physicians discovered that the children had been drugged by sleeping potions administered by their mother.

Police Sgt. Norman Ferris, normally assigned to homicide investigations, had the embarrassing experience of having to arrest Mrs. Fratantonio in the hospital room where she was recuperating from the birth of her fifth child, an 8-pound girl.

"Why did you do it?" he asked.

"I don't know," the mother sobbed. "I really don't know. . . ."

In an effort to find the answer she couldn't or wouldn't give, Cleveland authorities have bared Mrs. Fratantonio's two most closely guarded personal secrets to public view—how she outwitted medical science for 11 months, and how she tricked her husband by having an illicit romance.

The strange case first came to public attention early this year when Cleveland newspapers received anonymous phone calls suggesting that they investigate the condition of 3-year-old Bernadette Fratantonio, a patient in Mount Sinai Hospital. Investigators now believe the woman caller was probably the child's mother.

Hospital officials frankly told reporters they were baffled by Bernadette's illness. The child had been sleeping almost 24 hours a day since she was hospitalized last September.

"She apparently has some rare disease which our staff has thus far been unable to diagnose," said Sidney Lewine, hospital administrator.

Overnight, the surge of publicity lifted the Fratantonio family from obscurity into the community limelight.

Vincent Fratantonio, the 33-year-old father, had been a little noticed shipping clerk at Carling's Brewery. Suddenly, other employes surrounded him with attention. His co-workers took up a collection to help pay Bernadette's medical expenses.

Children held fund-raising parties for Bernadette throughout metropolitan Cleveland. Each day's mail brought the family added donations and fresh expressions of sympathy.

A lumber dealer was so touched by the family's dilemma that he signed a $1500 check to help send the mother and daughter to New York for a three-week stay at the huge Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center. Mrs. Fratantonio slept in the nurse's home so that she could spend most of her waking hours at the bedside of the dozing Bernadette.

There was another outpouring of public sympathy when the New York experts admitted their inability to determine the cause or cure of the child's coma.

A new sensation was created early in July when Bernadette's 5-year-old sister, Venita, was admitted to Mt. Sinai Hospital with the same unique affliction. The little girls slept together in the same room, while their mother sighed beside them. The father spent his vacation at home, caring for their two sons, Joseph, 7, and James, 4.

Mrs. Fratantonio reluctantly curtailed her bedside vigil when she entered St. Anne's Hospital for the birth of her new baby.

Until this time, the father and mother had been cordial and cooperative with newspaper reporters and photographers. Pages of pictures of the "sleeping beauties" were published. A crew of Life Magazine photographers spent a week snapping the girls from every conceivable angle. On the day Life appeared with the resulting layout, the Cleveland Press published this banner headline:

"2 SLEEPING BEAUTY SISTERS WERE DRUGGED, TESTS PROVE"

The Frantantonio family immediately became hostile and unfriendly to reporters, angry at the public interest in their children.

"I never asked for any gifts," the father snapped. "From now on, I'm going to send them all back."

It was the casual remark of a young intern that caused the expose of the hoax that had fooled some of the nation's top medical experts.

VINCENT FRATANTONIO

For months, the Mt. Sinai Hospital staff had been holding a daily conference to discuss the "Sleeping Beauties." These huddles resulted in almost 500 tests—all inconclusive or negative.

At this crucial conference, as all the older hands were shaking their heads in acknowledged bafflement, the young intern, a newcomer to the staff, spoke out. "You know," he commented, "the girls seem to be sleeping like people under the influence of barbiturates. . ."

No tests had ever been made for sleeping potions. "In a case like this," Lewine explained, "you wouldn't ordinarily think of testing for barbiturates any more than you'd think of testing for uranium."

A nurse leaped to her feet. "It could very well be barbiturates," she said. "The children seem to conk off to sleep after their brief wakefulness every time their mother visits them. . . ."

Lewine called in Dr. Samuel R. Gerber, coroner of Cuyahoga county and president-elect of the American Academy of Forensic Medicine, as a consultant. Dr. Gerber, an internationally recognized authority on how to solve crimes with test tubes, suggested that the "sleeping beauties" be isolated. He ran laboratory tests which definitely established that the children had been drugged into drownsiness. Traces of the drugs were found in the children's blood.

When Mrs. Fratantonio went into the other hospital for childbirth, Bernadette and Venita opened their heavy eyelids and escaped from slumber when the drugs wore off.

Dr. Gerber's test, disclosed the presence of barbiturates in a medicine dropper Mrs. Fratantonio had used to feed fruit juices to her drowsing daughters.

Sgt. Ferris said he was convinced—"unless he is the best actor in the world"—that Fratantonio knew nothing about his wife's astounding secret.

The husband also knew nothing about her extra-marital affair until he read about it in the newspapers. A young man confirmed the affair to detectives. Mrs. Fratantonio disclosed the alliance to investigators in an effort to help explain the state of mind in which she concocted the "mystery malady" of her daughters.

Why did she do it?

The theory of several Cleveland psychiatrists is that Mrs. Fratantonio became annoyed by Bernadette's friskiness and demands for attention, and discovered she could quiet the child by drugging her to sleep. When a family physician insisted that the drowsy daughter be hospitalized for observation, the mother continued to sneak sleeping pills and potions into the child's food.

Then came the avalanche of publicity, and the once obscure housewife became an individual who shared headlines and television newscasts with major personalities.

Venita's "affliction" was a new publicity triumph.

Now Cleveland authorities are as puzzled by the new twist of the "sleeping beauties" case as the medical men were by the earlier phases.

Should the mother be punished? What should be done with the children?

At the moment, the mother is free on bail, awaiting Juvenile Court trial the week of Sept. 19 on charges of mistreating her children. Juvenile Judge Margaret Spellacy, who will decide the case, has ordered Bernadette and Venita placed in the Parmadale Orphanage, while the other three Fratantonio children are being cared for by relatives.

Fratantonio insists that he loves his wife and will do everything he can to regain their happiness.

Mrs. Fratantonio sobs and sighs, "I don't know why I did it. . . ."

Her attorneys advise her that, despite her previous admissions, she must insist under oath that she did nothing wrong.

Bernadette and Venita, unaware of the storm of interest raging about them, frisk and play with each other and an array of stuffed animals.

"It's fun to stay awake!" Venita smiles.

Opening lead—king of spades

IT IS a common thing for declarer to find that one of the defenders is much more dangerous to have in the lead than the other, and the declarer therefore shapes his play however he can to prevent the dangerous opponent from assuming the lead.

For an unusual application of this principle, we have today's hand where South is in four hearts. He sees he must lose a spade and a diamond and that there also is the danger of losing two club tricks.

One possible way of escaping two club losers is to lead the A-K and another diamond. If the suit happens to be divided 3-2, the two remaining diamonds will become tricks on which two clubs may be discarded. The trouble with this method of play, however, is that East may be the one to win the third diamond lead, whereupon a club return will prove fatal.

So declarer plans his play to avoid East, who is the dangerous opponent. He allows West to win the opening spade lead. Assume West returns the jack of diamonds. Dummy takes the king—it would be wrong to duck because East could win the trick and lead a club.

Continuing his plan of avoiding East, declarer now makes a strange play—he leads a low spade from dummy! West takes the jack and returns the ten of diamonds.

Dummy wins and cashes the ace of spades, South disposing of his diamond. Now South ruffs a diamond high, establishing the 9-8 as winners. Three rounds of trumps are drawn, ending in dummy, and two clubs are discarded on the two good diamonds.

West still gets a club, but declarer makes four.

Join the Gaslight Parade ...or... Look, Ma! They're Comin' Up Our Driveway!

In an election year, which this one is, mention may possibly be made of torchlight parades. For what reason we're not quite sure, since parade-type torches went out with such things as high-button shoes and other oddments from Bygonesville.

One thing that did not go out at this time, as more and more patios are proving every day, is the gaslight. Granted it was born and flourished in an earlier era; all the more reason for its charm today. But—lest one be swayed by its charm alone, pray look at gaslight for its other advantages.

Gaslight gives a gentle, glareless glow, that brings on neither insects nor blinded, belligerent neighbors. No self-respecting patio should be without one. Swimming pools (where friends are wont to drop in unexpectedly) certainly need them. Driveways drive better, walkways walk better, doorways do what they do better when a gaslight's there to "make the scene."

Don't you think you owe it to your barbecue pit or something to get the inside story on outside lighting . . . and how Gas does it better? Laclede's the place to get it—11th and Olive, first floor. They've got models to choose from and salesmen to ask stuff of. And how's that for using a preposition to end a proposition with?

During their two-week safari, they often camped near Indian tribes virtually unknown to white men.

Before concluding their five-week holiday, the three spent time on the island of Trinidad and at the Half Moon Hotel, Montego Bay, Jamaica.

Miss Katherine Meyerand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Meyerand, 1 Churchill lane, returned last week after 15 months' abroad. The major part of her time was spent at Tubingen, Germany, where she worked as a research assistant at the Max Planck Institute for Biology. She attended the University of Tubingen.

Next month she will enroll as a first year student at the School of Medicine, University of Rochester, N. Y. After landing in New York, early last week, aboard the Noordam, Miss Meyerand spent a brief time with her brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Meyerand Jr., of Hartford, Conn.

Miss Sally Etherton, Buffalo, N. Y., will arrive Thursday to spend Labor day weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Murray D. Etherton, 840 North Kirkwood road. Her engagement to Army Lt. Robert W. Cummins of Buffalo was announced recently.

Mrs. Etherton and her younger daughter, Miss Ann Etherton, returned home recently from Tulsa, Okla., where they visited the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kenneth Smith. The Smiths, who have visited here often, will move to Houston, Tex.

Mrs. John D'Arcy entertained guests at an informal tea at her home, 203 South Woodlawn avenue, last week in honor of Miss Barbara Steidemann. The daughter of the Rev. Arthur R. Steidemann, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, will spend the fall and winter attending Portsmouth (England) Girls High School.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Air Conditioning Stirs Some Heat

Dear Martha:

PLEASE TELL ME what to do. We have our home air-conditioned and our neighbor also has her home air-conditioned but her husband is too darn tight to let her turn it on until it's 90 or better outside. Three months ago we had our basement finished and installed a range and oven in it. Since then this neighbor has been coming over two or three times a week to use my oven as she says her oven makes her home too hot. The other night we had company and this neighbor came over to put a pizza in my oven because she, too, had company and didn't want her house to get too hot. Our basement temperature went up about 10 degrees and my husband's temperature went up about 500 degrees. This afternoon she came over to put a pie in our oven and the pie ran over and burned and smoke got all over our tile ceiling. My husband has been telling me to call a halt to this but I haven't had the nerve to tell her. So tonight he got mad and left and didn't come back till after midnight. How can I tell this woman to use her own oven? RED HOT.

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply inclose a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

This woman's crust isn't all on her pie. With people like this, only direct action works. Tell her point blank that your husband objects to her using your gas stove. You may not be able to save her as a friend but you'll save money on your gas.

Dear Martha:

I READ YOUR COLUMN every day and I would like to know something and I want the answer to be straightforward. I have heard from many people that you are a man. Don't be evasive. G.C.

Martha Carr is a woman. Satisfied?

Dear Martha Carr:

THAT PERSON WHO WROTE YOU about their father's grandfather being a veteran of the Mexican War buried in some cemetery in an unmarked grave, should contact the service officer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. I think that Mexican War veteran and others buried in that little cemetery belong in the national cemetery in Washington. JR.G.

FOR SEVERAL WHO HAVE ASKED for information on writing courses, Central, Carondelet and County branches of the Y.W.C.A. will hold day and evening classes from Nov. 7-11. A nationally-known creative writing teacher and coach from New York City will conduct the courses designed to help those who want to write and market fiction and non-fiction. Call now to register at the Y.W.C.A. branch nearest you.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAD PREVIOUSLY written you in regard to a "Parents Without Partners" club here in St. Louis and find out that there is none. I am interested in starting one. How shall I go about it? MRS. N.Z.

Place an ad in the personal columns of the metropolitan newspapers or in your neighborhood newspaper outlining the purpose of the club, which would be, of course, the exchange of ideas between parents rearing children of school age without the help of a mate. Get your school principal to indorse the club. Sorry this column cannot undertake to forward letters from people who might be interested but a personal ad with a box number would be best.

Send self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's leaflet "Names for the New Baby" containing dozens of suggestions to choose from, and "Stork Showers" leaflet containing ideas for invitations, refreshments and entertainment.

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Curvature of Spine

Dear Dr. Molner:

MY 16-YEAR-OLD SON has curvature of the spine. We took him to —— Hospital but they didn't do anything for him. Can anything be done for him? — Mrs. E.F.C.

"Curvature of the spine means the spine is not shaped as it should be. The curvature may be slight or severe, or in between. Many people have curvatures that do no harm, require no treatment, and should be let alone.

Unless the curvature is causing some difficulty, there is no good reason for tinkering with it. The spine, while a strong structure, is a delicately-balanced series of bones that doesn't submit casually to being pushed around or rearranged.

Remember that inside the spinal column is an intricate network of nerves. Remember also that a complex set of muscles and cartilage keep the spine in alignment. If the spine is not causing any trouble, and the curvature is moderate, and there is no reason to think that it will cause any future trouble, by all means let it alone.

The hospital you mentioned is one of the best in the world. If the doctors there did not propose any treatment, there is only one conclusion to draw: They found that the case was not one which required or warranted any treatment.

Suppose that a family physician detects some moderate degree of curvature. If he says nothing—even though the curvature is not of any consequence—patients are likely to comment, "My doctor didn't tell me anything!" If he does say there's a curvature, then the patients are alarmed about it. So what should the doctor do? It's a tough question!

For another instance, there are, unhappily, some varieties of self-styled "healers" who aren't allowed by law to give drugs or do surgery, yet they undertake to talk about such things as "curvatures" or other conditions. They sometimes scare the daylights out of people!

In your case, whatever the source of your original information, you have gone to a truly expert hospital staff, and they found nothing that warranted any treatment. You have done what was best for your son, and you should now relax.

Dear Dr. Molner:

YOUR COLUMN on itch brought back memories and how miserable it can be. I stopped the daily bath or shower, as my skin was dry. No more itch! I notice the letter from your reader mentioned a daily shower. — M.H.

Thanks for your card. People with naturally dry skins add to the risk of itch by taking too many baths or showers which make the skin drier yet. I'm thoroughly in favor of cleanliness, but it is possible to look clean and smell good without taking daily baths.

Dear Dr. Molner:

IS ALFALFA a cure for arthritis?—M.K.

No. Neither eating alfalfa (which nobody does, of course) or drinking "alfalfa tea," will cure arthritis. I don't know that alfalfa tea will hurt anyone, but if it would cure, or even alleviate, arthritis, the word would go around medical circles so fast it would make our heads swim.

Dolores Del Rio Back in Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30 (AP).

DOLORES DEL RIO is making her first Hollywood movie in 18 years—playing Elvis Presley's mother, of all things.

How does she look? Fabulous. She has the same smooth face, the same waist-length auburn hair as when she played Ramona, Evangeline and Madame DuBarry. The record books show her to be 55.

How does she do it?

"I have no particular secrets," she said in her dressing room. "Except perhaps that I am never bored. I think boredom is a woman's worst enemy. When she stops taking interest in what is going on around her, that's when she starts to grow old.

DOLORES DEL RIO

"I am too busy to be bored. I have my home in Mexico, I have my husband (stage and TV producer Lew Riley), whom I married last year. And I have my career.

"Actually, I have had four careers. The first was here in silent films; I started in 'What Price Glory' 34 years ago. The second career was talking films. I was really in trouble, because my English was very poor. But I took lessons and I survived, while most of the other silent stars disappeared."

She remained in Hollywood until 1942. After starring with Orson Welles in "Journey into Fear," she returned to her native land.

"I was unhappy with the kind of roles I was getting," she explained. "Also, I wanted to go home. Something happens to a person who lives too long in a foreign country. He becomes neither a part of the new country, nor of his own. A person needs to have an identity.

"My third career was in Mexican films. I started at an exciting time, when the film industry down there was just beginning. It was a thrill to help it grow and to pioneer new markets in Europe and South America. Now it is a thriving business.

"The stage is my fourth career, and perhaps the most satisfying one. I started it only recently, and it was a real challenge to enter a new medium and to face audiences in different cities. I was playing 'Lady Windemere's Fan' in Buenos Aires when the call came for this picture."

This picture is "Black Star," and she plays an Indian, as she did in so many Hollywood films before. Presley is her half-breed son.

"I had heard about him and had listened to some of his records, but never had seen him on the screen," Miss Del Rio remarked. "I don't think his pictures have played in Mexico. But his records are popular there with the younger crowd, as they are throughout South America.

"I am much impressed with him as a serious, courteous boy who wants to do the best possible work. I think he is going to be very convincing as an Indian boy."

How does Hollywood look after her years away?

"Much different. The studios seem quieter and slower; there doesn't seem to be the excitement we used to know. I was talking to David Selznick and Claudette Colbert at a party the other night. We all agreed that we lived through the cream of the Hollywood times. Those were the glamour days, when you had personalities like Valentino and Garbo. You don't find that kind of glamour here now."

Uncle Ray's Column — The Bird Life in Cuba

By Ramon Coffman

CUBA HAS HAD only a very small tourist trade during the past year, but in normal years it is visited by many thousands of persons each winter, chiefly Americans and Canadians. Taking care of tourists has been called the "second largest business of the Cubans," but the greatest industry is the raising of sugar.

Tourists like the winter climate of Cuba, which is similar to that of southern Florida. While visiting the island (especially when they go to villages or rural areas) tourists are likely to see large numbers of familiar birds, including finches, warblers and orioles. Many of these birds make their nests in southern Canada or northern parts of the United States. They fly to Cuba to spend the winter.

Home on small farm in Cuba.

Perhaps the most interesting bird in Cuba is the fairy hummingbird. This little bird is so small that it could make a nest inside half the shell of an English walnut. Its eggs are the size of small peas. Only the vervain hummingbirds (found on Jamaica) can rival the fairy hummingbird for the place of "smallest bird in the New World."

Cuba has some snakes, but the people say that none have poison fangs. The big snakes known as boa constrictors are found in some of the wilder parts, also here and there in a trash pile in a settled area. Some of them have a length of 10 or 12 feet. They attack furry animals, but seem to let people alone.
